President Adds Spain, Tunisia To Grand Tour

Chief Executive Flies To Georgia Today For Rest

"RIGGING" LESSON — Melvin C. Willett, history teacher at the Freehold (N. J.) Regional High School, tells how he "rigged" history test as a lesson in common honesty to his students. After a class discussion about current stories of TV show "riggings," Willett gave nine students correct answers before test and passed them. He flunked the other. He did it, he said, because most of the students didn't think that the TV show riggings were anything to be perturbed about. After his lesson in honesty, they changed their minds.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will fly to Augusta, Ga., Thursday for a rest before he takes off on a rigorous goodwill tour next month to 11 countries on three continents.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia were added to the list of national leaders Eisenhower will confer with during his travels.

The White House said Wednesday Eisenhower will meet with Bourguiba aboard the cruiser Des Moines off Tunis Dec. 17. This will interrupt a three - day rest cruise the President will take in the Mediterranean from Athens to Toulon, France.

Madrid Dec. 21-22

Eisenhower will cut short his stay in Paris for Western summit talks to 2½ days so he can stop overnight in Madrid Dec. 21-22 for talks with Franco. From there the President will go on to Rabat, Morocco, en route home on Dec. 22.

Franco's invitation was delivered to Eisenhower by Spain's foreign minister, Fernando Maria Castiella, in London Aug. 31 when it appeared the President might not include Madrid on his tour. It reportedly was made clear that Franco would not be happy about being bypassed.

Eisenhower s trip to Augusta will not be all play. He plans conferences there with government officials who are working on recommendations to be submitted to Congress in January.

Weather Bad Last Trip

On his trip to Augusta for five days last month, he ran into cloudy, damp weather and saw little of the outdoors.

Eisenhower is suffering from chronic bronchitis and had been battling a persistent cold. He has said that's why he likes to get to areas of warm sunshine as often as possible.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower certainly would return before Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26. The overseas tour begins midnight Dec. 3.

Mrs. Eisenhower will go by train later to join him in Augusta.

During his three weeks in Europe, Africa and Southern Asia, Eisenhower will visit Italy Turkey, India, Afghanistan, Iran, Greece, Pakistan, France, Spain, Tunisia and Morocco.

Blizzard Still Rips Montana

By United Press International

A blizzard with wind gusts up to 50 miles an hour swept through western and central Montana for the second straight day Wednesday, piling up 10 inches of snow in some places.

Winds were so strong at Stampede Pass, Wash., that heavy, wet snow was blown about like snow flurries. Southeastern Idaho and southern Wyoming were raked by strong winds which gusted at 67 miles an hour at Laramie, Wyo.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said 10 inches of snow covered the ground at Helena and Billings, Mont.

At least one person had been killed in highway accidents on slippery Montana roads, raising the death toll to five in the two-day blizzard.

Four Air Force officers were killed Tuesday when three jets ran out of fuel in the unexpected storm and crashed near Great Falls, Mont.

Montanans shivered in 12 to 20 degree temperatures and the mercury dropped to five below zero in parts of eastern Montana.

Students Assail Krishna Menon, Demand He Quit

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — More than 1,000 shouting students marched to the home of Indian Defense Minister V.K. Krishna Menon Tuesday and demanded that he resign in "the interest of the country."

The students also sent a memorandum to Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru in which they accused Krishna Menon of pro-Communist leanings in the current tension with Red China over the disputed border.

The demonstrating students carried black flags and held high a huge caricature of Krishna Menon drawn on a big piece of cloth.

"Krishna Menon, resign!" the students shouted. "Shame!"

The students ended their procession with a demonstration outside the defense minister's residence. But Krishna Menon was not at home. He was flying home from New York via London but changed his plans and had not yet arrived in New Delhi.

(In London Wednesday just before taking off for New Delhi, Krishna Menon said that India's policy toward Communist China was unchanged despite the border clashes. But he said "we will not be intimidated."

"The best thing we can do is negotiate," the defense minister said. "We will not make an issue of the border clashes but we will defend our own territory.")

In a two-page memorandum delivered later to Nehru's residence the students charged that the defense minister "has of late been behaving in such a way as to forfeit the confidence of peoples in his bona fide patriotism and capacity to inspire the armed forces."

Transatlantic Cable Break Area Scouted

Canada Requests Patrol Flights By U.S. Navy Planes

ARGENTIA, Newfoundland (UPI) — U. S. Navy aircraft made a number of "surveillance" flights Wednesday off the northeast coast of Newfoundland where a break in a transatlantic cable was reported.

A spokesman at the U.S. base here, said the request for the surveillance patrols came from the Canadian government following a break in the cable three days ago.

A Russian fishing trawler broke an underseas cable off the Canadian coast last February. At that time, the U.S. State Department said the trawler had acted either wilfully or negligently and demanded that Russia punish those responsible.

The U.S. Navy spokesman said the new break was reported three days ago. Planes patrolling the area were asked to report what ships were in the immediate vicinity. However, the spokesman said that by the time the report of the broken cable had been received here and action taken, any ship responsible for damaging the cable could be more than one hundred miles from the scene.

He said it was definitely not the same type of incident as the one last February in which a party from a U.S. destroyer boarded the Russian fishing trawler off the Newfoundland coast.

In Halifax, N.S., a spokesman for the Royal Canadian Air Force said the break was believed due to "natural causes" and no plans have been made for an air sweep from Halifax.

AT&T Cable Damaged

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said Wednesday one of its main transatlantic telephone cables has been damaged off Nova Scotia—just how, it does not yet know.

An AT&T spokesman said the cable ceased to function Monday morning.

The cable carries up to 36 telephone conversations simultaneously and is the westbound half of one cable system. The AT&T has two such systems.

The spokesman said additional radio-telephone circuits have been set up and there has been no appreciable delay in service.

Police Search For Booby-Trap Bomb Motive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police searched for a motive Wednesday in a booby-trap bombing that blew off the legs of a housewife when she opened the door of her garage on Staten Island Tuesday night.

The victim, Mrs. Concetta Giarletta, 41, was reported in critical condition in St. Vincent's Hospital where surgeons removed metal fragments from her abdomen, arms and other parts of her body.

"Why should anyone hurt me?" Mrs. Giarletta was quoted as saying. "I have tried to help everyone and be so good."

Police said Mrs. Giarletta triggered an explosive device, possibly a hand grenade, when she opened the garage door to let her husband, Frank, 50, drive in after they had returned home from a visit to her mother and a hot dog snack at the Staten Island ferry terminal.

3 Nurses Reported Missing Found Safe

JEMEZ SPRINGS, N.M. (UPI) —Three Albuquerque, N.M., nurses, missing in the rugged Jemez mountains north of here in freezing temperatures overnight, were found safe Wednesday and surprised they had been the object of a widespread search since dawn.

The three told state police who participated in the search they had car trouble while on an outing into the mountains Tuesday and had spent the night at the home of a Mrs. Long.

The nurses were identified as Margaret Burke, 35, Jean Yelvington, 21, and Maxine Stephens, 33.

Florida Democrat Appointed To CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alan S. Boyd, a Florida utilities commissioner and a Democrat, was appointed by President Eisenhower Wednesday to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Boyd, a Miami lawyer and chairman of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Louis J. Hector, whose term runs to Dec. 31, 1962.

Story Churchill Almost Died On '43 Flight Denied

LONDON (AP)—Did ailing Sir Winston Churchill almost die on a plane flight in North Africa in World War II?

Yes, says a Royal Air Force medical officer who was there. Nonsense, says Churchill's personal physician, who also was there.

Lord Moran, Churchill's physician at the time, denied Wednesday Churchill ever was in danger on a flight in December of 1943 from Carthage to Marrakesh in Morocco, where Churchill recuperated from pneumonia and heart irregularities.

But Air Vice Marshal Thomas J. Kelly released an excerpt from his diary describing Churchill as "looking slightly cyanosed (blue) in the face" as his plane went higher than planned to avoid a storm.

Kelly, then a senior medical officer in the Royal Air Force, wrote in his diary that Lord Moran insisted before the flight that oxygen equipment would not be needed.

"I considered oxygen was essential," Kelly wrote, "and if necessary would travel in the aircraft."

Kelly recalled noting Churchill's complexion and quickening pulse as the plane started flying higher. He urged Moran to administer oxygen.

"It is your affair, you take charge," Moran said, according to Kelly's diary. "You are responsible."

Kelly gave Churchill the oxygen mask as the plane rose to 10,000 feet. The mask was used for the rest of the 1,200-mile flight. His color and pulse returned to normal, Kelly wrote.

Four Of W.Va. Family Killed In Truck Crash

The battered wreckage of two trucks gives mute testimony of violence which virtually wiped out a West Virginia family 12 miles west of Lebanon, Mo., yesterday. Killed were Mrs. Mary Jane Mattox, Huntington, W. Va., and her three children—Donna, 4; William, Jr., 2, and Bruce, six months. Mattox, 27, his brother and a friend were hospitalized as was the driver of the large truck, C. A. Mueller, 33, St. Louis. Mueller's truck struck Mattox's stalled vehicle. (AP Photofax)

Mitchell Pays Bet By Eating Cake Fedora

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell fudged a bit Wednesday in a public payoff of a losing bet, one he said he shouldn't have lost.

The Cabinet member ate a cake hat on the Labor Department's front steps. It was a mocha and chocolate model of his fedora. That's tastier than felt, but even cake isn't very appetizing at 9 a.m. when the spectacle took place.

The symbolic penalty was paid because Mitchell last spring forecast employment improvements that didn't quite pan out this fall. Mitchell said he would have won if it hadn't been for the long steel strike.

Accordingly, he cut healthy slices of the cake hat to send to R. Conrad Cooper and David J. McDonald, chief negotiators respectively for the steel industry and United Steelworkers Union.

"They certainly are responsible in part for this performance," Mitchell said.

Then gingerly cutting off a thin slice for himself, he moralized that "this shows you shouldn't make a bet." Asked how the cake tasted at that hour, he commented that his taste buds weren't quite perking.

The Labor Department report issued Wednesday showed employment rose 484,000 in October to 66,831,000, a record for the month. Unemployment rose 42,000 to 3,272,000.

This was 169,000 fewer employed than the 67 million for October which Mitchell had predicted last April. And it represented 272,000 more idle than the three million he forecast.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said last spring that Mitchell was talking through his hat in making the predictions. It was then the labor secretary made the hat-eating wager with himself.

Task Of Searching For Contaminated Cranberries Begins

None Found On First Day Of Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts began Wednesday their tedious task of searching for more contaminated cranberries but they reported none turned up.

That word came from the Food and Drug Administration which had dispatched 100 inspectors and 60 chemists to various points throughout the country on a hurry-up combing of the cranberry bogs and grocery stocks.

The experts ignored Veterans Day, a holiday for federal workers, to get their job started, hoping to clear up the situation before housewives set out on their Thanksgiving shopping.

Ambrose E. Stevens, executive vice president of Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., the largest handler of the crop, said the FDA had asked his organization to conduct most of the tests for traces of a weed-killer which has produced cancer in rats.

He said steps were being taken for speedy assays of crops grown in all the cranberry - growing states — Massachusetts, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Washington and Oregon.

"We shall announce the results at the earlier possible date, hopefully in time for the housewife to purchase her Thanksgiving cranberries with confidence," Stevens said.

The FDA disclosed that it had taken court action in San Francisco Tuesday to seize the two shipments of contaminated berries that touched off the cranberry furor, both from Oregon.

Commissioner George P. Larrick said the FDA filed suit in U.S. District Court there asking legal seizure of one shipment that already has been disposed of. The other, he said, was still in a warehouse.

Involved were 14 tons of cranberries shipped from Coos Bay, Ore., to Modesto, Calif., where they were stored.

Meanwhile, arguments continued over whether to buy or not to buy cranberries.

The FDA stuck by its advice that housewives hold off buying cranberries—fresh or canned—until the situation is clarified.

Among the cranberry men who maintained there is no reason why people should not eat cranberries now or during the holiday season was Dr. Chester A. Cross.

He presides over the University of Massachusetts agricultural experiment station, center of learning about cranberries in a state that grows about half the world's crop.

Cross noted that only from Oregon and Washington have come reports of cranberries being contaminated by a risky weed killer.

Furthermore, Cross said, he personally would eat a helping even of the suspected West Coast cranberries with no more concern than he would feel over smoking a single cigaret.

The Army and Navy Wednesday suspended use of cranberries but confined the order to the Washington-Oregon area. The Air Force did not say what it would do.

Garcia's Foes Maintain Lead

MANILA (AP)—President Carlos P. Garcia's Nacionalista party machine began delivering batches of votes from the rural Philippines Thursday. But opposing parties clung to their lead in five of the eight Senate races.

With less than half the votes counted in the Tuesday election, it appeared that Garcia's chances in the 1961 presidential race had been jolted.

Garcia foes, who charged the administration with graft and corruption, routed his candidates in the cities.

Arsenio H. Lacson, a dissident Nacionalista who has called Garcia a national disaster, enhanced his own presidential ambitions by sweeping easily to a third term as mayor in Manila. The Garcia ranks suffered a like defeat in another key city, Cebu.

Another presidential hopeful, the young Liberal party stalwart Ferdinand Marcos, led all Senate candidates and pushed his lead over his nearest competitor past the 100,000 mark in a surprising showing.

Senators are elected from the nation at large. The eight candidates receiving the largest number of votes will get the eight Senate seats thrown open in this election.

Nacionalista control of the Senate was not threatened. The party has 13 holdovers in the 24-man body.

All three parties, Nacionalista, Liberal and Grand Alliance, are anti-Communist and considered pro-Western.

Will Eisenhower Eat Cranberries? Answer Evaded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House avoided a direct answer when asked Wednesday whether President Eisenhower will eat cranberries on Thanksgiving Day.

"We will face that on Thanksgiving Day," said Anne W. Wheaton, associate press secretary.

N.Y. Governor Invades Nixon's Home Bailiwick

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller left by airliner Wednesday night to invade Richard M. Nixon's West Coast political stronghold for the first time in a key test of his chances to win the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller was due in Los Angeles aboard Trans-World Airlines flight 6223 at 7:15 a.m. p.s.t. (10:15 a.m. e.s.t.)

He will make a four-day swing through California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho, during which he will fill a heavy schedule of speeches, interviews, press conferences, receptions, dinners and huddles with Republican leaders.

While Rockefeller assesses his chances in California, Nixon will be in Wisconsin, drumming up support for the 1960 GOP nominating convention.

Rockefeller has not declared himself a candidate. He has made it clear that he might become one, but only if he has a reasonable chance to win the nomination over Nixon, considered by many to be the front runner right now.

The biggest question Rockefeller must answer in reaching his decision is "How do I stand in California and other west coast states?" His trip is aimed at answering that question.

During visits to Los Angeles and San Francisco; Eugene, Corvallis and Salem, Ore.; Seattle, Wash., and Boise, Idaho, Rockefeller will make at least five major speeches and possibly several informal talks.

He has scheduled at least 13 news conferences or radio and television interviews during his four days on the west coast. And there will be many meetings with Republican officials, either at receptions or conferences. These will total possibly 15.

Scientist Faces New Quiz In Divorcee Death Puzzle

PALM SPRINGS, Calif (AP)—Authorities investigating the puzzling death of an attractive Hollywood divorcee plan to requestion a wealthy scientist - businessman who apparently was one of the last to see her alive.

The body of Lillian Lenorak, 42, twice-divorced film cutter, was found Sunday on a little-used road outside this plush desert resort.

Mrs. Lenorak drove here Saturday with a friend, Dr. Frank G. Back of Hollywood and New York, an optical physicist who developed the Zoomar lens for movie and television cameras.

Back told investigators that after they arrived she asked him to give her the key to his Palm Springs home and became furious when he refused.

Back, 52, said the last he saw of her was when he let her out in downtown Palm Springs about 8:30 Saturday night.

Back said he spent Sunday here, then drove back to Hollywood with Mrs. Lenorak's suitcase, assuming she was staying with friends in Palm Springs. Later, when he heard an unidentified body had been found in the desert, he called police and told them it might be Mrs. Lenorak.

An investigator said Wednesday Back would be questioned again, but added there was nothing to connect him to the murder.

Back, 52, said he met Mrs. Lenorak lest February.

Mrs. Lenorak's body was found by a motorist. An autopsy showed she died of multiple blows on the face.

Fact-Finders Will Keep Eye On New Talks

Group Will Help Try To Avert New Strike In January

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, trying to head off renewal of the crippling steel strike this winter, recalled his fact-finders Wednesday and ordered them to help find a peace formula.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower "trusts that both sides will recognize their responsibilities to the United States and will continue negotiations and reach a settlement as soon as possible."

The three-man fact-finding panel was instructed to cooperate with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. It appeared the groups would get going in about two weeks.

The President took the step as steel mills gradually returned to normal under an 80-day truce ordered by the federal courts. More than half of the 500,000 steelworkers were back at work under a Taft-Hartley law injunction. The rest were expected on the job by the weekend.

Mitchell Expects Settlement

In related developments:

1. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said all America expects the United Steelworkers Union and the steel producers to settle their differences and sign a contract without a renewed strike in January. Until stopped by court order last Saturday, the strike had lasted 116 days.

2. AFL - CIO President George Meany urged his federation's 13½ million members to keep up contributions to support the Steelworkers Union "until the hour the strike is settled."

3. The union's 40-man Executive Board and its 171-member Wage Policy Committee prepared to meet Thursday in New York. Union President David J. McDonald, in calling the meetings, said Monday the purpose was to give a situation report.

In reconvening his fact-finding panel—created last month as a preliminary to court action in the steel dispute—Eisenhower followed procedure set forth under the Taft-Hartley law.

How T-H Law Works

He acted four days after the back-to-work order was upheld by the Supreme Court and put into effect.

The Taft-Hartley law provides that fact-finding boards shall report to the President 60 days after a strike has been ended by injunction. In this case, the 60 days started Saturday.

If the dispute has not been settled by the end of the 60 days, the panel is obliged to report to the President the final offer made by the companies to the union.

After this report, the National Labor Relations Board is given 15 days to take a vote among union members on whether to accept that final management offer.

If the offer is rejected, the union is free to strike at the end of the 80-day "cooling-off" period — and the government is powerless to prevent it from doing so.

GM Suspends Car Production

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, which has facilities to build almost 2,000 cars per hour, stopped auto production Wednesday because it hasn't enough finished steel to build even one complete car.

Normally at this time of year GM's five carmaking divisions would be turning out upward of 80,000 units a week.

Assembly of Chevrolet Corvette sports cars stopped at St. Louis during the day. The final line scheduled to close was at Willow run, just outside Detroit — home plant of the new little Chevrolet Corvair.

Most GM lines have been down for 10 days and production was curtailed even before then by parts shortages. Total GM layoffs run about 220,000 hourly employes from a normal work force of 320,000.

The shutdown will last until enough steel can be obtained, and parts processed, to fill supply lines at the assembly plants. GM has declined to estimate how long this might be. Industry sources expect the shutdown to last about four weeks.

Kelly recalled noting Churchill's complexion and quickening pulse as the plane started flying higher. He urged Moran to administer oxygen.

"It is your affair, you take charge," Moran said, according to Kelly's diary. "You are responsible."

Kelly gave Churchill the oxygen mask as the plane rose to 10,000 feet. The mask was used for the rest of the 1,200-mile flight. His color and pulse returned to normal, Kelly wrote.

Four Of W.Va. Family Killed In Truck Crash

The battered wreckage of two trucks gives mute testimony of violence which virtually wiped out a West Virginia family 12 miles west of Lebanon, Mo., yesterday. Killed were Mrs. Mary Jane Mattox, Huntington, W. Va., and her three children—Donna, 4; William, Jr., 2, and Bruce, six months. Mattox, 27, his brother and a friend were hospitalized as was the driver of the large truck, C. A. Mueller, 33, St. Louis. Mueller's truck struck Mattox's stalled vehicle. (AP Photofax)

Mitchell Pays Bet By Eating Cake Fedora

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell fudged a bit Wednesday in a public payoff of a losing bet, one he said he shouldn't have lost.

The Cabinet member ate a cake hat on the Labor Department's front steps. It was a mocha and chocolate model of his fedora. That's tastier than felt, but even cake isn't very appetizing at 9 a.m. when the spectacle took place.

The symbolic penalty was paid because Mitchell last spring forecast employment improvements that didn't quite pan out this fall. Mitchell said he would have won if it hadn't been for the long steel strike.

Accordingly, he cut healthy slices of the cake hat to send to R. Conrad Cooper and David J. McDonald, chief negotiators respectively for the steel industry and United Steelworkers Union.

"They certainly are responsible in part for this performance," Mitchell said.

Then gingerly cutting off a thin slice for himself, he moralized that "this shows you shouldn't make a bet." Asked how the cake tasted at that hour, he commented that his taste buds weren't quite perking.

The Labor Department report issued Wednesday showed employment rose 484,000 in October to 66,831,000, a record for the month. Unemployment rose 42,000 to 3,272,000.

This was 163,000 fewer employed than the 67 million for October which Mitchell had predicted last April. And it represented 272,000 more idle than the three million he forecast.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said last spring that Mitchell was talking through his hat in making the predictions. It was then the labor secretary made the hat-eating wager with himself.

3 Nurses Reported Missing Found Safe

JEMEZ SPRINGS, N.M. (UPI) —Three Albuquerque, N.M., nurses, missing in the rugged Jemez mountains north of here in freezing temperatures overnight, were found safe Wednesday and surprised they had been the object of a widespread search since dawn.

The three told state police who participated in the search they had car trouble while on an outing into the mountains Tuesday and had spent the night at the home of a Mrs. Long.

The nurses were identified as Margaret Burke, 35, Jean Yelvington, 21, and Maxine Stephens, 33.

Florida Democrat Appointed To CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alan S. Boyd, a Florida utilities commissioner and a Democrat, was appointed by President Eisenhower Wednesday to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Boyd, a Miami lawyer and chairman of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Louis J. Hector, whose term runs to Dec. 31, 1962.

Task Of Searching For Contaminated Cranberries Begins

None Found On First Day Of Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts began Wednesday their tedious task of searching for more contaminated cranberries but they reported none turned up.

That word came from the Food and Drug Administration which had dispatched 100 inspectors and 60 chemists to various points throughout the country on a hurry-up combing of the cranberry bogs and grocery stocks.

The experts ignored Veterans Day, a holiday for federal workers, to get their job started, hoping to clear up the situation before housewives set out on their Thanksgiving shopping.

Ambrose E. Stevens, executive vice president of Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., the largest handler of the crop, said the FDA had asked his organization to conduct most of the tests for traces of a weed-killer which has produced cancer in rats.

He said steps were being taken for speedy assays of crops grown in all the cranberry - growing states — Massachusetts, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Washington and Oregon.

"We shall announce the results at the earlier possible date, hopefully in time for the housewife to purchase her Thanksgiving cranberries with confidence," Stevens said.

The FDA disclosed that it had taken court action in San Francisco Tuesday to seize the two shipments of contaminated berries that touched off the cranberry furor, both from Oregon.

Commissioner George P. Larrick said the FDA filed suit in U.S. District Court there asking legal seizure of one shipment that already has been disposed of. The other, he said, was still in a warehouse.

Involved were 14 tons of cranberries shipped from Coos Bay, Ore., to Modesto, Calif., where they were stored.

Meanwhile, arguments continued over whether to buy or not to buy cranberries.

The FDA stuck by its advice that housewives hold off buying cranberries—fresh or canned—until the situation is clarified.

Among the cranberry men who maintained there is no reason why people should not eat cranberries now or during the holiday season was Dr. Chester A. Cross.

He presides over the University of Massachusetts agricultural experiment station, center of learning about cranberries in a state that grows about half the world's crop.

Cross noted that only from Oregon and Washington have come reports of cranberries being contaminated by a risky weed killer.

Furthermore, Cross said, he personally would eat a helping even of the suspected West Coast cranberries with no more concern than he would feel over smoking a single cigaret.

The Army and Navy Wednesday suspended use of cranberries but confined the order to the Washington-Oregon area. The Air Force did not say what it would do.

Garcia's Foes Maintain Lead

MANILA (AP)—President Carlos P. Garcia's Nacionalista party machine began delivering batches of votes from the rural Philippines Thursday. But opposing parties clung to their lead in five of the eight Senate races.

With less than half the votes counted in the Tuesday election, it appeared that Garcia's chances in the 1961 presidential race had been jolted.

Garcia foes, who charged the administration with graft and corruption, routed his candidates in the cities.

Arsenio H. Lacson, a dissident Nacionalista who has called Garcia a national disaster, enhanced his own presidential ambitions by sweeping easily to a third term as mayor in Manila. The Garcia ranks suffered a like defeat in another key city, Cebu.

Another presidential hopeful, the young Liberal party stalwart Ferdinand Marcos, led all Senate candidates and pushed his lead over his nearest competitor past the 100,000 mark in a surprising showing.

Senators are elected from the nation at large. The eight candidates receiving the largest number of votes will get the eight Senate seats thrown open in this election.

Nacionalista control of the Senate was not threatened. The party has 13 holdovers in the 24-man body.

Will Eisenhower Eat Cranberries? Answer Evaded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House avoided a direct answer when asked Wednesday whether President Eisenhower will eat cranberries on Thanksgiving Day.

"We will face that on Thanksgiving Day," said Anne W. Wheaton, associate press secretary.

N.Y. Governor Invades Nixon's Home Bailiwick

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller left by airliner Wednesday night to invade Richard M. Nixon's West Coast political stronghold for the first time in a key test of his chances to win the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller was due in Los Angeles aboard Trans-World Airlines flight 6223 at 7:15 a.m. p.s.t. (10:15 a.m. e.s.t.)

He will make a four-day swing through California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho, during which he will fill a heavy schedule of speeches, interviews, press conferences, receptions, dinners and huddles with Republican leaders.

While Rockefeller assesses his chances in California, Nixon will be in Wisconsin, drumming up support for the 1960 GOP nominating convention.

Rockefeller has not declared himself a candidate. He has made it clear that he might become one, but only if he has a reasonable chance to win the nomination over Nixon, considered by many to be the front runner right now.

The biggest question Rockefeller must answer in reaching his decision is "How do I stand in California and other west coast states?" His trip is aimed at answering that question.

During visits to Los Angeles and San Francisco; Eugene, Corvallis and Salem, Ore.; Seattle, Wash., and Boise, Idaho, Rockefeller will make at least five major speeches and possibly several informal talks.

He has scheduled at least 13 news conferences or radio and television interviews during his four days on the west coast. And there will be many meetings with Republican officials, either at receptions or conferences. These will total possibly 15.

Scientist Faces New Quiz In Divorcee Death Puzzle

PALM SPRINGS, Calif (AP)—Authorities investigating the puzzling death of an attractive Hollywood divorcee plan to requestion a wealthy scientist - businessman who apparently was one of the last to see her alive.

The body of Lillian Lenorak, 42, twice-divorced film cutter, was found Sunday on a little-used road outside this plush desert resort.

Mrs. Lenorak drove here Saturday with a friend, Dr. Frank G. Back of Hollywood and New York, an optical physicist who developed the Zoomar lens for movie and television cameras.

Back told investigators that after they arrived she asked him to give her the key to his Palm Springs home and became furious when he refused.

Back, 52, said the last he saw of her was when he let her out in downtown Palm Springs about 8:30 Saturday night.

Back said he spent Sunday here, then drove back to Hollywood with Mrs. Lenorak's suitcase, assuming she was staying with friends in Palm Springs. Later, when he heard an unidentified body had been found in the desert, he called police and told them it might be Mrs. Lenorak.

An investigator said Wednesday Back would be questioned again, but added there was nothing to connect him to the murder.

Back, 52, said he met Mrs. Lenorak lest February.

Mrs. Lenorak's body was found by a motorist. An autopsy showed she died of multiple blows on the face.

Group Will Help Try To Avert New Strike In January

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, trying to head off renewal of the crippling steel strike this winter, recalled his fact-finders Wednesday and ordered them to help find a peace formula.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower "trusts that both sides will recognize their responsibilities to the United States and will continue negotiations and reach a settlement as soon as possible."

The three-man fact-finding panel was instructed to cooperate with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. It appeared the groups would get going in about two weeks.

The President took the step as steel mills gradually returned to normal under an 80-day truce ordered by the federal courts. More than half of the 500,000 steelworkers were back at work under a Taft-Hartley law injunction. The rest were expected on the job by the weekend.

Mitchell Expects Settlement

In related developments:

1. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said all America expects the United Steelworkers Union and the steel producers to settle their differences and sign a contract without a renewed strike in January. Until stopped by court order last Saturday, the strike had lasted 116 days.

2. AFL - CIO President George Meany urged his federation's 13½ million members to keep up contributions to support the Steelworkers Union "until the hour the strike is settled."

3. The union's 40-man Executive Board and its 171-member Wage Policy Committee prepared to meet Thursday in New York. Union President David J. McDonald, in calling the meetings, said Monday the purpose was to give a situation report.

In reconvening his fact-finding panel—created last month as a preliminary to court action in the steel dispute—Eisenhower followed procedure set forth under the Taft-Hartley law.

How T-H Law Works

He acted four days after the back-to-work order was upheld by the Supreme Court and put into effect.

The Taft-Hartley law provides that fact-finding boards shall report to the President 60 days after a strike has been ended by injunction. In this case, the 60 days started Saturday.

If the dispute has not been settled by the end of the 60 days, the panel is obliged to report to the President the final offer made by the companies to the union.

After this report, the National Labor Relations Board is given 15 days to take a vote among union members on whether to accept that final management offer.

If the offer is rejected, the union is free to strike at the end of the 80-day "cooling-off" period — and the government is powerless to prevent it from doing so.

GM Suspends Car Production

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, which has facilities to build almost 2,000 cars per hour, stopped auto production Wednesday because it hasn't enough finished steel to build even one complete car.

Normally at this time of year GM's five carmaking divisions would be turning out upward of 80,000 units a week.

Assembly of Chevrolet Corvette sports cars stopped at St. Louis during the day. The final line scheduled to close was at Willow run, just outside Detroit — home plant of the new little Chevrolet Corvair.

Most GM lines have been down for 10 days and production was curtailed even before then by parts shortages. Total GM layoffs run about 220,000 hourly employes from a normal work force of 320,000.

The shutdown will last until enough steel can be obtained, and parts processed, to fill supply lines at the assembly plants. GM has declined to estimate how long this might be. Industry sources expect the shutdown to last about four weeks.

Steelworkers' First Pay Will Go Mostly For Bills

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steelworker's wives, who pinched pennies during the 116-day nationwide strike, already know how they will spend their husbands' first pay checks.

For the most part, the first checks will be used to pay bills. What's left—and in most cases it will be very little—the housewives plan to use for a little Christmas shopping.

"Most of my husband's first check will go toward paying the milk and grocery bills," said Mrs. Anthony Amantea of Pittsburgh. Her husband is a motor inspector at U.S. Steel Corp. Homestead works.

"We let most of the bills mount up during the strike. Now we're going to pay them off as quickly as we can. Some of the money will go toward Christmas shopping. Our three children will like that. And Mike and I could use some new clothes and shoes, too," she said.

Mrs Michael Diperna of Pittsburgh, whose husband is employed at Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. South Side works, outlined similar plans.

"First the bills will be paid, and goodness knows, there's enough of them," she said. "Our children need clothes. And then, Christmas is just around the corner." The Dipernas have three children.

Anticipation of the first pay also is causing excited preparation in clothing and food stores.

Britain Won Over To April Summit Talks

PARIS (AP)—The British government has been won over to the view that an East-West summit conference is not feasible before April, diplomatic sources reported Wednesday.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd came to Paris for two days of talks with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. Official spokesmen say most of their conversation in the opening session was on summit questions.

An informed source said there was general agreement that the top talks could not be held until after a visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to France. Khrushchev is to arrive in Paris March 15 for a two-week stay.

The British position always has been that the talks should be held as soon as possible.

But it was understood that Khrushchev himself picked the date for his trip after President Charles de Gaulle expressed a desire to receive him any time between Feb. 20 and the end of March.

Since Khrushchev has been saying he wanted to meet the chiefs of France, Britain and the United States as soon as possible, his choice of the date late in March might indicate that he has dropped rush tactics.

Gaithersburg Officials Defend "Compensation"

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Nine Gaithersburg officials, most of them Town Council members, went before the Court of Appeals Wednesday to defend their "compensation" from town funds.

Roy L. Talbott, former councilman who brought the original suit, preferred to call the money "pay."

That's the nub of the dispute—whether the funds voted by the council were for out-of-pocket expenses or whether they were for pay.

The Montgomery County Circuit Court agreed with Talbott, that it was pay, and therefore illegal under the county code. The officials were ordered to make restitution.

Appealing were Councilmen E. Russell Gloyd, John E. Griffith, Rodney M. Thompson, ex-Councilmen G. Sprigg Ward, Samuel Briggs (deceased), George W. Marshall, Charles P. Fox, former Mayor Harry C. Peters Sr. and John M. Mannix, council secretary-treasurer.

Some of the officials allegedly received more than $1,000 over a period of several years.

The Montgomery County code states that the mayor and Council of Gaithersburg "shall receive no pay for their services as such." On July 3, 1950, the Council voted to give the mayor $25 a month and each councilman $15.

Attorneys for the town officials said the money was not payment for "services as such" but for additionally assigned duties or for out-of-pocket expenses, such as use of automobile in town service.

They also argued that the statute of limitations on prosecution had passed and the officials did not have proper say on the amount of restitution they were ordered to make.

High Court May Have To Bone Up On This Question

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals was asked Wednesday whether a person has grounds for suing if he swallows a bone from a can of "boned chicken."

Leo A. Bryer, whose 14-year-old daughter Susan swallowed the bone, put the question to the high court in an appeal from Montgomery County Circuit Court.

The Circuit Court judge ruled that the presence of the bone was not sufficient grounds for submitting the case to a jury.

Attorneys for Bryer argued the lower court erred in not allowing a jury to decide whether there was negligence on the part of the firm, the Rath Packing Co.

The packing company contended it could not be held responsible for a bone or two slipping through and that it was not negligent in failing to put a warning on the label.

Fireman Makes Sale After Quelling Blaze

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A volunteer fireman selling tickets for a Thanksgiving dance was enthusiastically greeted at a Landover Hills home last night.

"You're just in time," exclaimed Mrs. John Malachovsky. "My kitchen's on fire."

Richard Dietz, a member of the Landover Hills Volunteer Fire Department, didn't find the kitchen on fire. But he did find a grease fire in the oven and quickly put it out.

He advised Mrs. Malachovsky to keep some baking powder on hand for such emergencies and then sold her a ticket to the dance.

Cop Slayer Again Sentenced To Death

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Johnny Brown, 38-year-old cook, was sentenced again Wednesday to die in the gas chamber for the murder of a Salisbury policeman.

The first conviction of first degree murder and subsequent death sentence were upset by the Court of Appeals on a technicality and a new trial was ordered.

A jury of nine men and three women last week found Brown guilty after deliberating a half-hour.

Patrolman Henry Stephens was shot to death in a Salisbury alley after he had taken Brown into custody on a charge of forging a worthless check. They were on their way to the police station when the shooting occurred.

The first conviction was upset by the Court of Appeals, which said the state erred in not having questioned each juror about racial prejudice which might influence their verdict. Brown is a Negro.

Veterans Day Parades Held In Md. Cities

By The Associated Press

Maryland cities marked Veterans Day with parades, memorial services and speeches Wednesday as generally overcast skies lent a somber note to the observance.

Hagerstown staged a long afternoon parade that included numerous bands, military and other units.

Among the marchers was the Air Force Command Band from Bolling Air Force Base, Washington, D. C. Thousands of spectators who lined the streets also saw the first public display of the local National Guard's six new tanks.

Jet planes from the Air National Guard at Martinsburg, W. Va., streaked overhead.

To add a sprightly touch, about 50 antique automobiles — some dating back 50 years — chugged along the street under their own power and driven by their proud owners who fool around with the "buggies" as a hobby.

Another old-time flavor were units from Living History Inc., a group representing Civil War companies. Included were the Union's Sharpsburg Rifles and Rebels known as Washington County Confederate artillery and cavalry.

By contrast, Cumberland staged a night parade that nevertheless got an enthusiastic welcome from crowds that lined Baltimore Street in the chill temperatures.

At Frederick, the Francis Scott Key post of the American Legion held two services. One was at Memorial Park in honor of World War I dead and the second, at the Courthouse Park in honor of those killed in World War II and the Korean War.

Practically Instantaneous Pregnancy Test Is Cheap

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A pathologist Wednesday night announced a new pregnancy test that involves an electroplating process similar to the one used to plate nickel or chromium on other metals.

The test is cheap, practically instantaneous, and, on the basis of 1,500 laboratory tests, as accurate as 100 per cent on uncomplicated cases, said Dr. Walter H. Hartung Jr.

Dr. Hartung, pathologist at St. Charles Hospital here, said the test may be valuable in the early recognition of certain complications during pregnancy, making immediate treatment possible and cutting down on miscarriages.

Dr. Hartung described the test at the hospital's annual staff meeting.

Here's what takes place: A sample of 10 cubic centimeters of urine from the subject is placed in a machine light enough to be carried into any home or doctor's office and capable of operating on flashlight batteries.

The specimen is charged with direct current voltage. This plates an anode in the machine with a black deposit believed to be a hormone complex.

The amount and significance of the deposit can be read visually or by a photo-electric recorder.

Richard Dietz, a member of the Landover Hills Volunteer Fire Department, didn't find the kitchen on fire. But he did find a grease fire in the oven and quickly put it out.

He advised Mrs. Malachovsky to keep some baking powder on hand for such emergencies and then sold her a ticket to the dance.

Cop Slayer Again Sentenced To Death

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Johnny Brown, 38-year-old cook, was sentenced again Wednesday to die in the gas chamber for the murder of a Salisbury policeman.

The first conviction of first degree murder and subsequent death sentence were upset by the Court of Appeals on a technicality and a new trial was ordered.

A jury of nine men and three women last week found Brown guilty after deliberating a half-hour.

Patrolman Henry Stephens was shot to death in a Salisbury alley after he had taken Brown into custody on a charge of forging a worthless check. They were on their way to the police station when the shooting occurred.

The first conviction was upset by the Court of Appeals, which said the state erred in not having questioned each juror about racial prejudice which might influence their verdict. Brown is a Negro.

Veterans Day Parades Held In Md. Cities

By The Associated Press

Maryland cities marked Veterans Day with parades, memorial services and speeches Wednesday as generally overcast skies lent a somber note to the observance.

Hagerstown staged a long afternoon parade that included numerous bands, military and other units.

Among the marchers was the Air Force Command Band from Bolling Air Force Base, Washington, D. C. Thousands of spectators who lined the streets also saw the first public display of the local National Guard's six new tanks.

Jet planes from the Air National Guard at Martinsburg, W. Va., streaked overhead.

To add a sprightly touch, about 50 antique automobiles — some dating back 50 years — chugged along the street under their own power and driven by their proud owners who fool around with the "buggies" as a hobby.

Another old-time flavor were units from Living History Inc., a group representing Civil War companies. Included were the Union's Sharpsburg Rifles and Rebels known as Washington County Confederate artillery and cavalry.

By contrast, Cumberland staged a night parade that nevertheless got an enthusiastic welcome from crowds that lined Baltimore Street in the chill temperatures.

At Frederick, the Francis Scott Key post of the American Legion held two services. One was at Memorial Park in honor of World War I dead and the second, at the Courthouse Park in honor of those killed in World War II and the Korean War.

Practically Instantaneous Pregnancy Test Is Cheap

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A pathologist Wednesday night announced a new pregnancy test that involves an electroplating process similar to the one used to plate nickel or chromium on other metals.

The test is cheap, practically instantaneous, and, on the basis of 1,500 laboratory tests, as accurate as 100 per cent on uncomplicated cases, said Dr. Walter H. Hartung Jr.

Dr. Hartung, pathologist at St. Charles Hospital here, said the test may be valuable in the early recognition of certain complications during pregnancy, making immediate treatment possible and cutting down on miscarriages.

Dr. Hartung described the test at the hospital's annual staff meeting.

Here's what takes place: A sample of 10 cubic centimeters of urine from the subject is placed in a machine light enough to be carried into any home or doctor's office and capable of operating on flashlight batteries.

The specimen is charged with direct current voltage. This plates an anode in the machine with a black deposit believed to be a hormone complex.

The amount and significance of the deposit can be read visually or by a photo-electric recorder.

RIAL Saturates Nation With Church Message

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI)—Madison Avenue is saturating the nation with a catchy "commercial" this month — "find the strength for your life . . . worship together this week."

More than eight million dollars worth of time and space are being contributed to distribution of this non-controversial message to Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews.

The program is sponsored by Religion in American Life, more widely known as RIAL. This is a non-sectarian movement emphasizing the importance of religion in both personal and community life.

RIAL's 11-year-old program is sponsored by a 70-member lay committee headed by former Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, a textile manufacturer.

Its aim is simple—to persuade as many families as it can to go to church together every Sunday.

The message is going to the nation on 7,000 billboards, 8,000 posters and 84,000 advertising cards on buses, streetcars, subways and commuter trains. Several thousand newspaper and magazine advertisements were prepared. Tens of thousands of spot announcements were being broadcast on television and radio were prepared.

More than 100 network TV programs promised to promote RIAL's message during the month. Among them were the Ed Sullivan Show, Playhouse 90, and Lassie.

This vast advertising campaign, prepared by the J. Walter Thompson Company is costing RIAL almost nothing. Every bit of advertising strategy and space has been donated.

In addition, 27 national religious groups and their affiliated churches and synagogues are conducting campaigns for maximum church attendance. Among them, for the first time, are the Council of Community Churches, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America.

Members of junior chambers of commerce and Kiwanis clubs are distributing more than two million cards, leaflets, stickers, posters and other materials in nearly 10,000 communities.

Posters have been placed in store windows. Prayer cards and dinner napkins imprinted with RIAL's message have been distributed to restaurants. Special meetings and programs are being held to encourage church and synagogue attendance.

Madison Avenue has thrown still other advertising gimmicks into the campaign. Postage meter postmark advertisements for RIAL and its work have been made available to business and industry. A special movie short is being distributed to remind moviegoers to "Worship Together this Week."

RIAL officials said that its campaigns apparently pay off each year by encouraging more persons to go to church. Reports from churches across the country after last year's campaign indicated that Madison Avenue had done a good job, spokesman for the movement said.

Tawes Pays Tribute To Gen. Reckord

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes paid tribute Wednesday to Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, longtime Maryland adjutant general, by dubbing him "Mr. National Guard."

The governor told a Veterans Day luncheon honoring the general that "no one we know is so deserving of the title."

"And not just 'Mr. Maryland National Guard,' but 'Mr. National guard,' without qualification" Tawes said.

Praising Reckord as a "good soldier," Tawes said:

"This attitude of the good soldier, willing and prepared to do what he is called upon to do, has been the most pronounced trait of this man who has served his State and his nation with such great distinction for so many years."

Tawes noted that Reckord's Guard service dates back to 1901 when he enlisted in Company D of the 1st Maryland Infantry in Bel Air.

He served as a colonel in World War I and accepted the late Gen. George Marshall's invitation to serve as theater provost marshall in Europe during World War II.

Gov. Tawes To Join In Opening Highway

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes will join officials of Montgomery and Prince Georges counties Nov. 30 in the formal opening to traffic of three sections of new highway in the Washington suburban area.

State Roads Commission Chairman John B. Funk and other SRC officials also will take part in the ceremonies.

The roads include a dual section of the new Columbia Pike from Cedar Croft Sanitarium to Burnt Mills, a section of U.S. 240 leading into the Pooks Hill Interchange, and a dual section of Maryland 4 from the District line to Brown's Station Road.

New Canine Corps

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A canine corps is to be organized by Alexandria police. It will be the first one in the Washington area.

State Yacht's Sale Due Soon

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — The Potomac, a yacht formerly used by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman and now part of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission's "Oyster Fleet", will be sold before Christmas, Dr. H.C. Byrd, TFC chairman, said today.

Byrd said "the state simply can't afford to keep it up."

The craft, 160 feet in length and weighing 320 tons, is berthed at the Cambridge docks.

Besides being difficult to navigate, the Potomac costs the state $100,000 a year to operate. Byrd indicated the TFC would like a smaller vessel which could navigate deep into the Chesapeake Bay tributaries.

Byrd said effort to sell the ship will be launched later this month, with full backing of Gov. Tawes and the Board of Public Works. Bids are already being taken.

The Potomac was built in 1934, and two years later turned over to President Roosevelt. In 1946 Maryland bought her at a token price to replace one which was battered in World War II service.

Washington Lawyer Plunges To His Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Marshall Littlepage, 56, a member of a prominent Washington law firm, plunged to his death Wednesday from a window near his office on the eighth floor of the Investment Building, police said.

He was a member of Littlepage & Littlepage, a law firm formed by his late father, Thomas P. Littlepage.

A brother, James H. Littlepage, a patent attorney, said his brother had been depressed lately.

The widow and a son survive.

Auto Crash Injuries Fatal To Man, 49

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 49-year-old man injured in an automobile accident Nov. 1 died Wednesday in South Baltimore General Hospital.

The death of John Johnson raised the state's 1959 death toll to 446, 20 more than last year at this time.

Johnson was injured in an accident on Belgrove road. He has been in the hospital since then.

According to Ferndale police, Johnson was a passenger in a car driven by Olin Murphy, 27, of Baltimore, who was charged Wednesday with manslaughter. Police said Johnson crashed through the windshield of the vehicle when it hit the rear of another car.

Murphy allegedly left the scene of the accident with Johnson seated beside him. Last week he was fined $35 after he was found guilty of reckless driving and failing to aid an injured person.

Murphy was released in $1,026 bail Wednesday and a hearing on the manslaughter charge was set for Dec. 30 in Ferndale Police Court.

Baltimore Idea Might Solve London Traffic Problem

LONDON (AP)—An American traffic expert said Wednesday Baltimore's electronic traffic brain might straighten out London's conjested traffic.

Short of that, he advised officials to slap a little more paint on their roads and ban all parking in the center of London.

Henry A. Barnes, commissioner of Baltimore's Department of Transit and Traffic, is on a three-month European tour studying traffic problems.

He talked to newsmen and British highway engineers about Baltimore's $4,480,000 electronic brain that adjusts traffic light control to suit changing conditions.

Newsmen then took Barnes across central London in an automobile. Crawling past the fashionable stores of Oxford street, where traffic jams are a common sight, Barnes asked. "Why not paint white lines to mark the lanes."

In Hyde Park, creeping slowly past lines of parked automobiles, Barnes declared:

"We don't allow any parking night or day in the middle of Baltimore. The space each parked car is standing on is probably worth a house and its lot on the outskirts of London. You don't expect the government to give you that kind of expensive ground all day, do you"

"This attitude of the good soldier, willing and prepared to do what he is called upon to do, has been the most pronounced trait of this man who has served his State and his nation with such great distinction for so many years."

Tawes noted that Reckord's Guard service dates back to 1901 when he enlisted in Company D of the 1st Maryland Infantry in Bel Air.

He served as a colonel in World War I and accepted the late Gen. George Marshall's invitation to serve as theater provost marshall in Europe during World War II.

State Yacht's Sale Due Soon

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — The Potomac, a yacht formerly used by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman and now part of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission's "Oyster Fleet", will be sold before Christmas, Dr. H.C. Byrd, TFC chairman, said today.

Byrd said "the state simply can't afford to keep it up."

The craft, 160 feet in length and weighing 320 tons, is berthed at the Cambridge docks.

Besides being difficult to navigate, the Potomac costs the state $100,000 a year to operate. Byrd indicated the TFC would like a smaller vessel which could navigate deep into the Chesapeake Bay tributaries.

Byrd said effort to sell the ship will be launched later this month, with full backing of Gov. Tawes and the Board of Public Works. Bids are already being taken.

The Potomac was built in 1934, and two years later turned over to President Roosevelt. In 1946 Maryland bought her at a token price to replace one which was battered in World War II service.

Auto Crash Injuries Fatal To Man, 49

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 49-year-old man injured in an automobile accident Nov. 1 died Wednesday in South Baltimore General Hospital.

The death of John Johnson raised the state's 1959 death toll to 446, 20 more than last year at this time.

Johnson was injured in an accident on Belgrove road. He has been in the hospital since then.

According to Ferndale police, Johnson was a passenger in a car driven by Olin Murphy, 27, of Baltimore, who was charged Wednesday with manslaughter. Police said Johnson crashed through the windshield of the vehicle when it hit the rear of another car.

Murphy allegedly left the scene of the accident with Johnson seated beside him. Last week he was fined $35 after he was found guilty of reckless driving and failing to aid an injured person.

Murphy was released in $1,026 bail Wednesday and a hearing on the manslaughter charge was set for Dec. 30 in Ferndale Police Court.

Baltimore Idea Might Solve London Traffic Problem

LONDON (AP)—An American traffic expert said Wednesday Baltimore's electronic traffic brain might straighten out London's conjested traffic.

Short of that, he advised officials to slap a little more paint on their roads and ban all parking in the center of London.

Henry A. Barnes, commissioner of Baltimore's Department of Transit and Traffic, is on a three-month European tour studying traffic problems.

He talked to newsmen and British highway engineers about Baltimore's $4,480,000 electronic brain that adjusts traffic light control to suit changing conditions.

Newsmen then took Barnes across central London in an automobile. Crawling past the fashionable stores of Oxford street, where traffic jams are a common sight, Barnes asked. "Why not paint white lines to mark the lanes"

In Hyde Park, creeping slowly past lines of parked automobiles, Barnes declared:

"We don't allow any parking night or day in the middle of Baltimore. The space each parked car is standing on is probably worth a house and its lot on the outskirts of London. You don't expect the government to give you that kind of expensive ground all day, do you"

Gov. Tawes To Join In Opening Highway

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes will join officials of Montgomery and Prince Georges counties Nov. 30 in the formal opening to traffic of three sections of new highway in the Washington suburban area.

State Roads Commission Chairman John B. Funk and other SRC officials also will take part in the ceremonies.

The roads include a dual section of the new Columbia Pike from Cedar Croft Sanitarium to Burnt Mills, a section of U.S. 240 leading into the Pooks Hill Interchange, and a dual section of Maryland 4 from the District line to Brown's Station Road.

New Canine Corps

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A canine corps is to be organized by Alexandria police. It will be the first one in the Washington area.

Washington Lawyer Plunges To His Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Marshall Littlepage, 56, a member of a prominent Washington law firm, plunged to his death Wednesday from a window near his office on the eighth floor of the Investment Building, police said.

He was a member of Littlepage & Littlepage, a law firm formed by his late father, Thomas P. Littlepage.

A brother, James H. Littlepage, a patent attorney, said his brother had been depressed lately.

Xi Beta Chapter, BSP Announces Activity Dates

Xi Beta Exemplar Chapter, BSP, received reports and announcements at the meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Lester and Miss Ruth Lester, Bedford Street. A covered dish dinner preceded the meeting.

City Council reports were discussed and Miss Martha Lee Heron, chairman, announced the Council card party will be held February 18 in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house. A council meeting will be November 19.

Arrangements were made for a Thanksgiving basket for the family the chapter has adopted. It was decided to postpone the model meeting until spring.

It was announced that returns for the sale of tickets for the antique sale, are to be made at the meeting November 24, which will be at the home of Mrs. Ann McKenzie, 126 Karns Avenue. At that time too plans for the Christmas party and dinner December 19 at 6:30 at the Cumberland Country Club will be made.

For the cultural program, Miss Margaret Lester showed colored pictures of her cruise with the National Secretaries Association to Puerto Rico.

Others attending were Miss Eleanor Albright, Miss Helene Schutz, Mrs. Josephine Pfeiffer, Mrs. Charlotte Judy and Mrs. Betty Frantz.

A roast chicken supper will be held at District 16 fire hall today from 4 until 6:30.

Yule Bazaar To Be Held Nov. 19

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church will hold its annual Christmas bazaar November 19 in the Fellowship Hall on Second Street.

A feature will be the turkey dinner from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Advance reservations must be made. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the society, of which Miss Gertrude Ranck is president; Mrs. Robert Nimon, vice president; Mrs. John Park, secretary ,and Mrs. Howard McCracken, treasurer.

Each circle will maintain a booth recommended for early Christmas shoppers. Leaders are Miss Lillian Compton, Mrs. Mary Lear and Mrs. James Stevenson.

The Women's Sport Club will meet at 6:30 tonight at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Piney Plains To Have Education Visitation

An invitation to parents of the Piney Plains School pupils to observe Education Week visitation at the school was extended at the meeting of the PTA conducted by Homer Creek.

J. Paul Andrick, principal, explained the plan of the sale of magazines as a way to make money towards the purchase of a "jungle jim" for the playground. The new couch, recently purchased for the sick room, was inspected.

It was decided to present a Christmas program in place of the regular December meeting. Announcement was made of the Piney Plains Church supper, today from 5 until 8. Following prayer and the flag salute, reports were given by Mrs. Faye Creek and Mrs. Verna Bowman. The PTA by-laws were read and it was noted the organization, which began in 1947, has a membership of 40. Safety decals were distributed for display on automobiles.

James Collie presented slides on Japan to the association. They featured a Japanese parade, similar to the Mardi Gras; dress of the Buddhist priests, rice fields and types of buildings. Other slides shown were the Japanese way of displaying fish in front of their homes to indicate the number of sons in the family; open markets and shops along the streets, as well as shoe repair carts, and modern rickshaws pulled by riders on bicycles.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Price, Mrs. Helen Sipes, Mrs. Alda Fletcher, Ann Blackburn and Donna Sipes. The next meeting will be January 11 at the school.

Pageant To Be Given Nov. 15

Announcements were made by Mrs. James Orr at the meeting of Circle 1 of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Tuesday evening. The circle will have charge of the nursery for November. In Christian service the group will save postage stamps for the Lutheran Home of the Aged. The Thank Offering service will be presented in the form of a pageant, November 15 at 7:30 p.m., at the church. Mrs. Naomi Bennett will be the narrator.

Delegate reports of the United Lutheran Church Women convention in Baltimore were given by Mrs. Raymond Chaney, Mrs. Fred Chandler, Mrs. Florence Kriechbaum and Mrs. Orr. Two new members were welcomed. They are Mrs. Clifton White and Mrs. J. George Smith.

Pictures of the last service in the old church, demolishing of the church and progress in building the new church were shown by James Orr.

The group sang, "Take Time To Be Holy," and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower led the discussion on the topic, "Field Is World," and gave the seven fields of work in overseas evangelism, which include Argentina, British Guiana, Japan, China, India, Liberia and Malaya.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Zembower, Mrs. Heyl Walker and Mrs. Verdie Grubb. Visitors were Mrs. Chaney, Miss Frieda Rosenmarkle, Mrs. Sally Stern and Mrs. Myrtle Hurley.

Social Chart

A round and square dance will be sponsored by Lurana Veteran Unit, AVMC Saturday in SS. Peter and Paul parish hall. Beverages will be served and prizes awarded.

Catholic Girls Central Alumnae will meet at 8 Sunday in the social center. All are urged to attend.

Semper Fidelis Class of First EUB Church will meet at 8 tomorrow in the parsonage.

Guild Bazaar Today

The eighth annual Christmas bazaar, sponsored by the Guild of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will be conducted today in the parish house. Lunches will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. There will be tea from 2 until 4 o'clock and a turkey dinner from 5:30 until 7 p.m. Reservations are necessary for the dinner. Mrs. Perry Nicklin has been in charge of the sale of dinner tickets.

Various circles have arranged booths including baked goods, novelties, needlework, gifts, candy and white elephants.

Decorations are by Mrs. John E. Geare and Mrs. Robert E. Barnard Jr.; table decorations, Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger; Mrs. Albert S. Paye and Mrs. Frederic W. Eiler, the dining room; Mrs. Robert Fink and Mrs. Albert D. Darby, publicity. Mrs. David Miller will be in charge of children's games. Mrs. Frances H. Sweene is president of the Guild.

Cresaptown WSCS Make Donations

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Cresaptown church decided on three donations at the meeting Tuesday evening at the church. Mrs. Edward Lewis presided.

Members decided to give a Christmas gift of cash to Mrs. Pearl Willis Jones, the missionary for the year; $10 to the Korean children; and instead of exchanging jingles to donate the money to Miss Joan Hughes, who is studying to be a missionary. Plans also were made to serve refreshments for the Youth Fellowship, after it delivers baskets and goes caroling. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Thomas Beeche and Mrs. Harold Lewis.

The group will begin the study of "The Way in Africa." Meetings will be held each week for the next five weeks. Miss Susan Smith conducted devotions on "The Golden Cord of Service, the role of a Christian African Woman." Others taking part were Mrs. William Riley and Mrs. Beeche. The group sang, "In Christ There Is No East Or West." A film, "The Great Christian Missionary," was shown, dealing with Albert Sweitzer in Africa. Mrs. John Smith gave the closing prayer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Trubador Lewis.

Hostesses for December are Mrs. William Murphy, Mrs. Acy Poland and Miss Evelyn May.

Others present were Mrs. Dennis Elfritz, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Mrs. John Poland, Mrs. G. E. Broadwater, Mrs. E. E. Heinrich, Mrs. Foster Glover, Mrs. A. G. Shank, Mrs. Francis Twigg, Mrs. William Williamson, Mrs. Blanch Flanagan, Mrs. Hazel Bryant, Mrs. Robert Bavander, Mrs. Martin Johnson and Mrs. W. A. Judy.

Yule Activities Planned

The Ladies Auxiliary of Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, formulated plans for Christmas at the meeting in the post home. Routine business also was transacted.

The unit will donate cookies for the veterans hospital party, which will be held December 6. Plans also were discussed for a Christmas party and treats. They will be completed at the meeting December 3.

Associated Women Name Three Directors

The Associated Women of the Allegany County Farm Bureau elected three directors at the meeting Tuesday evening at the LaVale fire hall. They are Mrs. Robert Apple of the Oldtown district; Mrs. James Robinson, Mt. Savage district, and Mrs. Vernon Loar, Upper Georges Creek district. Mrs. Roy Shryock presided.

It was decided the next meeting will be held November 24 at Lazarus Fountain room.

For the annual joint meeting with the Farm Bureau, Mrs. Edgar Matthews conducted the devotionals and memorial service. She was assisted by Mrs. Loar and Mrs. Joseph Pollock.

Entertainment consisted of vocal solos by Marlene Clark and Mary Heavner. Elsie Stafford and Helen Paxton, Farm Queens were introduced. Mrs. Douglas Smith presented a sketch on a comparison of buying groceries 30 years ago and today. She was assisted by Mrs. Marton Gordon representing the housewife of 30 years ago and Mrs. Marvin Hinkle, the modern shopper. Short talks were given by state officers.

Board To Hear Panel

A panel discussion, "You and Youth" will be presented at the meeting of the executive board of the Woman's Civic Club this morning at 10:30 at the club house. Mrs. G. Morgan Smith is moderator. Others taking part are Mrs. Gordon Bowie, detention and foster care chairman; Mrs. William A. Douglas, Juvenile court chairman, and Mrs. Ethel Wilderman executive director of the county welfare department.

Plans will be formulated for the general meeting November 19.

Eiler, the dining room; Mrs. Robert Fink and Mrs. Albert D. Darby, publicity. Mrs. David Miller will be in charge of children's games. Mrs. Frances H. Sweene is president of the Guild.

Cresaptown WSCS Make Donations

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Cresaptown church decided on three donations at the meeting Tuesday evening at the church. Mrs. Edward Lewis presided.

Members decided to give a Christmas gift of cash to Mrs. Pearl Willis Jones, the missionary for the year; $10 to the Korean children; and instead of exchanging jingles to donate the money to Miss Joan Hughes, who is studying to be a missionary. Plans also were made to serve refreshments for the Youth Fellowship, after it delivers baskets and goes caroling. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Thomas Beeche and Mrs. Harold Lewis.

The group will begin the study of "The Way in Africa." Meetings will be held each week for the next five weeks. Miss Susan Smith conducted devotions on "The Golden Cord of Service, the role of a Christian African Woman." Others taking part were Mrs. William Riley and Mrs. Beeche. The group sang, "In Christ There Is No East Or West." A film, "The Great Christian Missionary," was shown, dealing with Albert Sweitzer in Africa. Mrs. John Smith gave the closing prayer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Trubador Lewis.

Hostesses for December are Mrs. William Murphy, Mrs. Acy Poland and Miss Evelyn May.

Others present were Mrs. Dennis Elfritz, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Mrs. John Poland, Mrs. G. E. Broadwater, Mrs. E. E. Heinrich, Mrs. Foster Glover, Mrs. A. G. Shank, Mrs. Francis Twigg, Mrs. William Williamson, Mrs. Blanch Flanagan, Mrs. Hazel Bryant, Mrs. Robert Bavander, Mrs. Martin Johnson and Mrs. W. A. Judy.

Yule Activities Planned

The Ladies Auxiliary of Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, formulated plans for Christmas at the meeting in the post home. Routine business also was transacted.

The unit will donate cookies for the veterans hospital party, which will be held December 6. Plans also were discussed for a Christmas party and treats. They will be completed at the meeting December 3.

Associated Women Name Three Directors

The Associated Women of the Allegany County Farm Bureau elected three directors at the meeting Tuesday evening at the LaVale fire hall. They are Mrs. Robert Apple of the Oldtown district; Mrs. James Robinson, Mt. Savage district, and Mrs. Vernon Loar, Upper Georges Creek district. Mrs. Roy Shryock presided.

It was decided the next meeting will be held November 24 at Lazarus Fountain room.

For the annual joint meeting with the Farm Bureau, Mrs. Edgar Matthews conducted the devotionals and memorial service. She was assisted by Mrs. Loar and Mrs. Joseph Pollock.

Entertainment consisted of vocal solos by Marlene Clark and Mary Heavner. Elsie Stafford and Helen Paxton, Farm Queens were introduced. Mrs. Douglas Smith presented a sketch on a comparison of buying groceries 30 years ago and today. She was assisted by Mrs. Marton Gordon representing the housewife of 30 years ago and Mrs. Marvin Hinkle, the modern shopper. Short talks were given by state officers.

Board To Hear Panel

A panel discussion, "You and Youth" will be presented at the meeting of the executive board of the Woman's Civic Club this morning at 10:30 at the club house. Mrs. G. Morgan Smith is moderator. Others taking part are Mrs. Gordon Bowie, detention and foster care chairman; Mrs. William A. Douglas, Juvenile court chairman, and Mrs. Ethel Wilderman executive director of the county welfare department.

Plans will be formulated for the general meeting November 19.

Ursuline seniors will hold a rummage sale tomorrow from 6 until 8 p.m., in the SS. Peter and Paul hall.

Communist China Woos Nations In United States Backyard

Editor's Note: K. C. Thaler, veteran UPI diplomatic correspondent has returned to London after a tour of the Far East. He reports in the following dispatch that Red China is branching out to woo Latin America.

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China is embarked on a campaign to win friends and influence nations in the United States backyard — the Caribbean and South America. Cuba is the special target.

Despite the extreme distance from Peiping to Latin America, the Chinese Communist regime in recent months has been outstripping in scope and intensity the Latin American propaganda campaign of the Soviet Union. Radio Peiping beams Spanish-language broadcasts 10 to 14 hours daily, pegged to the theme of "anti-imperialism."

The campaign coincides with a steadily broadening Red Chinese program to establish close ties with the Afro-Asian nations.

A survey of the current "World Today," a monthly publication of the Royal Institute for International Affairs, shows many Latin nations have sent delegations to Red China at Peiping's invitation, or have received delegations of Chinese Communists.

Termed Good-Will Trips

Altogether, some 40 delegations from Latin America have gone to Peiping this year, including student groups, parliamentarians, former government officials, union leaders, journalists and businessmen. The missions invariably were termed good-will, cultural or trade.

Observers believe Red China's reason for the rash of good fellowship is to establish some form of diplomatic contact with Latin America. There was speculation that Peiping wants the Latin bloc behind it in its annual bid for a seat in the United Nations — a quest the United States has successfully beaten down every year.

The campaign also appears designed to whip up anti-United States feeling, raising the old cry of "imperialism."

Cuba, which maintains diplomatic relations with Nationalist China, has been getting the deluxe treatment.

Fidel Castro's revolution received wide publicity in Red China.

Publishes Chinese Papers

According to the Royal Institute survey, Red Chinese newsmen went to Cuba and a press office was opened, staffed by Chinese from the China mainland.

The press office is to publish a Chinese language Communist-slanted newspaper for the benefit of the 100,000 Chinese who live in Latin America. The agency is called "the new alliance of democratic China," according to the survey.

Other Latin nations have not been overlooked.

A Peruvian parliamentary group went to Red China last June. A Colombian parliamentary delegation went the following month. Venezuelan trade unionists in May, Cuban, Chilean and Argentinian students in August and a Brazilian cultural mission in September.

Red Chinese journalists visited Childe, Uruguay, Brazil and Cuba last summer and Chinese cultural gone to Uruguary, Bolivia and Colombia.

Argentina and Uruguary received Red Chinese donations for flood relief.

Woman To Woman

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI)—Does the glamor of a model home blind you to its deficiences

Then you're not alone. About 98 per cent of persons buying new homes from builders make that mistake, says Nat Chasser, an interior designer, who decorates about 100 model houses a year.

"Interior designers try to make model homes as attractive as possible. But women often are deceived by this and forget to look for essentials," Chasser said.

First, visualize the house on your own property, not on the landscaped lot which the builder has intended as a showplace. Ask yourself: How will my house look in a community with 100 other houses all alike? Where will my neighbors' houses be? Will construction necessitate levelling or filling the land, at a cost to me?

Ask Engineer's Advice

Check for adequate lighting, heating and water pressure. Inspect the basement for buckling or cracks. If possible, have an engineer advise you on the structural fitness of the house.

Also check the roof and walls for soundness and adequate space for installing insulation.

Check kitchen facilities. They may need to be rearranged to save steps or to give the kitchen an individual look.

Garage facilities should be ample for larger cars, bicycles and wagons if you have children, and storage space if desired.

Consider the exposures. Will sun shine in the kitchen or backyard when you want it?

Be sure windows will be correct for your location and furniture. When possible, decide on furniture placement before windows are cut to allow for ample wall space.

Check Electric Outlets

Also check the number and position of electric outlets, ceiling lights and television antenna.

The house should lend itself to expansion if you have a family. In case you should need to sell the house later, find out how long the builder plans to sell homes in the development. Otherwise, you may want to sell for, say, $30,000, but the builder will be selling for $25,000. You will lose the money you put into improvements.

When you find the house you want, take the plans home. Measure your furniture if you plan to use it, and figure if it will fit. If too many changes must be made, the house is not the right buy, Chasser said.

Finally, the decorator said, get advice from someone who has had experience. Make all changes before the house is built.

WASHINGTON (AP) — How many nickels, dimes and quarters are dropped into those pay phones?

Monthly collections in what's said to be the busiest phone booth in Washington average $582, says a spokesman for Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. It's in the Greyhound Bus Terminal.

Collections from all pay phones in the Washington area average $51 a booth.

State Gas Tax Take Up

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland's gasoline tax revenues are running 7.8 per cent ahead of last fiscal year, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced Tuesday.

For the first four months of the year the state netted $18,696,825, an increase of $1,350,445 over the corresponding period last year.

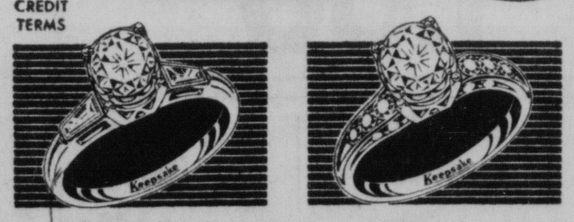

October receipts accounted for $580,887 of the increase. They netted $4,785,203 for 13.8 per cent jump over October 1958.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: My husband sells vacuum cleaners direct to the consumer. This means he is in and out of women's homes all day. I never gave it a thought till my neighbor put a bug in my ear.

She says it's not humanly possible for an attractive man like my husband to be with women all day, in the privacy of their homes and not get involved "here and there."

She said she trusts HIM, but claims a man has to be made of wood not to weaken sooner or later.

We have three children, and get along fine. He makes good money, likes his work and is always home on time. I'm ashamed to admit it but I've examined his clothes for lipstick and have found no traces. Please comment.

QUESTION MARK.

DEAR Q. M.: Tell needle-nose to mind her own business and not to bore you with her suspicions. I suspect she's either unmarried or having trouble with her husband. Find other "friends." This woman doesn't have your interest at heart.

DEAR ANN: This may not seem like a problem to you—but it sure is a big one to me.

I'm a senior in high school and I can count on my thumb the number of live dates I've had this semester. I'm no knockout, but I get my share of whistles. People tell me I have a swell personality, that I'm a "good kid" and lots of fun. But still—no dates.

It can't be that my brains are scaring the fellows off. I'm not THAT smart. I'm just an average student.

Give me a clue, Ann. What can I do to prevent this year from being a total flop?

WHY.

DEAR WHY: You may be "a swell kid," but you haven't learned how to make fellows comfortable in your presence. For the umpteenth time:

(1) Be friendly—not aggressive, but at least let a fellow know YOU know he's alive. Sometimes all you need to say is "Hi." (2) When you're alone with a guy ask him questions about things HE'S interested in—then show genuine interest in his answers. (3) Get a fellow to talk about himself. It's everyone's favorite subject. (4) Be cheerful, and fun to be around. This means no back-biting, under-cutting nor gossip. It reduces you at once in a boy's eyes.

If you work on these four points, I guarantee business will improve. Good luck.

DEAR ANN: When I was young I had a daughter out of wedlock. The same year I married a man who was a saint. He has always treated this girl like his very own. We now have four children and are a happy family.

A thousand times I've wanted to tell this girl the truth but I'm so afraid she'll lose respect for me. She's almost 16 and very kind and understanding, but I can't get up the nerve. Can you suggest a way to tell her so she won't have a low opinion of me?

GUILTY CONSCIENCE.

DEAR GUILTY: There's no reason to tell your daughter or anyone else about the past. The only one who has a right to know is your husband. And he knows—so forget it.

Civitan Clubs Plan Meeting At Hagerstown

Civitan clubs of Cumberland, Hagerstown and Chambersburg will be hosts for the two-day meeting of the Chesapeake District of Civitan International on Saturday and Sunday in Hagerstown.

The meetings will be held at e Venice Motel, just east of Hagerstown. On Friday night the 45-man board of directors of the district's Foundation for Mentally Retarded Children will meet.

The Saturday program will include two business sessions, luncheon, social hour in the evening and dinner dance. Devotionals will open the Sunday meeting and a short business session will conclude the meeting.

William E. Cooper, of Richmond, district governor, will preside. W. J. Bailey, of Birmingham, Ala., director o. extension, will attend the meetings. Rev. Dr. Bruce McDonald, chaplain of the Baltimore chapter of Civitan, will be the speaker at the dinner Saturday.

Two training sessions will be held with Lt. Gov. Ray Clinger of Westminster and Lewis A. Martin of Charlottesville, Va., in charge.

City Police Probing Theft Case

City Police are investigating an early-morning breaking and entering of a South Cumberland store from which eight weapons and a small amount of money was stolen.

The entry of King's Tackle Shop, 430 Virginia Avenue, took place early yesterday, less than three weeks after a similar entry and theft was discovered at a North Mechanic Street business.

Two 16-year-old local youths are awaiting sentencing by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris for the theft of six pistols and 1,100 rounds of ammunition from the Wilson Hardware Store on October 26.

Officer Frank Bohn discovered the entry of the Virginia Avenue store shortly after 1:30 a. m., police explaining that the tackle shop apparently was entered during the change of shifts by partolmen.

Entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door of the store, according to Officer Bohn, who said the intruder left the lights on in the establishment.

Reported taken from the establishment were three .22 calibre revolvers, four .22 automatic pistols and a 12-gauge shotgun. Value of the guns was estimated in excess of $425. The proprietor also said $18 in change was missing, and it is believed some ammunition was also taken. An inventory is being conducted.

Police said the front door of the business was entered after an unsuccessful attempt was made to get by the door in the back of the store.

Garden Club Plans Flower Workshop Here

Plans for a dried flower workshop were completed at a meeting of the Garden Club of Cumberland Monday night at the Woman's Civic Club, according to Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, president.

The workshop will be held next Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. at the Civic Club, with Mrs. Robert Ebert, chairman of the club's flower arrangement committee, in charge. Assisting will be Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mrs. Coit Speicher and Mrs. Steinberger. A small fee will be charged, Mrs. Steinberger said.

The Monday meeting featured a demonstration on fall table arrangements by Mrs. Ebert, who used a variety of fresh and dried material, fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Steinberger announced the appointment of Mrs. Richard Killen as chairman of the organization's junior club. She succeeds Mrs. Ward Jamison, who is moving to California.

The club president attended a meeting of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Tuesday in Baltimore, at which she was presented the national purple ribbon achievement award which was won by the club for its "Doorway to Autumn" show.

To Address Council

Mrs. K. O. Nelson, Pinto, who was "Mrs. Maryland" in the national contest some months ago, will speak at the meeting of the Cumberland Community Council on Friday at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Civic Club quarters, 515 Washington Street.

District Orchard Has Record Apple Harvest For 1959

The 1959 apple harvest was the largest on record for Consolidated Orchards Company, which has half of its holdings in Allegany County and the remainder in nearby West Virginia.

Henry Miller Jr., president, said the company, which is one of the ten largest shippers of apples in the nation, picked 70,000 bushels more than the 1958 crop, which was at that time the concern's top year.

Prices in the fresh-pack market are about the same as last year, but processing apples will prove more profitable this year due to a larger quantity of them.

Miller pointed out that the processors allowed 25 cents more a bushel this summer than they did last year on the large canning apples.

He said the heavy storage holdings of unpacked fruit being kept in the company's cold storage in orchard crates will keep the packing house operating longer than usual this winter.

Consolidated takes fruit from storage and packs fresh on order. The packing house usually operates until February but this year will probably be in operation until March.

Miller also said the firm is enjoying a better export market this fall than last, on a tonnage basis.

Holland, which closed its borders to outside fruit last year following a bumper crop, this past week lowered its trade barriers when a light harvest occurred in that nation.

The last time Consolidated was able to ship to Holland was two years ago. Also lifting trade restrictions this past week was France.

Venezuela is still the largest single export market for Consolidated, and Miller pointed out that fruit for the South American markets is being shipped from the port of Miami, Fla.

The shift from the port of New York took place during the stevedore strike this fall.

Miller also remarked that the quality of fruit in the Hampshire and Allegany areas turned out better than earlier believed possible.

The long dry spell and heat wave of the late summer caused concern among the area growers, but the favorable weather of the late latter part of the season brought the fruit along in quality.

Grand Jury Indicts Mt. Savage Man

Melvin Gene Carder, 23, of Mt. Savage, was indicted Tuesday by the Garrett County grand jury on charges of burglary and larceny of an automobile.

Carder was taken into custody for burglary of a cottage on Deep Creek Lake, according to Sheriff James Frantz. He was also picked up on the larceny of a car.

Articles taken from the lake cottage were recovered by the sheriff's office. The car was also recovered.

Zoning Appeal Hearing Today

An appeal from the city building engineer and the zoning code will be heard by the Board of Zoning Appeals today at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

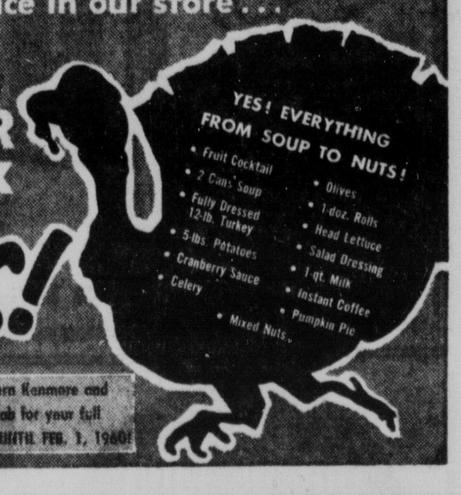

James C. Gardner, chairman, said Clyde S. Slider, 811 Louisiana Avenue, made application to build an addition to an apartment at 807 Cecil Street.

The address is in Residential Zoning District B. The addition would be 24 feet by 28 feet, with walls of concrete block and roof covered with asphalt shingles. The property is owned by Slider.

Soldier Found Dead

TOKYO (UPI)—The U. S. Army announced Wednesday that an Ohio soldier, SP-4C Harry A. Davis, 27, was found dead of undetermined causes Tuesday night in a military housing area. Davis, whose wife was with him in Japan, lived at 711 Victoria Ave., Akron.

Civitan Clubs Plan Meeting At Hagerstown

Civitan clubs of Cumberland, Hagerstown and Chambersburg will be hosts for the two-day meeting of the Chesapeake District of Civitan International on Saturday and Sunday in Hagerstown.

The meetings will be held at e Venice Motel, just east of Hagerstown. On Friday night the 45-man board of directors of the district's Foundation for Mentally Retarded Children will meet.

The Saturday program will include two business sessions, luncheon, social hour in the evening and dinner dance. Devotionals will open the Sunday meeting and a short business session will conclude the meeting.

William E. Cooper, of Richmond, district governor, will preside. W. J. Bailey, of Birmingham, Ala., director o. extension, will attend the meetings. Rev. Dr. Bruce McDonald, chaplain of the Baltimore chapter of Civitan, will be the speaker at the dinner Saturday.

Two training sessions will be held with Lt. Gov. Ray Clinger of Westminster and Lewis A. Martin of Charlottesville, Va., in charge.

City Police Probing Theft Case

City Police are investigating an early-morning breaking and entering of a South Cumberland store from which eight weapons and a small amount of money was stolen.

The entry of King's Tackle Shop, 430 Virginia Avenue, took place early yesterday, less than three weeks after a similar entry and theft was discovered at a North Mechanic Street business.

Two 16-year-old local youths are awaiting sentencing by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris for the theft of six pistols and 1,100 rounds of ammunition from the Wilson Hardware Store on October 26.

Officer Frank Bohn discovered the entry of the Virginia Avenue store shortly after 1:30 a. m., police explaining that the tackle shop apparently was entered during the change of shifts by partolmen.

Entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door of the store, according to Officer Bohn, who said the intruder left the lights on in the establishment.

Reported taken from the establishment were three .22 calibre revolvers, four .22 automatic pistols and a 12-gauge shotgun. Value of the guns was estimated in excess of $425. The proprietor also said $18 in change was missing, and it is believed some ammunition was also taken. An inventory is being conducted.

Police said the front door of the business was entered after an unsuccessful attempt was made to get by the door in the back of the store.

Garden Club Plans Flower Workshop Here

Plans for a dried flower workshop were completed at a meeting of the Garden Club of Cumberland Monday night at the Woman's Civic Club, according to Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, president.

The workshop will be held next Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. at the Civic Club, with Mrs. Robert Ebert, chairman of the club's flower arrangement committee, in charge. Assisting will be Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mrs. Coit Speicher and Mrs. Steinberger. A small fee will be charged, Mrs. Steinberger said.

The Monday meeting featured a demonstration on fall table arrangements by Mrs. Ebert, who used a variety of fresh and dried material, fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Steinberger announced the appointment of Mrs. Richard Killen as chairman of the organization's junior club. She succeeds Mrs. Ward Jamison, who is moving to California.

The club president attended a meeting of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Tuesday in Baltimore, at which she was presented the national purple ribbon achievement award which was won by the club for its "Doorway to Autumn" show.

To Address Council

Mrs. K. O. Nelson, Pinto, who was "Mrs. Maryland" in the national contest some months ago, will speak at the meeting of the Cumberland Community Council on Friday at 8 p. m. at the Woman's Civic Club quarters, 515 Washington Street.

District Orchard Has Record Apple Harvest For 1959

The 1959 apple harvest was the largest on record for Consolidated Orchards Company, which has half of its holdings in Allegany County and the remainder in nearby West Virginia.

Henry Miller Jr., president, said the company, which is one of the ten largest shippers of apples in the nation, picked 70,000 bushels more than the 1958 crop, which was at that time the concern's top year.

Prices in the fresh-pack market are about the same as last year, but processing apples will prove more profitable this year due to a larger quantity of them.

Miller pointed out that the processors allowed 25 cents more a bushel this summer than they did last year on the large canning apples.

He said the heavy storage holdings of unpacked fruit being kept in the company's cold storage in orchard crates will keep the packing house operating longer than usual this winter.

Consolidated takes fruit from storage and packs fresh on order. The packing house usually operates until February but this year will probably be in operation until March.

Miller also said the firm is enjoying a better export market this fall than last, on a tonnage basis.

Holland, which closed its borders to outside fruit last year following a bumper crop, this past week lowered its trade barriers when a light harvest occurred in that nation.

The last time Consolidated was able to ship to Holland was two years ago. Also lifting trade restrictions this past week was France.

Venezuela is still the largest single export market for Consolidated, and Miller pointed out that fruit for the South American markets is being shipped from the port of Miami, Fla.

The shift from the port of New York took place during the stevedore strike this fall.

Miller also remarked that the quality of fruit in the Hampshire and Allegany areas turned out better than earlier believed possible.

The long dry spell and heat wave of the late summer caused the concern among the area growers, but the favorable weather of the late latter part of the season brought the fruit along in quality.

Grand Jury Indicts Mt. Savage Man

Melvin Gene Carder, 23, of Mt. Savage, was indicted Tuesday by the Garrett County grand jury on charges of burglary and larceny of an automobile.

Carder was taken into custody for burglary of a cottage on Deep Creek Lake, according to Sheriff James Frantz. He was also picked up on the larceny of a car.

Articles taken from the lake cottage were recovered by the sheriff's office. The car was also recovered.

Zoning Appeal Hearing Today

An appeal from the city building engineer and the zoning code will be heard by the Board of Zoning Appeals today at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

James C. Gardner, chairman, said Clyde S. Slider, 811 Louisiana Avenue, made application to build an addition to an apartment at 807 Cecil Street.

The address is in Residential Zoning District B. The addition would be 24 feet by 28 feet, with walls of concrete block and roof covered with asphalt shingles. The property is owned by Slider.

Soldier Found Dead

New Teacher Begins Duties

Miss Judith Snyder, of RD 3, Bedford Road, Monday began teaching at Cresaptown Junior High School filling a position vacated by Mrs. Betty Tyree Cover.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of public schools in Allegany County, said yesterday that Miss Snyder will teach physical education and core.

He said Mrs. Cover is resigning since her husband, a construction worker, is being transferred to a job in Florida.

Miss Snyder, who was graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1955, received her bachelor of science degree in junior high education at Frostburg State Teachers College this year.

While at Frostburg State Teachers, she was a member of the Women's Recreation Association and also Kappa Pi, national art society.

Miss Snyder did her practice teaching at Allegany and Fort Hill High Schools.

Church To Install New Pastor Friday

Rev. Thurman W. Blake, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church on Wallace Street, will be officially installed at a ceremony tomorrow evening at the church.

Rev. C. M. Pennington, a Christian and Missionary Alliance official and pastor of Johnstown (Pa.) Alliance Church, will be in charge of the service. Rev. Mr. Pennington will be assisted by other district clergymen.

Rev. Mr. Blake assumed his duties here June 1. He was graduated in June from Nyack Missionary School, Nyack, N. Y. The new pastor and wife and two children reside in the church parsonage, 512 Avirett Avenue.

Admiralty law is that field of jurisprudence which governs maritime transactions, property and occurrences.

Heart Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow at 3 p. m. at First Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Dr. E. E. Miller, pastor, and Rev. W. R. Keefe Jr., pastor of Grace Baptist Church, will officiate and burial will be in Fort Ashby Cemetery.

The body is at the George Funeral Home and will be taken to the church at noon tomorrow.

MISS SHUCKHART RITES

FROSTBURG — Services for Miss Anna Shuckhart, 73, of Borden, who died Tuesday in Sylvan Retreat, will be conducted today at 2 p.m. at the Hafer Funeral Home. Burial will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Fred Hager, Harry Skidmore, John Rafferty, Andrew Brodie, James Geary and Allen Lewis.

Wiley Ford PTA Will Meet Tonight

The Wiley Ford PTA will meet at the school at 7:30 o'clock tonight for a three-part program in conjunction with American Education Week, according to Mrs. Delsie Johnson, president.

First Mrs. Janet Cheshire, sixth grade teacher, will discuss "Automatic or Earned Promotion."

She will be followed by two groups of second and third graders. Five boys, Eddie Golden, Royce Johnson, Billy Bishop, Rickey Houdersheldt and Dale Houdersheldt, will recite "A Boy's Thanksgiving." Then five girls, Linda Geer, Deanna Fazenbaker, Carolyn Potts, Linda Grady and Mary Jeffries, will recite "The First Thanksgiving."

Finally, Linda Robinson, a sixth grader, will speak on "If I Were A Pilgrim Child." The PTA members will sing "Shine On Harvest Moon" and a Thanksgiving song. There will be classroom visitation from 7 until 7:30 tonight.

West Side PTA Plans Fun Night

West Side Parent Teacher Association will sponsor an annual fun night and bazaar at the school Friday between 7 and 9 p.m.

Committees have been working several weeks organizing the annual benefit and several new attractions are promised.

There will be booths featuring handiwork and needlework, toys, baked goods, candy, Christmas decorations, books, jewelry and miscellaneous items, in addition to new and used clothing.

Games and attractions for youngsters and adults include wishing well, fish pond, dart and bowling games, refreshment stands and others including hamburger and hot-dog sandwiches served in the cafeteria.

The affair is being arranged in cooperation with the teachers, executive board and home room mothers.

The next meeting of the West Side PTA will be held November 19 at which time the cub scout pack sponsored at the school will receive its charter.

"Red Men" March

The members of Kanawha Tribe 2, Improved Order of Red Men added quite a bit of color as the group dressed in Indian attire marched by.

At this point of the parade members of Henry Hart Post 1411, VFW, and its auxiliary put in their appearance.

Paul Weisenmiller, former commander of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, was marshal of the sixth and final division of the parade.

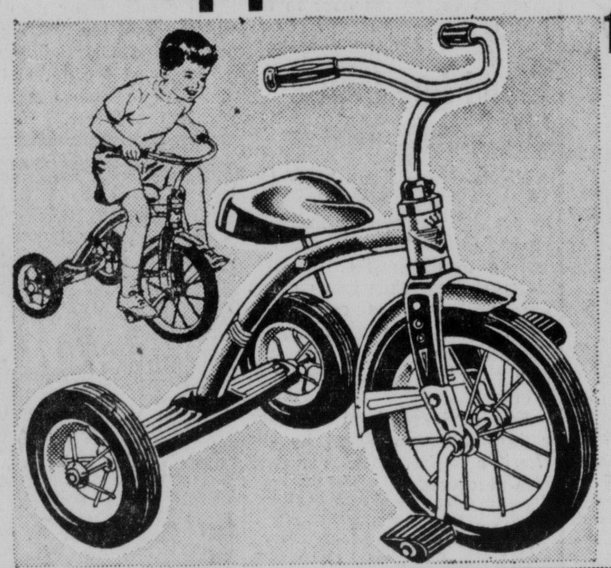

The members of the Drum and Bugle Corps of Fulton Myers Post 153, American Legion, put on their usual fine performance, nattily dressed in white helmets, yellow shirts and dark trousers.

Next in line of march were members of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, and its auxiliary followed by the Army, Air Force and Marine recruiting services.

During the parade the bucket brigade of Voiture 164, 40 and 8, headed by Paul C. Weisenmiller, took up donations which will be given to the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association.

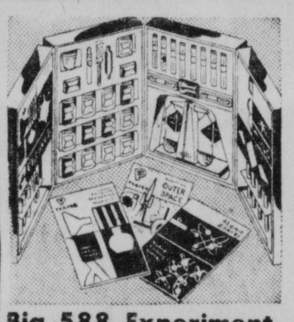

The donations amounted to $188, according to Mr. Weisenmiller, who said the proceeds were about the best in the past six years.

Why We're Cutting Foreign Aid Funds

After 14 years of post-World War II economic assistance to every corner of the globe, the United States is beginning to withdraw from its expensive support of foreign economies.

More than $63 billion has been given or loaned to many countries during this period to aid in the reconstruction of lands directly and indirectly devastated by the last war.

Prompted by a series of factors, the Administration has come to the conclusion that Europe in particular is now able to stand on its own feet and help contribute to some of its still-struggling neighbors in addition. Contrary to some expectations, news of coming curtailments in the foreign aid program did not wring forth cries of woe from the recipients, but a determination by many of them to correct some of the injustices now in effect against American products.

Many nations impose harsh import penalties on American goods, while admitting comparable goods from other countries duty-free or with token tax levies. Japan has announced it intends to drop all biases against American goods, and the State Department has sent notes of protest to nations which restrict the import of American products.

Another factor in the decline of enthusiasm for foreign aid projects is the sizable trade deficit experienced by the U. S. in the last several years. Gold supplies have been leaving the Treasury at an alarming rate—between $3 billion and $4 billion a year.

Foreign economic aid is not about to come to a halt, but a realistic appraisal of the prospering European economy can only result in the conclusion that the economic depression in European industry and commerce has been broken. There is no longer a gigantic job of rebuilding to be done. Only minor patches to temporarily faltering economies are needed, and these can best be supplied by capital surpluses closer at hand.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Intellectuals' Responsibility

I recently received a letter which contained this paragraph:

"You know better than I that the U. S. has fallen into Khrushchev's trap. I consider that it is the duty of American intellectuals to warn the people about this danger . . ."

The word, intellectuals, troubled me. Who is an intellectual? Adlai Stevenson, for instance, has been called an egghead and that word came to be used for an American who spoke grammatical and rhetorical English. It hardly denotes more than that. After all, Michael Pupin, one of the greatest physicists this country has known, did not necessarily speak so perfect an English, he having been born and reared in what is now called Yugoslavia. Perfection of speech does not necessarily represent perfection of thought. William Jennings Bryan was undoubtedly one of the greatest orators this nation produced but he surely was not a man of enormous intellect. On the other hand, Abraham Lincoln never went to college, but he was a man of profound wisdom.

The term, intellectual, in our society, can only mean a person who devotes himself to activities which require the use of the brain rather than brawn. Senator Fulbright, the former Rhodes Scholar, would probably find such a definition inadequate. He would perhaps prefer a closer scrutiny of brain-work to eliminate any who do original thinking but have not attained the scholar's A. But then, neither Thomas Edison nor George Westinghouse could have obtained a Fulbright Scholarship, provided by the American taxpayer, to educate American students abroad. The difference between Cecil Rhodes and Senator Fulbright is that Rhodes put up his own money to give a British education to Americans and other Anglo-Saxons, but Fulbright's scholarships come from the government Treasury and the persons involved should be called wards of the Treasury. It is curious how one man's name latched itself on to something that all the people of the United States are paying for.

But that does not make anyone an intellectual; that is, someone who is different from all others, like a Hanlin scholar in ancient China, who, it was said, walked on eggs. Among the Jews in the ghetto, the intellectual was one who could read the Talmud and my father used to say that he could put a pin through 27 pages and tell which letter the pin had pricked. And I always wondered what that proved. On the other hand, a shoemaker was regarded as a low-down creature. Why a shoemaker should be lower than a man who could put a pin through 27 pages, I never could understand, all men being equal in the eyes of the Lord.

In the United States, no intellectual class exists. Nobody is set aside as elite, either by political prestige, family distinction, intellectual attainments or extraordinary wealth. There may be a few who believe that they are superior to others, but that is only temporary. Ours is truly a classless society in the strict sense that no position and few advantages in life are hereditary. If the rich do not move from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations, they do it in two and the son of a professor in a university might well be a taxicab driver or a jazz musician. Each man forms the pattern of his own life to a very great degree.

Therefore when one speaks of the intellectuals of this country, he is denominating a class that does not exist. Now, in Czarist Russia, it did exist because so few were literate that those who could read were ipso facto superior to those who could not read. In China, the scholars were a class apart, above the ordinary folks who were merchants, peasants or soldiers and could not read. And it was assumed that a man who could write an essay or a poem could do anything in this world. That is why China became so backward. Since the Sung Dynasty (960-1127), the country fell into the hands of scholars and government went into gradual collapse until the Communists captured it.

The snobbish may excite themselves over having read a few more printed words than another man read. But the brains of many untutored men have produced some remarkable results, particularly in business where such a one as Andrew Carnegie built a unit like the United States Steel Corporation without even a B.A. degree.

Chicago Crime Leader Tours Europe With Police Lieutenant

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The strange case of Chicago's No. 1 criminal touring Europe with a Chicago police lieutenant has just been flashed to Washington by the Italian police.

The Chicago racketeer is Tony Accardo, successor to Al Capone as czar of the Chicago underworld. The policeman is Lieut. Anthony DeGrazo, supposed to root out crime in Chicago.

The two men checked into Rome's fashionable Excelsior Hotel last week with their wives, taking an expensive suite with a joint living room. They had hardly unpacked before Dominico Roberto, an exiled Chicago gangster now living in Italy, moved into the room across the hall.

What the Accardo party didn't know was that it had been followed across Europe by the International Criminal Police organization, better known as Interpol. In Geneva, the Swiss police snapped pictures of the gangster and the Chicago cop touring together.

Upon learning he was making a grand tour of Europe with Chicago's No. 1 criminal, the Chicago police department promptly suspended Lieut. DeGrazo. This isn't the first time DeGrazo has been suspended. Twenty-five years ago he was suspended for allegedly taking a bribe but was returned to the force after a few days off duty. The record of this earlier suspension has now disappeared mysteriously from the Chicago police files.

Note—Their cross-the-hall visitor in Rome, Dominico Roberto alias Dan Roberts, was deported from the U. S. as an undesirable in 1935. He has a police record dating back to the roaring Twenties.

Race And Religion

Mayor Ben West of Nashville, Tenn., who gets the overwhelming vote of both whites and Negroes, tells this story about religion and the race problem:

An old colored man came into a Nashville church and sat unobtrusively in the back row. Afterward, the preacher came up to him and said: "Tom, I suppose you know that you just caused all sorts of commotion when you came in here."

Tom didn't seem to realize that he was unwanted. The preacher continued:

"Now Tom, suppose you go and talk this over with God, and see if he wants you to come back heah next Sunday."

Later in the week the preacher saw Tom again and asked him whether he had discussed the matter with the Lord.

"Yes, suh, I done talked de matter ovah wid de Lord," replied Tom, "an' he told me, 'Tom, doan yo' worry about dat at all. Ah've been tryin' to get in dat church myself, evah since the day it was built'."

Strike Again In 80 Days

Biggest question-mark in the industrial world today is whether the United Steelworkers will go out on strike again after the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction period is over. This writer is predicting that they will.

Reason: Industry and the White House handled this strike with inexcusable ineptitude. What they did solidified the ranks of labor. The steel union didn't want a strike. Many members didn't like their president. They came close to voting him out some time ago.

Other labor leaders didn't like Dave McDonald. Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers, has long been peeved at him. John L. Lewis of the Mine Workers has called McDonald a playboy actor. But now, Reuther has voted him one million dollars. Other labor leaders have gone to bat for McDonald. Labor is now united.

Why? Labor sees this as an industry showdown against one union which later will spread to other unions.

They watched the following:

1. Ike didn't permit Federal mediation to head off the strike until the day the strike started—June 30. This is unprecedented. But Ike's golf cabinet kept telling him to stay out, they could handle it, that labor had to be put in its place.

Steel's House Guest

2. George Humphrey, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, now head of National Steel; George Allen. Ike's farm - golf - bridge partner who's a director of Republic Steel; and Jim Black, vice president of Republic, were his top advisers. Labor knew this. They resented the fact that Ike would go to California as the house guest of George Allen in the very middle of the strike. They wondered what public reaction would have been if Ike had been entertained for a week by Dave McDonald instead.

3. The President didn't step into the strike picture personally until early October, though urged repeatedly to do so by his Secretary of Labor and by Vice President Nixon. Once in September when he proposed a fact-finding board, he withdrew the offer quickly—after his steel friends opposed. Gerald Morgan, former attorney for U. S. Steel, now No. 2 assistant to Ike in the White House, wrote and signed the letter vetoing the fact-finding board.

4. The steel industry isn't hurting from the strike. It's paying for it out of federal taxes. Union members are hurting. And this makes them sorer than ever. They watched the industry roll up the biggest profits in history during the first half of the year, partly, they say, because they worked hard. Now they know that the industry can take its strike losses out of taxes which otherwise it would pay to Uncle Sam on these huge profits.

These are reasons why the men are almost certain to go back on strike after the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction expires.

Bizarre Story Of Hardscrabble District

By Joseph Alsop

HONG KONG

This is the bizaare story of Hardscrabble District in Big Remittance county in the year of Chinese Communism's "great leap forward," as told by Chief Clerk Cheng.

For necessary reasons, all the names are invented. But the sharp, witty young man I have called Cheng had just abandoned his Chief Clerkship when I found him here. He had no inducement to invent or ornament. He was closely questioned for six solid hours without falling into any discrepancy. And so I believe his tale, although it strikes almost the note of the first part of Joseph Mitchell's classic, "When Fascism Came to Black Ankle Country."

Just to finish introducing him, Chief Clerk Cheng was a Fukien man — the son of one of the home dwelling wives of the overseas Chinese, whose remittances to their families used to make up a big percentage of the local income. Being rich, mother Cheng had a large house. Being large, the house attracted Hardscrabble district's Party Secretary Li. By grace of this eminent boarder, young Cheng got a job in Hardscrabble District's combined party-and-government office as soon as he finished school.

Here five Communist activists, with a staff of nine others, ruled over Hardscrabble District's eight villages of about 50,000 people in all. Here Chief Clerk Cheng was first introduced to the glories of a full scale party effort, when the "blooming of the hundred flowers" led to the "anti-Rightist campaign" of 1957.

The year of the "great leap forward," 1958, opened auspiciously for Hardscrabble District with a brand new "anti-superstition campaign." In that flat part of coastal Fukien, the people have nowhere else to put their dead, so they have always buried them in tillable land. Now the grave mounds were to be flattened for tillage. Those who wished to keep their ancestors' bones somewhere else were graciously allowed to buy large pottery jars for the purpose, but no families that did not get remittances could pay the few cents the jar cost.

"The people minded the graves being taken as they minded food being taken," said Chief Clerk Cheng. "But Party Secretary Li and his deputy both came from another district — the Party Secretaries always do — and Li had his target to fulfill." So the militia were ordered to force the desecration of the graves at gunpoint. The unhoused bones were burned for fertilizer. The local temples of the earth godlings were thrown down for good measure. And Hardscrabble plunged onward into its next high-powered campaign, to collect for the state all the thin gold and poor silver ornaments of the people.

By then the spring was passing, and it was time for Hardscrabble District's mightiest contribution to the great leap, the grand campaign to make iron and steel in the backyard. Even Party Secretary Li was somewhat aghast when he got his secret instructions — Hardscrabble had a little source of iron ore, so his target was set horribly high. But when he called the people to the work, he boldly announced that they would "overfulfill this target by 160 per cent." And nothing, literally nothing was spared for his purpose from the first day when the County government sent down its alleged experts to show Hardscrabble District how to build its own blast furnace.

With bricks from the graves and ruined temples, the furnace was painfully built. The generator of the District rice mill was seized upon, to drive the furnace's fan. "Counter - revolutionary" elements were made to work for endless extra hours, cutting and carting the District's last stands of wood for fuel. Doors, window frames, even house beams were added to the fuel pile. As an extra touch, the ancestor tablets were used to start the slow fire that converted the wood into charcoal.

Through all the daylight hours, most of the District's women dug ore from the ore source and cleaned it and broke it up. Iron bedsteads from the rich-housed, doorknobs and nails from the houses of the poor were all collected. For three months the people worked at little else in daytime. Thus the fields were mostly ploughed and seeded and cared for in darkness, by the light of lamps. "Even so," said Chief Clerk Cheng, "Party Secretary Li was not really contented. He never overfulfilled his target by more than 130 per cent."

And how was this target overfulfilled? At this question, Chief Clerk Cheng burst out laughing. The "steel" ingots were those made by melting down the bedsteads and the like, with not much mixture of other metals. The "iron" and "cast iron" were made by crude smelting of the half-cleaned ore and adding any other substance that had a metallic ring to it.

When just about all the metal and all the fuel in the entire district had been consumed in this manner, "Party Secretary Li said the great success must be celebrated. A parade was formed to carry the output of the furnace to the County government office, with children with drums and banners leading the way. After that, "Party Secretary Li made another speech saying we must now turn to even more important work; and the blast furnace was forgotten, and so were the bits of metal it produced. In fact they were still piled up outside the County government building four months later, when I saw them there."

Thus Chief Clerk Cheng ended that part of the story. The great leap forward had already cost the Hardscrabble people their ancestors' graves, their bits of jewels, their temples, and a good part of their summer harvest, which was half-ruined by enforced neglect. But that was only the beginning, for Hardscrabble District had already become a "People's Commune" before the tragic-comic little parade to celebrate the blast furnace's simultaneous success and abandonment.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NEW LEADERS—Both political parties will have new chairmen of their national committees for the 1960 presidential campaign.

GOP chairman, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, of Kentucky, took the job only as a caretaker pending nomination of the Republican ticket next summer.

Democratic Chairman Paul Butler has served longer than any other member of his party in the Twentieth Century except Jim Farley. He tells friends that he is determined to quit once the convention has picked its candidates.

There is an interesting and untold story about Butler at the 1956 convention. A few months earlier he had conferred with Adlai Stevenson on the matter of his continuing as chairman in the event Adlai was nominated again.

Stevenson told Butler he wanted him to stay on and further that he wanted the national committee to conduct the campaign. However, when he actually was nominated, Stevenson indicated he would prefer another man.

A meeting of the national committee actually adopted a resolution "prohibiting" Butler from submitting his resignation. When Stevenson heard of this, he withdrew his objections. However, he named another man to conduct his campaign.

Butler is going to make sure this doesn't happen to him again. He has served notice to the leaders of his party that he will not be available.

Save Tax Dollars

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—Now is the time for investors to prepare for the year-end and save tax dollars.

There are only 33 trading days left for establishing gains for this year's tax and 37 days for taking losses.

The period for establishing gains is shorter because it takes four days to clear regular transactions. This means Dec. 26 is the deadline for gains, unless the sales are made for cash. On losses the deadline is 3:30 p. m. on Dec. 31, which is also the deadline for cash transactions on gains.

Between now and these two dates, an investor can take a number of steps to reduce his taxes.

The first job is to take an inventory of all investments — stocks and bonds, particularly the latter which are down this year.

The key figures are the actual cost and the current market, which show whether the investor has a gain or loss.

It is important to establish losses, particularly those that are not offset by realized capital gains. Such losses up to $1,000 can be taken against personal income at the top bracket. For a person in the 50 per cent tax bracket this is a tax savings of in the 25 per cent bracket, the in th e25 per cent bracket, the saving is $250. Either will save a lot of groceries.

Where the person has gains, a check of his investments may show some on which he has losses. He can between now and the year-end take these losses and thus reduce the tax on his gains.

This is also a good time to switch out of situations that seem unfavorable and into other investments with more promise. In establishing a loss, a person cannot buy back the shares until after 30 days, but he can switch into another stock in the same industry. Where for some reason he may wish to take a profit, he can buy back the same stock immediately, but that hardly is advisable.

Switching may be advisable even where the investor has a profit, because the situation surrounding that investment may have changed and a more favorable purchase in another stock may be through reinvesting.

In establishing losses, particularly where there is no gains to be offset, it makes no difference whether these losses are long or short term—that is six months longer or less. These losses up to $1,000 can be taken 100 per cent against regular income.

Where losses exceed $1,000, it also may pay to take them. Losses in excess of $1,000 can be carried forward as a short term capital loss for the next five years, and offset, until exhausted, against short or long term capital gains and against $1,000 of ordinary income in those years.

A taxpayer who wishes to establish a gain or loss now, but to defer its tax effects until 1960, may do so through a short sale. He keeps the short sale open—that is doesn't cover it—until after the first of the year. While the amount of his gain or loss is frozen by the short sale, it is taken into account for tax purposes in 1960.

Another tax saving step is where an investor wishes to make a charitable contribution. He can turn over stocks on which he has a gain, claiming as a deduction the market value as of the date of the gift, but paying no tax on the capital gains. If he were to sell the stock, and donate the cash received, he would have to pay the tax on the gain.

In checking over the list of investments, a person should hunt out those that may have become worthless this year. Such worthless securities are considered as capital losses to the full amount of the capital invested. Taxpayers have a seven-year period within which they may file claims for refund or credit resulting from worthless securities.

This is timely for victims of the "boiler shops" which have peddled in the recent years millions of dollars in worthless uranium and other wildcat ventures. The SEC allowed these securities to flow through the Washington hopper in big volume five years ago.

Any investment program requires constant watching. Now is the time to check and save tax dollars.

Baffling Contraction Of Fingers Can Be Cured

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

More than 125 years ago, Baron Dupuytren described a disabling condition of the hands in which the small and ring fingers bend and curl like claws. It is a slow process in which fibrous pads beneath the thick skin of the palm retract and force the fingers to turn into the hand.

The disorder is easy to recognize and surgery is the only treatment. Good results are obtained in 75 per cent of the cases. But the cause remains beyond our knowledge.

One or more lumps the size of a millet seed develop in the padding beneath the skin of the palm. They enlarge over the years, reaching the size of a green pea. These nodules flatten out, creating the scar tissue that produces the contraction.

The original lump is not caused by injury, inflammation, or a nerve disorder. It may be a tumor. Working men, especially painters and bricklayers, blame their occupation because it seems logical, but careful studies reveal this is not true. The deformity is found in office workers as well as laborers. In addition, it affects both hands in more than half the cases. Heredity is said to play a role because the disturbance occurs so often in families. Men are favored over women 7 to 1.

From the external appearance, it looks as though the tendons leading to the fingers are at fault, because they are so prominent. The tendons are not involved, however, as surgeons have discovered when trying to correct the pad. To obtain permanent relief, the thickend fibrous material must be removed from the palms by means of a delicate and tedious dissection of the tissues.

Tomorrow: Get your diabetes test now.

SURGERY OF THE AORTA

W. N. writes: Will you please explain the operation for a blown out aorta?

REPLY

If the aorta, the large blood vessel in the chest, becomes dilated and is in danger of blowing out like a punctured tire, a plastic aorta may be inserted after diseased part has been removed. This substitute link of blood vessel is made to order and includes branches if they are necessary. A special heart-lung machine may be needed to keep the circulation going while the operation is being performed.

BEGINNING OF ALLERGY

Mrs. T. writes: Before I had a penicillin reaction two years ago, I never had any allergy symptoms. Since then, from time to time my lips and eyelids swell and a hive or two appears on my skin. Has penicillin left me alleergic to various things?

REPLY

Allergies have to begin at some time. In your case penicillin was the trigger mechanism. The same situation may have developed after an initial attack of hives from strawberries or a severe attack of poison ivy.

STARVING A FIBROID

Mrs. J. writes: Can fibroids of the uterus be cured by fasting?

REPLY

No. The diet has nothing to do with these tumors. They shrink after the menopause but they never disappear completely.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

While a big musical comedy was going through its tryout period, the star thereof snatched a bite of lunch in a Boylston street beanery. Catching the arm of a fleeting waiter, he asked with deceptive calm, "Isn't Boston the city where they threw the tea into the harbor?" "It is," agreed the waiter.

"Aha," snarled the actor, his voice rising to a shout. "I suggest that you now do the same with this coffee."

More than $63 billion has been given or loaned to many countries during this period to aid in the reconstruction of lands directly and indirectly devastated by the last war.

Prompted by a series of factors, the Administration has come to the conclusion that Europe in particular is now able to stand on its own feet and help contribute to some of its still-struggling neighbors in addition. Contrary to some expectations, news of coming curtailments in the foreign aid program did not wring forth cries of woe from the recipients, but a determination by many of them to correct some of the injustices now in effect against American products.

Many nations impose harsh import penalties on American goods, while admitting comparable goods from other countries duty-free or with token tax levies. Japan has announced it intends to drop all biases against American goods, and the State Department has sent notes of protest to nations which restrict the import of American products.

Another factor in the decline of enthusiasm for foreign aid projects is the sizable trade deficit experienced by the U. S. in the last several years. Gold supplies have been leaving the Treasury at an alarming rate—between $3 billion and $4 billion a year.

Foreign economic aid is not about to come to a halt, but a realistic appraisal of the prospering European economy can only result in the conclusion that the economic depression in European industry and commerce has been broken. There is no longer a gigantic job of rebuilding to be done. Only minor patches to temporarily faltering economies are needed, and these can best be supplied by capital surpluses closer at hand.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Intellectuals' Responsibility

I recently received a letter which contained this paragraph:

"You know better than I that the U. S. has fallen into Khrushchev's trap. I consider that it is the duty of American intellectuals to warn the people about this danger . . ."

The word, intellectuals, troubled me. Who is an intellectual? Adlai Stevenson, for instance, has been called an egghead and that word came to be used for an American who spoke grammatical and rhetorical English. It hardly denotes more than that. After all, Michael Pupin, one of the greatest physicists this country has known, did not necessarily speak so perfect an English, he having been born and reared in what is now called Yugoslavia. Perfection of speech does not necessarily represent perfection of thought. William Jennings Bryan was undoubtedly one of the greatest orators this nation produced but he surely was not a man of enormous intellect. On the other hand, Abraham Lincoln never went to college, but he was a man of profound wisdom.

The term, intellectual, in our society, can only mean a person who devotes himself to activities which require the use of the brain rather than brawn. Senator Fulbright, the former Rhodes Scholar, would probably find such a definition inadequate. He would perhaps prefer a closer scrutiny of brain-work to eliminate any who do original thinking but have not attained the scholar's A. But then, neither Thomas Edison nor George Westinghouse could have obtained a Fulbright Scholarship, provided by the American taxpayer, to educate American students abroad. The difference between Cecil Rhodes and Senator Fulbright is that Rhodes put up his own money to give a British education to Americans and other Anglo-Saxons, but Fulbright's scholarships come from the government Treasury and the persons involved should be called wards of the Treasury. It is curious how one man's name latched itself on to something that all the people of the United States are paying for.

But that does not make anyone an intellectual; that is, someone who is different from all others, like a Hanlin scholar in ancient China, who, it was said, walked on eggs. Among the Jews in the ghetto, the intellectual was one who could read the Talmud and my father used to say that he could put a pin through 27 pages and tell which letter the pin had pricked. And I always wondered what that proved. On the other hand, a shoemaker was regarded as a low-down creature. Why a shoemaker should be lower than a man who could put a pin through 27 pages, I never could understand, all men being equal in the eyes of the Lord.

In the United States, no intellectual class exists. Nobody is set aside as elite, either by political prestige, family distinction, intellectual attainments or extraordinary wealth. There may be a few who believe that they are superior to others, but that is only temporary. Ours is truly a classless society in the strict sense that no position and few advantages in life are hereditary. If the rich do not move from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations, they do it in two and the son of a professor in a university might well be a taxicab driver or a jazz musician. Each man forms the pattern of his own life to a very great degree.

Therefore when one speaks of the intellectuals of this country, he is denominating a class that does not exist. Now, in Czarist Russia, it did exist because so few were literate that those who could read were ipso facto superior to those who could not read. In China, the scholars were a class apart, above the ordinary folks who were merchants, peasants or soldiers and could not read. And it was assumed that a man who could write an essay or a poem could do anything in this world. That is why China became so backward. Since the Sung Dynasty (960-1127), the country fell into the hands of scholars and government went into gradual collapse until the Communists captured it.

The snobbish may excite themselves over having read a few more printed words than another man read. But the brains of many untutored men have produced some remarkable results, particularly in business where such a one as Andrew Carnegie built a unit like the United States Steel Corporation without even a B.A. degree.

Chicago Crime Leader Tours Europe With Police Lieutenant

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The strange case of Chicago's No. 1 criminal touring Europe with a Chicago police lieutenant has just been flashed to Washington by the Italian police.

The Chicago racketeer is Tony Accardo, successor to Al Capone as czar of the Chicago underworld. The policeman is Lieut. Anthony DeGrazo, supposed to root out crime in Chicago.

The two men checked into Rome's fashionable Excelsior Hotel last week with their wives, taking an expensive suite with a joint living room. They had hardly unpacked before Dominico Roberto, an exiled Chicago gangster now living in Italy, moved into the room across the hall.

What the Accardo party didn't know was that it had been followed across Europe by the International Criminal Police organization, better known as Interpol. In Geneva, the Swiss police snapped pictures of the gangster and the Chicago cop touring together.

Upon learning he was making a grand tour of Europe with Chicago's No. 1 criminal, the Chicago police department promptly suspended Lieut. DeGrazo. This isn't the first time DeGrazo has been suspended. Twenty-five years ago he was suspended for allegedly taking a bribe but was returned to the force after a few days off duty. The record of this earlier suspension has now disappeared mysteriously from the Chicago police files.

Note—Their cross-the-hall visitor in Rome, Dominico Roberto alias Dan Roberts, was deported from the U. S. as an undesirable in 1935. He has a police record dating back to the roaring Twenties.

Race And Religion

Mayor Ben West of Nashville, Tenn., who gets the overwhelming vote of both whites and Negroes, tells this story about religion and the race problem:

An old colored man came into a Nashville church and sat unobtrusively in the back row. Afterward, the preacher came up to him and said: "Tom, I suppose you know that you just caused all sorts of commotion when you came in here."

Tom didn't seem to realize that he was unwanted. The preacher continued:

"Now Tom, suppose you go and talk this over with God, and see if he wants you to come back heah next Sunday."

Later in the week the preacher saw Tom again and asked him whether he had discussed the matter with the Lord.

"Yes, suh, I done talked de matter ovah wid de Lord," replied Tom, "an' he told me, 'Tom, doan yo' worry about dat at all. Ah've been tryin' to get in dat church myself, evah since the day it was built'."

Strike Again In 80 Days

Biggest question-mark in the industrial world today is whether the United Steelworkers will go out on strike again after the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction period is over. This writer is predicting that they will.

Reason: Industry and the White House handled this strike with inexcusable ineptitude. What they did solidified the ranks of labor. The steel union didn't want a strike. Many members didn't like their president. They came close to voting him out some time ago.

Other labor leaders didn't like Dave McDonald. Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers, has long been peeved at him. John L. Lewis of the Mine Workers has called McDonald a playboy actor. But now, Reuther has voted him one million dollars. Other labor leaders have gone to bat for McDonald. Labor is now united.

Why? Labor sees this as an industry showdown against one union which later will spread to other unions.

They watched the following:

1. Ike didn't permit Federal mediation to head off the strike until the day the strike started—June 30. This is unprecedented. But Ike's golf cabinet kept telling him to stay out, they could handle it, that labor had to be put in its place.

Steel's House Guest

2. George Humphrey, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, now head of National Steel; George Allen. Ike's farm - golf - bridge partner who's a director of Republic Steel; and Jim Black, vice president of Republic, were his top advisers. Labor knew this. They resented the fact that Ike would go to California as the house guest of George Allen in the very middle of the strike. They wondered what public reaction would have been if Ike had been entertained for a week by Dave McDonald instead.

3. The President didn't step into the strike picture personally until early October, though urged repeatedly to do so by his Secretary of Labor and by Vice President Nixon. Once in September when he proposed a fact-finding board, he withdrew the offer quickly—after his steel friends opposed. Gerald Morgan, former attorney for U. S. Steel, now No. 2 assistant to Ike in the White House, wrote and signed the letter vetoing the fact-finding board.

4. The steel industry isn't hurting from the strike. It's paying for it out of federal taxes. Union members are hurting. And this makes them sorer than ever. They watched the industry roll up the biggest profits in history during the first half of the year, partly, they say, because they worked hard. Now they know that the industry can take its strike losses out of taxes which otherwise it would pay to Uncle Sam on these huge profits.

These are reasons why the men are almost certain to go back on strike after the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction expires.

Bizarre Story Of Hardscrabble District

By Joseph Alsop

HONG KONG

This is the bizaare story of Hardscrabble District in Big Remittance county in the year of Chinese Communism's "great leap forward," as told by Chief Clerk Cheng.

For necessary reasons, all the names are invented. But the sharp, witty young man I have called Cheng had just abandoned his Chief Clerkship when I found him here. He had no inducement to invent or ornament. He was closely questioned for six solid hours without falling into any discrepancy. And so I believe his tale, although it strikes almost the note of the first part of Joseph Mitchell's classic, "When Fascism Came to Black Ankle Country."

Just to finish introducing him, Chief Clerk Cheng was a Fukien man — the son of one of the home dwelling wives of the overseas Chinese, whose remittances to their families used to make up a big percentage of the local income. Being rich, mother Cheng had a large house. Being large, the house attracted Hardscrabble district's Party Secretary Li. By grace of this eminent boarder, young Cheng got a job in Hardscrabble District's combined party-and-government office as soon as he finished school.

Here five Communist activists, with a staff of nine others, ruled over Hardscrabble District's eight villages of about 50,000 people in all. Here Chief Clerk Cheng was first introduced to the glories of a full scale party effort, when the "blooming of the hundred flowers" led to the "anti-Rightist campaign" of 1957.

The year of the "great leap forward," 1958, opened auspiciously for Hardscrabble District with a brand new "anti-superstition campaign." In that flat part of coastal Fukien, the people have nowhere else to put their dead, so they have always buried them in tillable land. Now the grave mounds were to be flattened for tillage. Those who wished to keep their ancestors' bones somewhere else were graciously allowed to buy large pottery jars for the purpose, but no families that did not get remittances could pay the few cents the jar cost.

"The people minded the graves being taken as they minded food being taken," said Chief Clerk Cheng. "But Party Secretary Li and his deputy both came from another district — the Party Secretaries always do — and Li had his target to fulfill." So the militia were ordered to force the desecration of the graves at gunpoint. The unhoused bones were burned for fertilizer. The local temples of the earth godlings were thrown down for good measure. And Hardscrabble plunged onward into its next high-powered campaign, to collect for the state all the thin gold and poor silver ornaments of the people.

By then the spring was passing, and it was time for Hardscrabble District's mightiest contribution to the great leap, the grand campaign to make iron and steel in the backyard. Even Party Secretary Li was somewhat aghast when he got his secret instructions — Hardscrabble had a little source of iron ore, so his target was set horribly high. But when he called the people to the work, he boldly announced that they would "overfulfill this target by 160 per cent." And nothing, literally nothing was spared for his purpose from the first day when the County government sent down its alleged experts to show Hardscrabble District how to build its own blast furnace.

With bricks from the graves and ruined temples, the furnace was painfully built. The generator of the District rice mill was seized upon, to drive the furnace's fan. "Counter - revolutionary" elements were made to work for endless extra hours, cutting and carting the District's last stands of wood for fuel. Doors, window frames, even house beams were added to the fuel pile. As an extra touch, the ancestor tablets were used to start the slow fire that converted the wood into charcoal.

Through all the daylight hours, most of the District's women dug ore from the ore source and cleaned it and broke it up. Iron bedsteads from the rich-housed, doorknobs and nails from the houses of the poor were all collected. For three months the people worked at little else in daytime. Thus the fields were mostly ploughed and seeded and cared for in darkness, by the light of lamps. "Even so," said Chief Clerk Cheng, "Party Secretary Li was not really contented. He never overfulfilled his target by more than 130 per cent."

And how was this target overfulfilled? At this question, Chief Clerk Cheng burst out laughing. The "steel" ingots were those made by melting down the bedsteads and the like, with not much mixture of other metals. The "iron" and "cast iron" were made by crude smelting of the half-cleaned ore and adding any other substance that had a metallic ring to it.

When just about all the metal and all the fuel in the entire district had been consumed in this manner, "Party Secretary Li said the great success must be celebrated. A parade was formed to carry the output of the furnace to the County government office, with children with drums and banners leading the way. After that, "Party Secretary Li made another speech saying we must now turn to even more important work; and the blast furnace was forgotten, and so were the bits of metal it produced. In fact they were still piled up outside the County government building four months later, when I saw them there."

Thus Chief Clerk Cheng ended that part of the story. The great leap forward had already cost the Hardscrabble people their ancestors' graves, their bits of jewels, their temples, and a good part of their summer harvest, which was half-ruined by enforced neglect. But that was only the beginning, for Hardscrabble District had already become a "People's Commune" before the tragic-comic little parade to celebrate the blast furnace's simultaneous success and abandonment.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NEW LEADERS—Both political parties will have new chairmen of their national committees for the 1960 presidential campaign.

GOP chairman, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, of Kentucky, took the job only as a caretaker pending nomination of the Republican ticket next summer.

Democratic Chairman Paul Butler has served longer than any other member of his party in the Twentieth Century except Jim Farley. He tells friends that he is determined to quit once the convention has picked its candidates.

There is an interesting and untold story about Butler at the 1956 convention. A few months earlier he had conferred with Adlai Stevenson on the matter of his continuing as chairman in the event Adlai was nominated again.

Stevenson told Butler he wanted him to stay on and further that he wanted the national committee to conduct the campaign. However, when he actually was nominated, Stevenson indicated he would prefer another man.

A meeting of the national committee actually adopted a resolution "prohibiting" Butler from submitting his resignation. When Stevenson heard of this, he withdrew his objections. However, he named another man to conduct his campaign.

Butler is going to make sure this doesn't happen to him again. He has served notice to the leaders of his party that he will not be available.

Save Tax Dollars

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—Now is the time for investors to prepare for the year-end and save tax dollars.

There are only 33 trading days left for establishing gains for this year's tax and 37 days for taking losses.

The period for establishing gains is shorter because it takes four days to clear regular transactions. This means Dec. 26 is the deadline for gains, unless the sales are made for cash. On losses the deadline is 3:30 p. m. on Dec. 31, which is also the deadline for cash transactions on gains.

Between now and these two dates, an investor can take a number of steps to reduce his taxes.

The first job is to take an inventory of all investments — stocks and bonds, particularly the latter which are down this year.

The key figures are the actual cost and the current market, which show whether the investor has a gain or loss.

It is important to establish losses, particularly those that are not offset by realized capital gains. Such losses up to $1,000 can be taken against personal income at the top bracket. For a person in the 50 per cent tax bracket this is a tax savings of in the 25 per cent bracket, the in th e25 per cent bracket, the saving is $250. Either will save a lot of groceries.

Where the person has gains, a check of his investments may show some on which he has losses. He can between now and the year-end take these losses and thus reduce the tax on his gains.

This is also a good time to switch out of situations that seem unfavorable and into other investments with more promise. In establishing a loss, a person cannot buy back the shares until after 30 days, but he can switch into another stock in the same industry. Where for some reason he may wish to take a profit, he can buy back the same stock immediately, but that hardly is advisable.

Switching may be advisable even where the investor has a profit, because the situation surrounding that investment may have changed and a more favorable purchase in another stock may be through reinvesting.

In establishing losses, particularly where there is no gains to be offset, it makes no difference whether these losses are long or short term—that is six months longer or less. These losses up to $1,000 can be taken 100 per cent against regular income.

Where losses exceed $1,000, it also may pay to take them. Losses in excess of $1,000 can be carried forward as a short term capital loss for the next five years, and offset, until exhausted, against short or long term capital gains and against $1,000 of ordinary income in those years.

A taxpayer who wishes to establish a gain or loss now, but to defer its tax effects until 1960, may do so through a short sale. He keeps the short sale open—that is doesn't cover it—until after the first of the year. While the amount of his gain or loss is frozen by the short sale, it is taken into account for tax purposes in 1960.

Another tax saving step is where an investor wishes to make a charitable contribution. He can turn over stocks on which he has a gain, claiming as a deduction the market value as of the date of the gift, but paying no tax on the capital gains. If he were to sell the stock, and donate the cash received, he would have to pay the tax on the gain.

In checking over the list of investments, a person should hunt out those that may have become worthless this year. Such worthless securities are considered as capital losses to the full amount of the capital invested. Taxpayers have a seven-year period within which they may file claims for refund or credit resulting from worthless securities.

This is timely for victims of the "boiler shops" which have peddled in the recent years millions of dollars in worthless uranium and other wildcat ventures. The SEC allowed these securities to flow through the Washington hopper in big volume five years ago.

Any investment program requires constant watching. Now is the time to check and save tax dollars.

Baffling Contraction Of Fingers Can Be Cured

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

More than 125 years ago, Baron Dupuytren described a disabling condition of the hands in which the small and ring fingers bend and curl like claws. It is a slow process in which fibrous pads beneath the thick skin of the palm retract and force the fingers to turn into the hand.

The disorder is easy to recognize and surgery is the only treatment. Good results are obtained in 75 per cent of the cases. But the cause remains beyond our knowledge.

One or more lumps the size of a millet seed develop in the padding beneath the skin of the palm. They enlarge over the years, reaching the size of a green pea. These nodules flatten out, creating the scar tissue that produces the contraction.

The original lump is not caused by injury, inflammation, or a nerve disorder. It may be a tumor. Working men, especially painters and bricklayers, blame their occupation because it seems logical, but careful studies reveal this is not true. The deformity is found in office workers as well as laborers. In addition, it affects both hands in more than half the cases. Heredity is said to play a role because the disturbance occurs so often in families. Men are favored over women 7 to 1.

From the external appearance, it looks as though the tendons leading to the fingers are at fault, because they are so prominent. The tendons are not involved, however, as surgeons have discovered when trying to correct the pad. To obtain permanent relief, the thickend fibrous material must be removed from the palms by means of a delicate and tedious dissection of the tissues.

SURGERY OF THE AORTA

W. N. writes: Will you please explain the operation for a blown out aorta?

REPLY

If the aorta, the large blood vessel in the chest, becomes dilated and is in danger of blowing out like a punctured tire, a plastic aorta may be inserted after diseased part has been removed. This substitute link of blood vessel is made to order and includes branches if they are necessary. A special heart-lung machine may be needed to keep the circulation going while the operation is being performed.

BEGINNING OF ALLERGY

Mrs. T. writes: Before I had a penicillin reaction two years ago, I never had any allergy symptoms. Since then, from time to time my lips and eyelids swell and a hive or two appears on my skin. Has penicillin left me alleergic to various things?

REPLY

Allergies have to begin at some time. In your case penicillin was the trigger mechanism. The same situation may have developed after an initial attack of hives from strawberries or a severe attack of poison ivy.

STARVING A FIBROID

Mrs. J. writes: Can fibroids of the uterus be cured by fasting?

REPLY

No. The diet has nothing to do with these tumors. They shrink after the menopause but they never disappear completely.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

While a big musical comedy was going through its tryout period, the star thereof snatched a bite of lunch in a Boylston street beanery. Catching the arm of a fleeting waiter, he asked with deceptive calm, "Isn't Boston the city where they threw the tea into the harbor?" "It is," agreed the waiter.

"Aha," snarled the actor, his voice rising to a shout. "I suggest that you now do the same with this coffee."

Critic Gilbert Seldes has a fine idea for TV sponsors. "If one of them," says this dreamer, "would put his show on the air without a single commercial — I'm sure he'd sell four times the amount of his product!"

In Purdue they're claiming a coed who's so unpopular her phone doesn't even ring while she's in the bathtub.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

A famous psychiatrist, William Menninger, says almost anyone is a little bit whacky. Guess this goofy old world is really dizzier than we thought.

"Almost anyone," the man said. That obviously means everybody except, perhaps, you —and, certainly, me!

Nature's hard to understand. After painting all those autumn leaves a beautiful golden brown, she throws 'em away!

The Russians are reported testing a new type of ship which travels by means of submerged wings. If it works this could make quite a splash in nautical circles.

A Virginia barber says he'll run for President of the U. S. He should know his politics — he's heard enough talk about it.

New York City's newest museum for the display of paintings and sculptures is built in the shape of a corkscrew. It's the very latest thing, naturally, in artistic circles.

Labor Survey Is Scheduled For Garrett Co.

OAKLAND—The Garrett County Commissioners, in cooperation with service clubs and other organizations, are sponsoring a house-to-house survey to determine an accurate figure on the labor pool in the county, for the purpose of providing definite information to interested industries which might be planning to locate in this area.

Carl Schell, president of the board, said he has secured the assistance of the Farm Bureau and Rotary and Lions clubs of the county.

Members of the newly appointed Industrial Development Committee will assist in gathering information. On the committee are Harry Edwards, Grantsville; Jesse Walker, Kitzmiller; Robert Ridder, Gormania; Earl Guard, Friendsville, and Lowell Loomis, Oakland.

Spearheading the survey will be the Garrett County Farm Bureau, Inc., Friendsville Rotary Club, Grantsville Rotary Club; Kitzmiller Lions Club, Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions Club, and Oakland Rotary Club. Following completion of the house-to-house survey other groups will aid in classifying, sorting and tabulating the information forms.

Schell explained that the "labor pool" information will then become a part of the information available for persons seeking sites for industrial plants. He added that any person inquiring about available industry sites will ask first of all about a labor pool.

Scene From "Huckleberry Finn" At Fort Ashby High

Mayor Heath Names Yule Committees

ROWLESBURG—Mayor James H. Heath has appointed the following two committees to formulate plans for the annual community Christmas program and street decorations:

Finance, Mrs. Howard T. Grove, Mrs. Max Fortney, Mrs. Ersel Lantz and Mrs. Roy Huffman, and lighting, Walter Britner, David A. Lantz, L. B. Waybright and James Gary.

The next meeting will be held November 30 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall. Various organizations have been asked to have representatives present.

Garrett Teachers To Hold Annual Dinner Nov. 17

OAKLAND — Members of the Garrett County Teachers Association will hold their annual dinner Tuesday, November 17, at Northern High School, according to Eugene Flinn, president.

Principal speaker will be Rev. Stacey Groscup, pastor of Spruce Street Methodist Church in Morgantown. During his residence in West Virginia, he has been a teacher of archery and was a basketball coach at Morris Harvey College. His main interest, other than the ministry, is conservation. While attending Duke University he was a member of the boxing team.

In charge of the program and planning are Mrs. George H. Hanst, Mrs. Glenn Randol, Mrs. Percy Lawton, Miss Frances Patterson, Mrs. Lucille Sines, Mrs. Russell H. Brown and Thomas Furlow. Darrell Malone will serve as toastmaster and Floyd Carson will deliver the invocation. Heading the entertainment committee are Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Sines with Furlow and Miss Patterson in charge of decorations.

Fire Auxiliary Committees Announced

MIDLAND—Maude Wilson presided at the monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Midland Volunteer Fire Company in the absence of Gertrude Eagan. The session opened with prayer, followed by the salute to the flag.

An auditing report submitted by Irene Llewellyn was accepted, and a donation was given to the County United Fund, Inc.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas program December 4, at which time a covered dish supper will be served at 6 p. m., followed by a jingle party. Each member will bring a $1 gift.

The following committees will serve for one year: Ways and means, Edna Downton, Margaret Blair, Viola Loar, Ann Youngblood, Delphia Hyde and Shirley Loar; sick, Helen Manley, Mary Blair and Mary Shearer; auditing, Irene Llewellyn, Elizabeth Hawkins and all officers; refreshments, Beatrice Summers, Hilda Eagan, Marie Dunn, Helen Hughes and Mildred Llewellyn; flowers, Agnes Monahan, Ruth Shillingburg and Margaret Dawson, chaplain, Angela McElwee; publicity, Ann Kilduff and Joy Broadwater.

Announce Engagement

KEYSER—Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Ryon, of Keyser announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Irene, to Donald Blaine Wenzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wenzel, Burlington.

Miss Ryon is a graduate of Keyser High School, class of 1959, and is a freshman pre-business administration major at Potomac State College where she is affiliated with the Potomac State Singers and the Pasquino, college newspaper.

Mr. Wenzel is a graduate of Aiken High School, Aiken, S. C. He attended Potomac State College from 1953 to 1955 and the following year entered the U.S. Navy. Second Class Petty Officer Wenzel is presently attached to Airborne Early Warning Squadron Eleven, in Argentia, Newfoundland. After his release from active duty Mr. Wenzel intends to complete his college education at the West Virginia University.

The date for the wedding is December 20, 1959.

Traffic Changes Protested

LONACONING — A large delegation of residents from Robbins Street, High Street and Gillis Hill areas appeared at the Lonaconing mayor and council meeting to protest the proposed traffic changes on Robbins Street and Jackson Street.

The group of townspeople are not in favor of having one-way traffic up Jackson Street and down Robbins Street. They favor having a stop sign to halt traffic coming down Robbins Street at the intersection of High Street, Gillis Hill and Robbins Street, to correct a driving hazard because of the blind curve, as cars approach the intersection.

The mayor and council will decide at the December meeting when views will be heard again, pro and con, on the traffic conditions.

A fire plug will be considered for a central location on Robbins Street that will provide the greatest number of houses fire protection.

Guard railings along the wall edge of Robbins Street from the hazardous intersection to the Charlestown District will be considered for driving safety.

A request was made to council that holes in the street on Gillis Hill be repaired.

Effective next week, the City Clerk will be in the town council building on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. This is a change from Tuesday and Friday nights, and was approved by the mayor and council.

4-H Club To Meet

ELLERSLIE—The 4-H Club will meet Friday at seven-thirty at the home of Miss Linda Porter. Mothers of the members are invited and Miss Nancy Marstellar will be present.

Plan Musical

LONACONING—Frank Biery, a famous American organist, will present "Music in the Modern Mood," Tuesday, November 17, at 9 a. m. in Valley High School assembly.

4-H Club Member From Bittinger Earns Trip To National Congress In Chicago

ACCIDENT — Ralph Buckel Jr., a 4-H club member from Bittinger, has been selected to receive the Maryland entomology trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago November 27 through December 5.

Notification of the trip and a county medal was awarded during the Garrett County Achievement program held Friday at the Accident Elementary School.

The all-expenses-paid trip is one of the top compliments given a 4-H club member in recognition of his outstanding character and ability.

Additional county awards received at the program by Buckel were leadership, poultry, boys' agricultural and achievement honors. The 17-year-old youth, a senior at Northern High School, has been a 4-H club member since he was 10.

Creates Interest

The entomology, or insect, project which he has carried for the past four years now consists of 142 insects. Demonstrations and display of his collections have created interest in this project among other 4-Hers. It has won him many blue ribbons at Garrett and Cumberland and fairs.

To learn the life history and habits of insects and relation of insects to modern living is the purpose of the entomology project. The 4-H club member learns to know beneficial insects and to recognize the major insect pasts in order to control them through proper and safe practices.

E. Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent, says Buckel "has an outstanding and diversified 4-H record of leadership and project work." This fall, at the Maryland State Fair, Ralph was named the 1959 Maryland State winner in the Junior Broiler Production program.

Scholarship Winner

He was a 4-H delegate in August to the American Institute of Cooperatives at the University of Illinois. A scholarship was achieved by his county electrical demonstration to the 1950 Club Week at College Park where he served as a song leader.

In addition to serving as president of his local club, he is also vice president of the Garrett 4-H County Council. Ralph has helped with many county activities such as Achievement Night, Fair float, 4-H Rotary program, Campfire, and 4-H tractor activities.

A speech based on his entomology project won him county and regional honors and participation in the state public speaking contest. Interest in dairy started with his first project of a calf and led to his participation in the dairy judging event at the State Fair as a member of the Garrett County Judging team.

KHS Students Study Nuclear Physics

KEYSER—The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Physics will present a program "This Atomic World," Thursday in the high school for the ninth through the twelfth grades. The topics include: Atomic Structure, Isotopes, Particle Accelerators, Radioactivity, Fission, Chain Reaction, Reactors and others.

These students will assist the demonstrators: Daniel Avers, Raymond Tenney, George Hardy and Michael Hardy.

College Expands French Work To Lab School

FROSTBURG — Experimental classes in French in the Laboratory School on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College have been started.

Miss Irene Kirkeby, who for several years has been teaching Romance languages in the college itself, began to teach French to the third and fourth grade students in the elementary school.

This year French has become a part of the curriculum for the same two groups, now fourth and fifth grades, in addition to this year's third grade group.

This education in French is strictly conversational, with no emphasis at all being put on grammatical analysis or sentence structure. According to Miss Angela Brady, principal of the new Thomas G. Pullen Jr. laboratory school, it is much the same as youngsters learning English. Miss Brady said, "When studying English, the children must first learn to speak it."

The principal added that teaching of French in the elementary grades is "wonderful." She added, "Children walk through the halls speaking French."

Miss Kirkeby is spending more time with the youngsters in French study this year as a result of the addition of James Daly to the college faculty to alleviate the college teaching situation.

Miss Brady stated that the children enjoy the study of the French language very much and that they follow Miss Kirkeby's instruction to the letter in putting what they have learned to practical use outside the classrooms.

The children use no text books in the class instruction. They are taught by the various methods employed by Miss Kirbeby, including stories in French which are read to them during the class periods.

Miss Brady commented that French is started with third grade groups with the opinion that the earlier children begin the study the more readily they are able to comprehend it. The instruction in the long-time "international language" will continue through the sixth grade.

Traffic Changes Protested

LONACONING — A large delegation of residents from Robbins Street, High Street and Gillis Hill areas appeared at the Lonaconing mayor and council meeting to protest the proposed traffic changes on Robbins Street and Jackson Street.

The group of townspeople are not in favor of having one-way traffic up Jackson Street and down Robbins Street. They favor having a stop sign to halt traffic coming down Robbins Street at the intersection of High Street, Gillis Hill and Robbins Street, to correct a driving hazard because of the blind curve, as cars approach the intersection.

The mayor and council will decide at the December meeting when views will be heard again, pro and con, on the traffic conditions.

A fire plug will be considered for a central location on Robbins Street that will provide the greatest number of houses fire protection.

Guard railings along the wall edge of Robbins Street from the hazardous intersection to the Charlestown District will be considered for driving safety.

A request was made to council that holes in the street on Gillis Hill be repaired.

Effective next week, the City Clerk will be in the town council building on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. This is a change from Tuesday and Friday nights, and was approved by the mayor and council.

4-H Club To Meet

ELLERSLIE—The 4-H Club will meet Friday at seven-thirty at the home of Miss Linda Porter. Mothers of the members are invited and Miss Nancy Marstellar will be present.

Plan Musical

LONACONING—Frank Biery, a famous American organist, will present "Music in the Modern Mood," Tuesday, November 17, at 9 a. m. in Valley High School assembly.

KHS Students Study Nuclear Physics

KEYSER—The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Physics will present a program "This Atomic World," Thursday in the high school for the ninth through the twelfth grades. The topics include: Atomic Structure, Isotopes, Particle Accelerators, Radioactivity, Fission, Chain Reaction, Reactors and others.

These students will assist the demonstrators: Daniel Avers, Raymond Tenney, George Hardy and Michael Hardy.

Moorefield Airs Problems Of Annexation

MOOREFIELD—The Moorefield Intercivic Club Council heard reports on the status of the proposed annexation to the town of Moorefield at the meeting at the Hardy County Public Library, and members will report to various organizations represented at the council. The annexation proposal is a project of the council.

The petition to be signed by at least five per cent of the property owners in the present town is being circulated. This petition will be presented to the Town Council which will call a special election within 30 days. The voters in the present town limits will vote at local polling place and the voters and land owners in the section proposed to be annexed at a separate polling place. Corporations are eligible to vote if they are property owners. A majority vote is necessary for annexation approval.

The problem of quarters for a Teen Canteen, under discussion for the past several months, was continued pending arrangements with the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company's completion of their new auditorium.

L. L. McConnell, president of the community group, named a committee to determine steps in the incorporation of Olivet Cemetery so the local cemetery could function as a perpetual care organization and receive funds in trust for perpetual care.

The council is made up of representatives of each of the 14 organized civic groups in the town.

SPEAKER—Bonn Brown, of Elkins, department commander of the American Legion of West Virginia, will speak at the Veterans Day party of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, Piedmont, Friday at 8 p. m. An attorney, he served in the Marine Corps during World War II. Other state officials will attend the program, at which movies will be shown and refreshments served.

Rinard-Bishop Wedding Performed At Kingwood

KINGWOOD—Mrs. Joseph Emory Bishop, Albright, announced the marriage of her daughter, Shirley, to James Franklin Rinard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rinard, Keyser. It took place in the Kingwood Methodist Church, Kingwood, with the double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Joseph Casey before an altar decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums, ferns, palms, and candelabras of lighted candles. Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding march were played by the organist, Mrs. Kay Eliason. Vocal selections sung by Harold Benson were "Because," "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, escorted by her brother-in-law, Willard A. Groves, Kingwood, was attired in a full length gown of peau' de soie' fashioned with a boat neckline, long tapered sleeves, and a bouffant skirt designed to give the effect of a chapel train. The fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. Her only jewelry was a cultured drop pearl necklace and earrings, gifts of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, fuiji mums, stephanotis, and ivy.

Miss Jeanne Button, Wheeling, served the bride as maid of honor. Miss Anna Mae Figaretti, Wheeling, and Rose Marie Ambrose, Tornoto, Ohio, were bridesmaids. Her attendants carried out the autumn wedding by wearing colorful fall shades of willow green, gold, and rust pear dior gowns, fashioned with V necklines and ballerina length skirts. Each carried muffs with corsages of yellow and bronze fuiji mums. The gowns were designed by Mrs. Helen Watson, Valley Grove.

Gerould Grubbs, Keyser, was best man. Richard Morris and Clarence Sears Jr., both of Keyser, were ushers. Michael Allen Groves, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a lavender wool sheath dress accented by a white feather hat and white orchid. The mother of the groom wore a blue sheath silk crepe dress with a matching feather hat and white orchid.

A reception was held at The Inn following the ceremony. The bridal motif was carried out in autumn colored decorations and floral arrangements. The four-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom figurines, centered the refreshment table. Miss Eleanor Wilson was in charge of the dining room. Mrs. Lucille Morgan presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Kay Conrad served the wedding cake. Mrs. Willard Groves, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Misses Mary Jane Lyons, Marilyn Garrison, Sue Ann Bishop, sister of the bride, assisted with the serving.

For their wedding trip to Blackwater Falls the bride wore a brown wool sheath dress with matching brown and beige accessories, accented with a feather hat.

The bride is a graduate of Potomac State College and West Virginia University with a B. S. degree in Home Economics, and a member of Alpha Phi Sorority. She is employed by W. Va. University Extension Service as Home Demonstration Agent in Ohio County.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Potomac State College and West Virginia University with a B. S. degree in Electrical Engineering. He is employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Cumberland, Md.

Gas Company Leases Tract

BEDFORD—The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company of Pittsburgh has put another 840 acres of county land in four townships under oil-gas lease. The leases are in the same general area in which exploratory drilling has been done in recent years, southeast of Everett, near Clearville.

The newest leases raise the total amount of county land leased by gas firms this year to more than 13,000 acres.

The latest leases cover 463 acres in West Providence Township, 210 acres in Monroe Township, 135 acres in Mann Township and 32 acres in Cumberland Valley Township, the latter a right-of-way lease rather than an oil-gas lease. All leases are for 10-year periods.

Jurors Convict Super Concrete In Weight Case

KEYSER — A Mineral county jury Saturday found the Super Concrete Company of Cumberland guilty in an overweight case trial which opened Friday.

Judge Ernest A. See, who was presiding, deferred sentence until this week.

The company was indicted by the grand jury of the present term of court for permitting Edward J. Cowgill to operate a truck on West Virginia Route 28 when it was overloaded.

Testimony by the state revealed the weight on one axle was 24,200 pounds. The maximum weight allowed by law is 18,000 pounds.

Cowgill was arrested by Humbolt Pritt of the state weighing crew and Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police.

Following the jury's verdict yesterday, Judge See excused the jurors until 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

13 Persons Attend Frostburg Veterans Day Ceremony At Soldiers Monument

FROSTBURG — Although practically every family in Frostburg has had one or more of its young men in military service in World War II or the Korean Conflict, 13 persons, including two policemen and the newspaper photographer, attended the service conducted by Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, at the east end of town at the monument commemorating the war dead of World War I.

Opposite the monument on the athletic field of Beall High School, children practiced soccer and track events, unaware of the service taking place until a volley was fired at the conclusion and taps sounded. Cars kept moving along the highway and even passed between the handful of spectators as John Glenn Beall Jr. spoke briefly.

Beall pointed out that Veterans Day is held in remembrance of those who served their country in time of war and that it originated after World War I but now has greater significance. He said this observance should be a reminder of "our precious heritage. We should again bring to mind those principles for which Americans died on the field of battle: Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Assembly, Freedom of Press and Freedom of Religion, and the right of man to think and act as he pleases in a society in which the individual governs."

He continued, "We are inclined to be complacent. We sometimes are only stirred to action when tragedy is right around the corner.

"We waited in World War I. We were caught by a sneak attack in 1941 that could have been catastrophic if the Japanese intelligence system had been better. If the Japs had realized the damage they had inflicted they could perhaps have wiped us out.

"A lapse into complacency such as we had prior to World War II would most surely lead to all-out destruction today," he continued.

"We are living in the age of the guided missile, the atomic bomb, the earth satellites, and in an age when man is seriously competing for space on the moon," the speaker said.

Beall continued by saying that he did not "infer that we should overarm or devote all of our time to talk of war, but we should be constantly aware of the threats to our way of life and precautions which must be taken to protect our valuable heritage."

In closing Beall said, "We must be active citizens in our local affairs, we must exercise the four freedoms, we must vote and have government by the majority.

"When we fail to do this our government fails, but when we are active aggressive citizens we can sell peace and freedom to the world and at the same time we are paying an everlasting tribute to our veterans because we are preserving and making full of life that form of government they defended."

Frank T. Powers, former commander of Farrady Post, was master of ceremonies. Rev. Paul V. Taylor of Zion United Church of Christ, gave the invocation and benediction. Following the placing of a wreath before the monument by Harry Cosgrove, commander of Farrady Post.

All stores and banks in Frostburg were open with the exception of the Potomac Edison Company. The post office also closed.

Bean May File For Governor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—State Senate President Ralph J. Bean of Moorefield announced his resignation Saturday as vice chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee.

Bean did not fully spell out his reasons for quitting the committee post he has held for three years. However, he was quoted by the Charleston Gazette:

"I'm seriously considering filing for statewide office. While I have not made a definite decision yet, if things continue to develop as they have recently, I feel that I will be a candidate in the Democratic primary."

Bean had said earlier that he was considering becoming a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Bean May File For Governor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—State Senate President Ralph J. Bean of Moorefield announced his resignation Saturday as vice chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee.

Bean did not fully spell out his reasons for quitting the committee post he has held for three years. However, he was quoted by the Charleston Gazette:

"I'm seriously considering filing for statewide office. While I have not made a definite decision yet, if things continue to develop as they have recently, I feel that I will be a candidate in the Democratic primary."

Bean had said earlier that he was considering becoming a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Two-Horse Spill Mars Laurel Race

31,278 Watch As New Record Set In Rough Event

By JOHN CHANDLER

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Bald Eagle of the United States bounced home an easy winner of the invitational $100,000 Washington D. C. International Wednesday —a roughly run global classic in which two riders were unseated, and several other jockeys complained of football tactics.

Riders of horses from Venezuela and Australia were spilled, the jockey of one of the two Russian horses came back with his nose bleeding, and Eddie Arcaro of the United States said:

"It was the roughest sonofagun I've ever seen, and I've ridden in a few."

"Like Football Game"

Bald Eagle scampered home 2½ lengths ahead of Midnight Sun, one of two French representatives in the eighth running of the race. A roaring Laurel Park crowd of 31,278, sprinkled with foreign diplomats, government officials and society's 400 sat in on the colorful spectacle.

"When they race like this, I do not want to be killed," said Nikolai Nasibov, who rode Russia's Garnir and finished out of the money. "It is more like a football game."

Pensilvania, a filly representing Venezuela, crossed over to the inner hedge in front of Vogel, the Australian horse, with less than a mile to travel. Vogel ran up on Pensilvania's heels, and both riders went down.

And for the eighth time in the world famous grass course classic inaugurated in 1952, the favorite lost.

This time it was Tudor Era, a British-bred horse representing the United States. Tudor Era came home third, 4½ lengths behind Midnight Sun, but 8 lengths in front of the fourth horse, France's Mi Carina.

The spill came with less than a mile to travel. The Venezuelan filly Pensilvania bobbled and Australia's Vogel ran into her. Both Gustavo Avila, Pensilvania rider and Billy Camer, who rode Vogel went down. Neither was hurt.

Horses Riderless

Neither Pensilvania nor Vogel went down, but they ran riderless around the course.

Bald Eagle, owned by Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim of New York, the copper magnate, was ridden by Manuel Ycaza. He was content to let Tudor Era take the early lead. Tudor Era is owned by Mrs. Hobert Herff of Memphis, Tenn., and was ridden by Bill Hartack.

Then with less than half a mile to travel, Ycaza gave Bald Eagle the word. Bald Eagle quickly assumed command with a quarter of a mile remaining had opened up a 5-length advantage.

Bald Eagle collected the winner's share of $70,000.

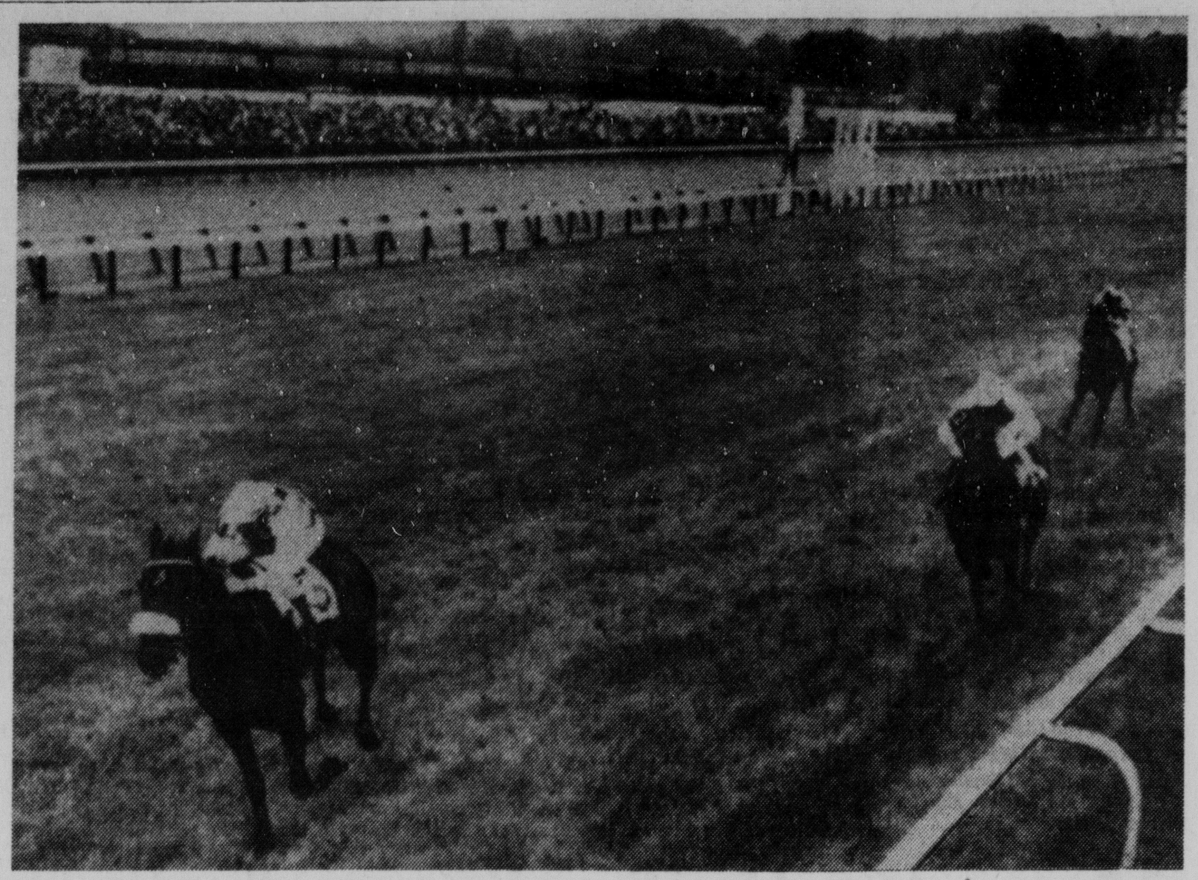

The time for the 1½ mile race was 2:28. This contrasted with the International record of 2:30 4-5.

In fifth place was one of the two Russian horses, Garnir. Then, in order, were Lightning from Peru, England's Aggressor, Russia's Flang, and the Mexican Lea-B.

Leads Vols To 14-13 Victory Over LSU

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Coach Bowden Wyatt never has to worry about the mental attitude of this year's Tennessee football team.

The fellow who keeps the Vols on their toes mentally is Capt. Joe Schaffer, whose standout performance in Tennessee's 14-13 upset of Louisiana State last Saturday won him the honor of Associated Press lineman of the week.

Schaffer, 210-pound senior from Cincinnati, plays tackle on offense and guard on defense.

"Attitude is 50 per cent of the battle in football," said Schaffer. "And the attitude of our team is good."

Schaffer uses psychology to keep his teammates in the proper frame of mind. It may be pat on the back for one; a quiet word or two for another.

Or it might be a squad meeting such as the one he called before the LSU game. Schaffer told his teammates:

"We're playing the nation's No. 1 team. I know all of you will be extra alert."

Schaffer is not the spectacular type, but is a fundamentally sound lineman who seldom makes a mistake.

He modestly accepted the lineman of the week accolade for his team.

"It is a nice honor and I certainly appreciate it," he said. "But our's is a team effort and I feel that perhaps some others are more deserving of it than I am."

Other linemen nominated by the nation's sports writers and sportscasters included:

Roger Davis, Syracuse guard, for his bangup game against Penn State.

Gerry Smith, Michigan linebacker, a defensive stalwart in the Wolverines' victory over Illinois.

Harry Baldwin, UCLA center, the Big Five lineman of the week for his great performance against Stanford.

Bill Carrico, North Texas State guard, a standout against Louisville.

Barrett Picks Romney To Stop Allegany Eleven

Bill Barrett, United Press International sports writer at Charleston, W. Va., has selected Romney High's Pioneers to tumble Allegany in their football contest this weekend.

Barrett, who has selected 438 correct results while losing 92 during the football season also names Potomac State to win over Baltimore City College, Handley High of Winchester, Va., to beat Martinsburg, Charles Town to top Clarke County, Va., High, Parsons to defeat West Union, and Masontown to whip Terra Alta.

Barrett figures Romney, winner of three of eight games this season, is a two-touchdown favorite over Allegany (6-2).

Salem Forfeits League Title; Fairmont Wins

Ineligible Players Cost 7 Victories

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP)—Salem College's "rags to riches" football story ended on a sad note Wednesday with the announcement the school has forfeited seven victories after discovering it used two ineligible players this year.

The disclosure from State College Conference Executive Secretary George Springer also erased any chance of holding a playoff game to decide the league championship.

Until the forfeitures, Salem led the loop's Eastern Division with a 7-1 record.

Fairmont, the Western Division leader with an 8-0 record, was automatically crowned the loop titlist without a playoff.

Springer said Salem Athletic Director Clem Clower advised him of letters of forfeiture the Tigers were sending to their seven defeated opponents.

Clower told Springer that Salem officials had no idea the players were ineligible until after their schedule was completed. One had been enrolled for a year at a Pennsylvania College but had not advised Salem of this fact. The other had played professional baseball in 1957 but did not tell Salem of this.

Salem's forfeitures were to Concord, West Liberty, Potomac State, Davis & Elkins and West Virginia State.

Race Commission Seeks To Close Local Track

Hagerstown, Bel Air Also On Block

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Three of Maryland's five half-mile race tracks may be abandoned by 1961 and their dates turned over to the major tracks at Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie, officials said Wednesday.

Racing Commission Chairman Bruce Livie and member Albert A. Shuger, at Laurel for the $100,000 Washington D.C. International, said the three halfers marked for extinction are Cumberland, Hagerstown and Bel Air.

Timonium and Marlboro, which have experienced better attendance and more wagering than the other three tracks, would continue to operate under the plan.

"We've just been talking it over," said Livie, "but that's what we'd like to do, and we're going to see if we can have legislation prepared in time for the next General Assembly." The Assembly meets in February for 30 days.

Livie said that under the plan the tracks would sell out to the three major ovals and their racing dates—12 each—would be split evenly among the bigger tracks. The majors now operate 40 days each annually.

The chairman said he was confident the proposal would receive the approval of the five-member commission without much opposition. Besides Livie and Shuger, the plan was understood to have the backing of Charle A. Jackson, giving it the necessary majority.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Assn., said he had no comment at the present. He explained the plan is a matter for every member of the fair association to discuss and it probably will be taken up at the next meeting.

The Cumberland group will meet, he said, after the return of U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, president of the fair association, from an overseas trip. He is due back Nov. 20.

Salem Forfeits League Title; Fairmont Wins

Ineligible Players Cost 7 Victories

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP)—Salem College's "rags to riches" football story ended on a sad note Wednesday with the announcement the school has forfeited seven victories after discovering it used two ineligible players this year.

The disclosure from State College Conference Executive Secretary George Springer also erased any chance of holding a playoff game to decide the league championship.

Until the forfeitures, Salem led the loop's Eastern Division with a 7-1 record.

Fairmont, the Western Division leader with an 8-0 record, was automatically crowned the loop titlist without a playoff.

Springer said Salem Athletic Director Clem Clower advised him of letters of forfeiture the Tigers were sending to their seven defeated opponents.

Clower told Springer that Salem officials had no idea the players were ineligible until after their schedule was completed. One had been enrolled for a year at a Pennylvania College but had not advised Salem of this fact. The other had played professional baseball in 1957 but did not tell Salem of this.

Salem's forfeitures were to Concord, West Liberty, Potomac State, Davis & Elkins and West Virginia State.

Race Commission Seeks To Close Local Track

Hagerstown, Bel Air Also On Block

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Three of Maryland's five half-mile race tracks may be abandoned by 1961 and their dates turned over to the major tracks at Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie, officials said Wednesday.

Racing Commission Chairman Bruce Livie and member Albert A. Shuger, at Laurel for the $100,000 Washington D.C. International, said the three halfers marked for extinction are Cumberland, Hagerstown and Bel Air.

Timonium and Marlboro, which have experienced better attendance and more wagering than the other three tracks, would continue to operate under the plan.

"We've just been talking it over," said Livie, "but that's what we'd like to do, and we're going to see if we can have legislation prepared in time for the next General Assembly." The Assembly meets in February for 30 days.

Livie said that under the plan the tracks would sell out to the three major ovals and their racing dates—12 each—would be split evenly among the bigger tracks. The majors now operate 40 days each annually.

The chairman said he was confident the proposal would receive the approval of the five-member commission without much opposition. Besides Livie and Shuger, the plan was understood to have the backing of Charle A. Jackson, giving it the necessary majority.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Assn., said he had no comment at the present. He explained the plan is a matter for every member of the fair association to discuss and it probably will be taken up at the next meeting.

The Cumberland group will meet, he said, after the return of U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, president of the fair association, from an overseas trip. He is due back Nov. 20.

Syracuse Tops College Teams In Statistics

Hard-Pressed By Ole Miss Scorers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Syracuse, the nation's top-ranked team, has a chance to become the first major college football team in history to win national "titles" in four different departments of statistics.

The NCAA disclosed Wednesday that the Orangemen survived Saturday's hard-fought 20-18 victory over Penn State with their national leads in total offense, scoring, total defense, and rushing defense intact. Only in scoring are they being hard-pressed by Mississippi.

Other team leaders this week are Mississippi in pass defense and defense against scoring, Arizona State in punting, North Texas State in rushing offense, and Stanford in passing offense.

Penn State gave Syracuse a tough test, gaining 111 yards against the Orangemen on the ground—almost equal to the entire total of 134 gained by previous Orange rivals in six games.

But the Orange allowed the Lions only 24 yards in the air, and this retained the overall defense lead with an average of 101.4 yards allowed per game. Syracuse tops total offense with 420.3 yards per game, scoring with 420.3 yards per game, and in rushing defense with 35.0 allowed yards per game.

Mississippi leads in forward pass defense with 50.4 yards allowed per game and in defense against scoring with 1.8 points allowed per game. Arizona State tops punting with an average of 44.4 yards per boot. Stanford's yards gained per game via passing is 205.0 yards, and North Texas State has gained 319.9 yards per game rushing.

If Mississippi can hold its two remaining opponents to less than nine points it will hang up the best scoring defense record in 20 years. But that could be tough with upset - conscious Tennessee on tap this week.

This week's figures also show that there isn't much point in trying to run back punts against Pennsylvania. The Quakers have allowed their rivals to run back 20 punts a grand total of just 39 yards—an average of less than two yards per return.

Navy has been the country's best at running back punts, averaging 18.4 yards per return.

Yankees Sign Lopat And Houk As New Coaches

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees, who lost their second pennant in 11 seasons this year, officially started their comeback campaign Wednesday by signing a four-man coaching staff for 1960 including the two heirs-apparent to Casey Stengel's job as manager — Eddie Lopat and Ralph Houk.

Houk reportedly rejected an offer to manage the Kansas City Athletics to remain with the Yankees for his third year of coaching. Lopat, former Yankee pitcher, minor league manager and pitching tutor for the club's minor league affiliates last year, succeeded Jim Turner as Stengel's pitching coach.

Others signed were Bill Dickey, returning to the club after a two-year leave because of illness, and Frank Crosetti, 28-year Yankee veteran as coach and player. That gave Stengel four coaches instead of three for the first time in six years.

Orange Bowl Seeks Syracuse Decision

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Orange Bowl committee underwent a change of heart Wednesday and said it will wait for Syracuse to make up its mind on accepting an invitation to play in the New Year's Day football game here.

Tuesday, while No. 1 Syracuse debated the offer, Dan C. Kussrow, chairman of the Orange Bowl Selection Committee, said "I doubt if we can wait."

Syracuse players have expressed a desire to play in Miami, but the school's Athletic Board said other factors were involved.

Davenport Has Knee Surgery

NEW YORK (AP)—Third baseman Jimmy Davenport of the San Francisco Giants said he felt "pretty good" Wednesday following a successful operation performed Tuesday night on an ailing left knee.

Davenport said "the operation was a success. The doctor assured me of that."

Davenport suffered cartilage damage in the knee Aug. 17 when he collided with catcher Ed Bailey of Cincinnati in a slide into home plate during a Giants-Reds game at Cincinnati.

Nats Buy Cable

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Syracuse Nationals Wednesday purchased Barney Cable from the Detroit Pistons in a straight cash transaction. Purchase price was not disclosed.

High Bid Wins Vineland Handicap

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI)—Wheatley Stable's High Bid, the odds-on favorite, caught Miss J.G. in the stretch and went on to score a length and three - quarter victory Wednesday in the $57,500 Vineland Handicap at Garden State Park.

Miss J.G. topped A Glitter by a length and one-half for second place in the 1⅛-mile race.

High Bid paid $4.00, $2.80 and $2.20. Miss J.G. gave second money of $5.40 and $3.40 while A Glitter paid $3.40 for third place.

Maryland Ends Heavy Scrimmages

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland completed its heavy work Wednesday for Saturday's Atlantic Coast Conference football game at Clemson.

Coach Tom Nugent scrimmaged the squad for 1½ hours, emphasizing offense and passing.

Everett Cloud, who played only intermittently in the Navy game last weekend because of a bruised rib, was pronounced ready to go at right halfback against the Tigers.

Former Army Back Leads Oxford Team

OXFORD, England (AP)—Pete Dawkins, former Army football All-America, Wednesday fired Oxford University's second team to a 29-3 victory over Sandhurst Military Academy at Rugby union—the English game Dawkins has been playing only five weeks.

The 21-year-old West Point student who comes from Detroit raced through for a try after only three minutes. He scored another try in the 53rd minute.

Both tries—the equivalent of a touchdown in American football—were individual scoring bursts.

Afterward Dawkins said: "I enjoy this English rugger very much. But it's very different from American football. I've still a lot to learn."

Fans who watched the American in action forecast that he's on the way to winning a place on Oxford's first team and a "blue" into the bargain—the award for playing the showpiece match against Cambridge.

Dawkins' two tries were worth six points in Oxford's victory.

Hard-Pressed By Ole Miss Scorers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Syracuse, the nation's top-ranked team, has a chance to become the first major college football team in history to win national "titles" in four different departments of statistics.

The NCAA disclosed Wednesday that the Orangemen survived Saturday's hard-fought 20-18 victory over Penn State with their national leads in total offense, scoring, total defense, and rushing defense intact. Only in scoring are they being hard-pressed by Mississippi.

Other team leaders this week are Mississippi in pass defense and defense against scoring, Arizona State in punting, North Texas State in rushing offense, and Stanford in passing offense.

Penn State gave Syracuse a tough test, gaining 111 yards against the Orangemen on the ground—almost equal to the entire total of 134 gained by previous Orange rivals in six games.

But the Orange allowed the Lions only 24 yards in the air, and this retained the overall defense lead with an average of 101.4 yards allowed per game. Syracuse tops total offense with 420.3 yards per game, scoring with 420.3 yards per game, and in rushing defense with 35.0 allowed yards per game.

Mississippi leads in forward pass defense with 50.4 yards allowed per game and in defense against scoring with 1.8 points allowed per game. Arizona State tops punting with an average of 44.4 yards per boot. Stanford's yards gained per game via passing is 205.0 yards, and North Texas State has gained 319.9 yards per game rushing.

If Mississippi can hold its two remaining opponents to less than nine points it will hang up the best scoring defense record in 20 years. But that could be tough with upset - conscious Tennessee on tap this week.

This week's figures also show that there isn't much point in trying to run back punts against Pennsylvania. The Quakers have allowed their rivals to run back 20 punts a grand total of just 39 yards—an average of less than two yards per return.

Navy has been the country's best at running back punts, averaging 18.4 yards per return.

Yankees Sign Lopat And Houk As New Coaches

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees, who lost their second pennant in 11 seasons this year, officially started their comeback campaign Wednesday by signing a four-man coaching staff for 1960 including the two heirs-apparent to Casey Stengel's job as manager — Eddie Lopat and Ralph Houk.

Houk reportedly rejected an offer to manage the Kansas City Athletics to remain with the Yankees for his third year of coaching. Lopat, former Yankee pitcher, minor league manager and pitching tutor for the club's minor league affiliates last year, succeeded Jim Turner as Stengel's pitching coach.

Others signed were Bill Dickey, returning to the club after a two-year leave because of illness, and Frank Crosetti, 28-year Yankee veteran as coach and player. That gave Stengel four coaches instead of three for the first time in six years.

Orange Bowl Seeks Syracuse Decision

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Orange Bowl committee underwent a change of heart Wednesday and said it will wait for Syracuse to make up its mind on accepting an invitation to play in the New Year's Day football game here.

Tuesday, while No. 1 Syracuse debated the offer, Dan C. Kussrow, chairman of the Orange Bowl Selection Committee, said "I doubt if we can wait."

Syracuse players have expressed a desire to play in Miami, but the school's Athletic Board said other factors were involved.

Davenport Has Knee Surgery

NEW YORK (AP)—Third baseman Jimmy Davenport of the San Francisco Giants said he felt "pretty good" Wednesday following a successful operation performed Tuesday night on an ailing left knee.

Davenport said "the operation was a success. The doctor assured me of that."

High Bid Wins Vineland Handicap

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI)—Wheatley Stable's High Bid, the odds-on favorite, caught Miss J.G. in the stretch and went on to score a length and three - quarter victory Wednesday in the $57,500 Vineland Handicap at Garden State Park.

Miss J.G. topped A Glitter by a length and one-half for second place in the 1⅛-mile race.

High Bid paid $4.00, $2.80 and $2.20. Miss J.G. gave second money of $5.40 and $3.40 while A Glitter paid $3.40 for third place.

Maryland Ends Heavy Scrimmages

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland completed its heavy work Wednesday for Saturday's Atlantic Coast Conference football game at Clemson.

Coach Tom Nugent scrimmaged the squad for 1½ hours, emphasizing offense and passing.

Everett Cloud, who played only intermittently in the Navy game last weekend because of a bruised rib, was pronounced ready to go at right halfback against the Tigers.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION:

My son parked his bicycle in front of a store while shopping. It fell against the plate glass window, breaking it. The store owner has insurance, and insists that I am liable for damages. Does my Comprehensive Personal Liability policy cover this accident?

Pete Dawkins Is Rugby Star

Former Army Back Leads Oxford Team

OXFORD, England (AP)—Pete Dawkins, former Army football All-America, Wednesday fired Oxford University's second team to a 29-3 victory over Sandhurst Military Academy at Rugby union—the English game Dawkins has been playing only five weeks.

The 21-year-old West Point student who comes from Detroit raced through for a try after only three minutes. He scored another try in the 53rd minute.

Both tries—the equivalent of a touchdown in American football—were individual scoring bursts.

Afterward Dawkins said: "I enjoy this English rugger very much. But it's very different from American football. I've still a lot to learn."

Fans who watched the American in action forecast that he's on the way to winning a place on Oxford's first team and a "blue" into the bargain—the award for playing the showpiece match against Cambridge.

Dawkins' two tries were worth six points in Oxford's victory.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—I knew when I saw "They Came to Cordura" it had to up Richard Conte's career—and it did. Now comes word that Dick has been signed for "Oceans 11" for Warners. It starts the first week in January under the direction of Lewis Milestone.

Personally, I think they ought to change that "Oceans 11" title to the "Italian Sea" because, besides the Sicilian Mr. Conte, it stars those pizza pals, Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin.

Bob Hope, kidding Sammy Davis Jr., at the Friar's dinner, told Sammy (who has joined the Jewish faith) that he bet he wishes he'd joined the Italians, too. Well, in a way he has. He's also in "Oceans 11," a thriller about a Las Vegas robbery.

The role of the scientist in "The Lost World" which Irwin Allen is producing for 20th Century-Fox, will be played by Gilbert Roland. This is more than just an ordinary casting because it has a sentimental significance for Gil who was in the original screen version made 34 years ago in Hollywood.

The difference is that he was just an extra in the first "Lost World," and in this second edition, a script written by Charles Bennett, Gilbert is the star.

That young special effects genius, Bert Gordon, who produced "The Spider" and "The Colossal Man," is going to present his No. 1 special effect, namely his 10-year-old daughter Susan. She'll be the star of his next United Artists picture, "The Boy and the Pirates."

You'll remember Susan made her big movie hit playing Danny Kaye's daughter in "The Five Pennies." She's a talented little actress and before she starts working for her daddy, she'll go east Dec. 2 to appear with Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes in "The Miracle on 34th Street" on TV.

Gordon is trying to get Cyril Ritchard to play Blackbeard, the pirate, if Ritchard can get a leave from the stage in "Pleasure of His Company."

There was a billion dollars worth of talent on the dais at the Friars testimonial for lovable and popular Dean Martin. The comic who stole the show was Joey Bishop. He isn't in the star class of some of the big names, but the boys had real competition in him.

Usually in affairs of this kind there are one or two who drag on with heavy speeches, but George Jessel, the master of ceremonies, was adept in handling the speakers, realizing that brevity is the soul of wit.

Judy Garland was called back again and again, and how she belted out those songs. Dinah Shore had a very cute parody, and of course you can't beat Bob Hope and Danny Thomas when it comes to spontaneous nonsense. Sammy Davis Jr., took a lot of kdding when he sang "I Wish I Had Benn Born Italian." There were 1300 people at the International Ballroom of the Beverly Hilton Hotel toasting Dean.

Better Grooming For Teen-Agers

You know love isn't something that you can turn on and off like a faucet. The same holds true for good grooming. There's nothing more disappointing than an unscheduled ring at your doorbell by a three-letter-man and you wishing you could sink through the floor because you now looked more like a drip. It doesn't matter how many alibis you invent for your appearance, there's not much you can do to ease the sting—except a sense of humor and good manners so he'll feel at home. Otherwise he would suffer with you, and no boy intentionally runs into a sad sack.

Looking your best at all times doesn't mean you have to be dressed up like you were ready to step out for a Friday night dance. It's just that we don't want you to forget your grooming until just before a date. The ol' beauty routine has to be a day in and day out proposition. Successful Power's Girls have found this out.

Any girl's complexion can be improved with daily cleansing, subtle make-up, exercise, fresh air, and a well-balanced diet. Nearly every head of hair responds to daily brushing, frequent shampoos, a becoming style, and a soft permanent wave. Any girl's figure will improve if she exercises and watches her diet and posture. General good health—and that means plenty of sleep and keeping happy—will give her eyes a sparkle and her popularity rating a lift. If you need help, send for my booklet, "Do You Measure Up?". Write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Way, Way Out

This has been a great year for science fiction or, if you like, weird fiction or tales of the other world, as it were. Besides giving birth to a couple of series like "Man and the Challenge" and "Man in Space," and "Twilight Zone," this interest has also spawned such other worldly entertainment as Ingrid Bergman in Henry James's old ghost story, "Turn of the Screw," and the other night, "Sunday Showcase" went way into outer space with "Murder and the Android."

The author of "Murder and the Android," Alfred Bester has created a world wherein human beings pelt around the universe, from planet to planet, waited on by androids, who are artificially created individuals, who look like human beings and can do everything we can do better. Except, of course, they have no souls. That old thing. Or, as one of the characters summed it up: "They can taste brandy but they can't appreciate it."

Into this halcyon world where the servant problem has finally been licked, comes a renegade android, very well impersonated by Rip Torn, who as they say on the show, has broken his conditioning. That is, he pats girls and sometimes almost kills them. His master, Kevin McCarthy, hasn't done a lick of work since he was born, living off the sweat of his android's brow. Both of them have to take to their heels whenever the android breaks the law, hopping from planet to planet, one step ahead of the forces of justice.

Despite the fact that the androids refer contemptuously to human beings as people who suffer from glandular disorders called emotions, Mr. Torn wants very much to suffer from these disorders himself. Eventually, he does. I have no intention of unravelling the whole plot which was not so much complicated as psychologically dense. If I understood him correctly, Mr. Bester is trying to say that having androids to free us of mundane preoccupations like work is by no means good for us. His humans are prety close to being bums.

Buried in there also was a rather ironic plea for tolerance. There was a shot of a Negro actor strenuously objecting to allowing androids the same accommodations on space ships as humans. The NAACP won't like that a bit. As an exercise in live television drama, I found it all fascinating but unconvincing. His characters—his girl, boy, scientists, and android — were all pretty much Everyman, which is to say cardboard cutouts.

Production and direction by Alex March were very striking and professional.

I don't know what it is this year that has driven us into the nether world. Certainly the best and most original anthology series of the year is Rod Serling's "Twilight Zone" which is very much on the outer fringes of reality. The stories are marvelously ingenious exercises in fantasy that border on fact. In short, they could almost be true. It's almost as if the writers are feeling the same urge as the astronauts—to break through conventional bounds of this planet and go live somewhere else, some other planet, some other reality.

And just as our flights into space are pretty crude, the writers' efforts to get out of this world are pretty crude, too. I don't think we have anyone who writes of the next world with the resounding authority of H. G. Wells or Aldous Huxley.

Henry James's "Turn of the Screw" is a ghost story but very much an old ghost story with nineteenth century whiskers all over its chin and a lot of loose talk about innocence and evil — two words that have passed out of the language in this age of psychiatrists. Ingrid Bergman was a marvelously passionate nurse in whose actions you could read almost anything you wished.

John Frankenheimer's direction, which got a little too baroque for its own good in "People Kill People Sometimes," was marvelously compelling, sure-footed, and sweeping. It has grandeur which this old tale sure needs. It was a chiller, all right. I hope Miss Bergman comes back in something warmer some time.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

A well chosen sequence of bids led to a virtual laydown slam today.

South opened in third position with one spade, and North was faced with the problem of making the most appropriate response.

A bid of three spades was quickly dismissed. Such a call after a previous pass is not forcing and allows partner the option to pass if he has opened a minimum hand. If a direct raise in spades were to be given, four would be the choice in order to be sure that game would be reached. (It will be observed that after a previous pass, a raise to four spades is stronger than a raise to three.)

North concluded that even a four spade bid might not do justice to the holding which, when revalued in support of spades, becomes worth 14 points and, in full confidence that South would bid again, made a jump shift of three diamonds.

It has long been the firm conviction of this department that a jump in a new suit by a passed hand should be forcing for one round on partner even when the opening has been made on shaded values. This provides responder with greater ease of bidding and, at the very worst, results in playing at a contract one level higher.

South naturally bid three hearts, and North thereupon jumped to four spades. It seemed an ideal hand for the Blackwood convention, so South made the inquiry and, upon confirmation that his partner held one ace, he contracted for six spades. The contract came home with relative ease, after the opening king of clubs lead.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—I knew when I saw "They Came to Cordura" it had to up Richard Conte's career —and it did. Now comes word that Dick has been signed for "Oceans 11" for Warners. It starts the first week in January under the direction of Lewis Milestone.

Personally, I think they ought to change that "Oceans 11" title to the "Italian Sea" because, besides the Sicilian Mr. Conte, it stars those pizza pals, Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin.

Bob Hope, kidding Sammy Davis Jr., at the Friar's dinner, told Sammy (who has joined the Jewish faith) that he bet he wishes he'd joined the Italians, too. Well, in a way he has. He's aiso in "Oceans 11," a thriller about a Las Vegas robbery.

The role of the scientist in "The Lost World" which Irwin Allen is producing for 20th Century-Fox, will be played by Gilbert Roland. This is more than just an ordinary casting because it has a sentimental significance for Gil who was in the original screen version made 34 years ago in Hollywood.

The difference is that he was just an extra in the first "Lost World," and in this second edition, a script written by Charles Bennett, Gilbert is the star.

That young special effects genius, Bert Gordon, who produced "The Spider" and "The Colossal Man," is going to present his No. 1 special effect, namely his 10-year-old daughter Susan. She'll be the star of his next United Artists picture, "The Boy and the Pirates."

You'll remember Susan made her big movie hit playing Danny Kaye's daughter in "The Five Pennies." She's a talented little actress and before she starts working for her daddy, she'll go east Dec. 2 to appear with Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes in "The Miracle on 34th Street" on TV.

Gordon is trying to get Cyril Ritchard to play Blackbeard, the pirate, if Ritchard can get a leave from the stage in "Pleasure of His Company."

There was a billion dollars worth of talent on the dais at the Friars testimonial for lovable and popular Dean Martin. The comic who stole the show was Joey Bishop. He isn't in the star class of some of the big names, but the boys had real competition in him.

Usually in affairs of this kind there are one or two who drag on with heavy speeches, but George Jessel, the master of ceremonies, was adept in handling the speakers, realizing that brevity is the soul of wit.

Judy Garland was called back again and again, and how she belted out those songs. Dinah Shore had a very cute parody, and of course you can't beat Bob Hope and Danny Thomas when it comes to spontaneous nonsense. Sammy Davis Jr., took a lot of kdding when he sang "I Wish I Had Benn Born Italian." There were 1300 people at the International Ballroom of the Beverly Hilton Hotel toasting Dean.

Better Grooming For Teen-Agers

You know love isn't something that you can turn on and off like a faucet. The same holds true for good grooming. There's nothing more disappointing than an unscheduled ring at your doorbell by a three-letter-man and you wishing you could sink through the floor because you never looked more like a drip. It doesn't matter how many alibis you invent for your appearance, there's not much you can do to ease the sting—except a sense of humor and good manners so he'll feel at home. Otherwise he would suffer with you, and no boy intentionally runs into a sad sack.

Looking your best at all times doesn't mean you have to be dressed up like you were ready to step out for a Friday night dance. It's just that we don't want you to forget your grooming until just before a date. The ol' beauty routine has to be a day in and day out proposition. Successful Power's Girls have found this out.

Any girl's complexion can be improved with daily cleansing, subtle make-up, exercise, fresh air, and a well-balanced diet. Nearly every head of hair responds to daily brushing, frequent shampoos, a becoming style, and a soft permanent wave. Any girl's figure will improve if she exercises and watches her diet and posture. General good health—and that means plenty of sleep and keeping happy—will give her eyes a sparkle and her popularity rating a lift. If you need help, send for my booklet, "Do You Measure Up?". Write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Way, Way Out

This has been a great year for science fiction or, if you like, weird fiction or tales of the other world, as it were. Besides giving birth to a couple of series like "Man and the Challenge" and "Man in Space," and "Twilight Zone," this interest has also spawned such other worldly entertainment as Ingrid Bergman in Henry James's old ghost story, "Turn of the Screw," and the other night, "Sunday Showcase" went way into outer space with "Murder and the Android."

The author of "Murder and the Android," Alfred Bester has created a world wherein human beings pelt around the universe, from planet to planet, waited on by androids, who are artificially created individuals, who look like human beings and can do everything we can do better. Except, of course, they have no souls. That old thing. Or, as one of the characters summed it up: "They can taste brandy but they can't appreciate it."

Into this halcyon world where the servant problem has finally been licked, comes a renegade android, very well impersonated by Rip Torn, who as they say on the show, has broken his conditioning. That is, he pats girls and sometimes almost kills them. His master, Kevin McCarthy, hasn't done a lick of work since he was born, living off the sweat of his android's brow. Both of them have to take to their heels whenever the android breaks the law, hopping from planet to planet, one step ahead of the forces of justice.

Despite the fact that the androids refer contemptuously to human beings as people who suffer from glandular disorders called emotions, Mr. Torn wants very much to suffer from these disorders himself. Eventually, he does. I have no intention of unravelling the whole plot which was not so much complicated as psychologically dense. If I understood him correctly, Mr. Bester is trying to say that having androids to free us of mundane preoccupations like work is by no means good for us. His humans are prety close to being bums.

Buried in there also was a rather ironic plea for tolerance. There was a shot of a Negro actor strenuously objecting to allowing androids the same accommodations on space ships as humans. The NAACP won't like that a bit. As an exercise in live television drama, I found it all fascinating but unconvincing. His characters —his girl, boy, scientists, and android — were all pretty much Everyman, which is to say cardboard cutouts.

Production and direction by Alex March were very striking and professional.

I don't know what it is this year that has driven us into the nether world. Certainly the best and most original anthology series of the year is Rod Serling's "Twilight Zone" which is very much on the outer fringes of reality. The stories are marvelously ingenious exercises in fantasy that border on fact. In short, they could almost be true. It's almost as if the writers are feeling the same urge as the astronauts —to break through conventional bounds of this planet and go live somewhere else, some other planet, some other reality.

And just as our flights into space are pretty crude, the writers' efforts to get out of this world are pretty crude, too. I don't think we have anyone who writes of the next world with the resounding authority of H. G. Wells or Aldous Huxley.

Henry James's "Turn of the Screw" is a ghost story but very much an old ghost story with nineteenth century whiskers all over its chin and a lot of loose talk about innocence and evil — two words that have passed out of the language in this age of psychiatrists. Ingrid Bergman was a marvelously passionate nurse in whose actions you could read almost anything you wished.

John Frankenheimer's direction, which got a little too baroque for its own good in "People Kill People Sometimes," was marvelously compelling, surefooted, and sweeping. It has grandeur which this old tale sure needs. It was a chiller, all right. I hope Miss Bergman comes back in something warmer some time.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

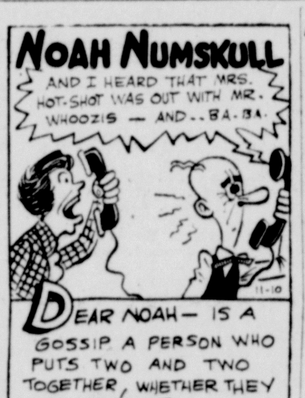

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

A well chosen sequence of bids led to a virtual laydown slam today.

South opened in third position with one spade, and North was faced with the problem of making the most appropriate response.

A bid of three spades was quickly dismissed. Such a call after a previous pass is not forcing and allows partner the option to pass if he has opened a minimum hand. If a direct raise in spades were to be given, four would be the choice in order to be sure that game would be reached. (It will be observed that after a previous pass, a raise to four spades is stronger than a raise to three.)

North concluded that even a four spade bid might not do justice to the holding which, when revalued in support of spades, becomes worth 14 points and, in full confidence that South would bid again, made a jump shift of three diamonds.

It has long been the firm conviction of this department that a jump in a new suit by a passed hand should be forcing for one round on partner even when the opening has been made on shaded values. This provides responder with greater ease of bidding and, at the very worst, results in playing at a contract one level higher.

South naturally bid three hearts, and North thereupon jumped to four spades. It seemed an ideal hand for the Blackwood convention, so South made the inquiry and, upon confirmation that his partner held one ace, he contracted for six spades. The contract came home with relative ease, after the opening king of clubs lead.

Glamor Issues Dominate Trendless Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Glamor issues dominated an otherwise trendless stock market in an atmosphere of typical holiday trading.

With most of the financial district shut down in observance of Veteran's Day, trading ambled along at a quiet pace until late in the day when some acceleration was noted.

The market as a whole showed little change in the leading averages and finished with a net nominal gain.

Electronic issues at their best levels of the day showed gains of 2 to 13 points. Traders bid up Motorola 9½ points to 144½, Litton Industries 7 to 140½ and Wagner Electric 6 to 92. Other good gains in this section appeared in General Time, Ampex and Texas Instruments, all up 3 or more.

Market news for the most part was favorable. Steel news, for instance, continued to make good reading with operations pointing sharply higher next week by United States Steel.

Volume slipped to 2,820,000 shares from 3,020,000 shares the day before. The market narrowed to 1,144 issues, against 1,208 on Tuesday. Of these 491 advanced, 419 declined and 234 held unchanged. New highs for the year outnumbered new lows 29 to 22.

American motors again was the most active issue traded with 99,800 shares.

CRANBERRY WARNING DISPUTED—A chemist, George Miller, analyzes cranberries at the Food and Drug Administration in Seattle, Wash., after the Government in Washington, D. C., warned of possible peril. Traces of weed killer, aminotriazole, which reportedly produced thyroid cancer in rats, has been found in berries from Oregon and Washington but industry spokesmen and a New Jersey chemist said the amount is "so small" that it would cause no harm. The doubt raised in many minds may eliminate a traditional favorite (bottom) from the Thanksgiving table when housewives plan holiday meals.

Cotton Bowl Awaits Saturday's Verdicts

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Cotton Bowl committee is not likely to take any action on picking the visiting team for its Jan. 1 football game until after Saturday's games, one of its members said Wednesday.

The committee announced some time ago it had sent letters to Syracuse, Louisiana, Mississippi State, Tennessee, Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Penn State advising them they were under consideration for an invitation.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Last minute commission house selling dropped wheat and soybean prices, and other grains closed mixed Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to ⅝; corn up ⅛ to ⅜; oats unchanged to up ⅜; rye off ⅛ to ⅞; and soybeans off 2 to 2⅜.

Wheat trading was quiet, and most prices were easy. There was small commission house buying and a moderate commercial demand for March.

Exporters were the main buyers in corn, particularly in the Decmeber delivery. Other cash interests led the selling, and the northwest continued to sell March and May corn. Local buying developed soon after the opening, and offerings diminished.

Export subsidies were granted on 1,024,000 bushels of corn.

Oats advanced into new high ground again Wednesday as cash houses bought. Commission houses bought March, and local traders sold.

The rye market was dull Wednesday, and prices were steady.

Soybeans dropped nearly 2 cents after the opening bell, with most selling caused by a larger government crop estimate than had been expected. Most of the loss was recovered later as commercial and commission houses bought beans. Prices fell off again at the close.

Outside markets were mixed. The Canadian Exchange was closed for the holiday.

Glamor Issues Dominate Trendless Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Glamor issues dominated an otherwise trendless stock market in an atmosphere of typical holiday trading.

With most of the financial district shut down in observance of Veteran's Day, trading ambled along at a quiet pace until late in the day when some acceleration was noted.

The market as a whole showed little change in the leading averages and finished with a net nominal gain.

Electronic issues at their best levels of the day showed gains of 2 to 13 points. Traders bid up Motorola 9½ points to 144½. Litton Industries 7 to 140½ and Wagner Electric 6 to 92. Other good gains in this section appeared in General Time, Ampex and Texas Instruments, all up 3 or more.

Market news for the most part was favorable. Steel news, for instance, continued to make good reading with operations pointing sharply higher next week by United States Steel.

Volume slipped to 2,820,000 shares from 3,020,000 shares the day before. The market narrowed to 1,144 issues, against 1,208 on Tuesday. Of these 491 advanced, 419 declined and 234 held unchanged. New highs for the year outnumbered new lows 29 to 22.

American motors again was the most active issue traded with 99,800 shares.

CRANBERRY WARNING DISPUTED—A chemist, George Miller, analyzes cranberries at the Food and Drug Administration in Seattle, Wash., after the Government in Washington, D. C., warned of possible peril. Traces of weed killer, aminotriazole, which reportedly produced thyroid cancer in rats, has been found in berries from Oregon and Washington but industry spokesmen and a New Jersey chemist said the amount is "so small" that it would cause no harm. The doubt raised in many minds may eliminate a traditional favorite (bottom) from the Thanksgiving table when housewives plan holiday meals.

Cotton Bowl Awaits Saturday's Verdicts

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Cotton Bowl committee is not likely to take any action on picking the visiting team for its Jan. 1 football game until after Saturday's games, one of its members said Wednesday.

The committee announced some time ago it had sent letters to Syracuse, Louisiana, Mississippi State, Tennessee, Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Penn State advising them they were under consideration for an invitation.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Last minute commission house selling dropped wheat and soybean prices, and other grains closed mixed Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to ⅝; corn up ⅛ to ⅜; oats unchanged to up ⅝; rye off ⅛ to ⅞; and soybeans off 2 to 2⅜.

Wheat trading was quiet, and most prices were easy. There was small commission house buying and a moderate commercial demand for March.

Exporters were the main buyers in corn, particularly in the Decmeber delivery. Other cash interests led the selling, and the northwest continued to sell March and May corn. Local buying developed soon after the opening, and offerings diminished.

Export subsidies were granted on 1,024,000 bushels of corn.

Oats advanced into new high ground again Wednesday as cash houses bought. Commission houses bought March, and local traders sold.

The rye market was dull Wednesday, and prices were steady.

Soybeans dropped nearly 2 cents after the opening bell, with most selling caused by a larger government crop estimate than had been expected. Most of the loss was recovered later as commercial and commission houses bought beans. Prices fell off again at the close.

Outside markets were mixed. The Canadian Exchange was closed for the holiday.

Veterans Day Parade Seen By Thousands

Six Divisions March On Time

The popular song of yesteryear, "I Love a Parade," was in evidence here last night as thousands of local and area residents, both young and old, lined the streets of downtown Cumberland to witness the annual Veterans Day parade.

The air was crisp and the temperature about 50 degrees as the participants in the six-division parade, sprinkled with the music of bands and drum and bugle corps, marched along the parade route.

Blast In Night

The stillness of the night was broken by the blast from the artillery piece of Voiture 164, 40 and 8, which sounded the approach of the parade shortly before 8 p. m. at the intersection of Baltimore and South George Streets. Shrieks went up from the parade viewers.

Thomas F. Conlon Sr., veteran parade marshal, was in charge of last night's parade and was assisted by another veteran parade man, Raymond Farrell and Paul Weisenmiller, in charge of fifth and sixth divisions.

The parade was escorted by a city police cruiser driven by Officer Royce Clayton. Following the cruiser was Mr. Conlon who rode along the parade route.

The Marine Corps Color guard heralded the first division headed by the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps of Victory Post 155, American Legion, Westernport which played among other songs, "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Next in line of march were members of Headquarters Company, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Infantry Division, Maryland National Guard.

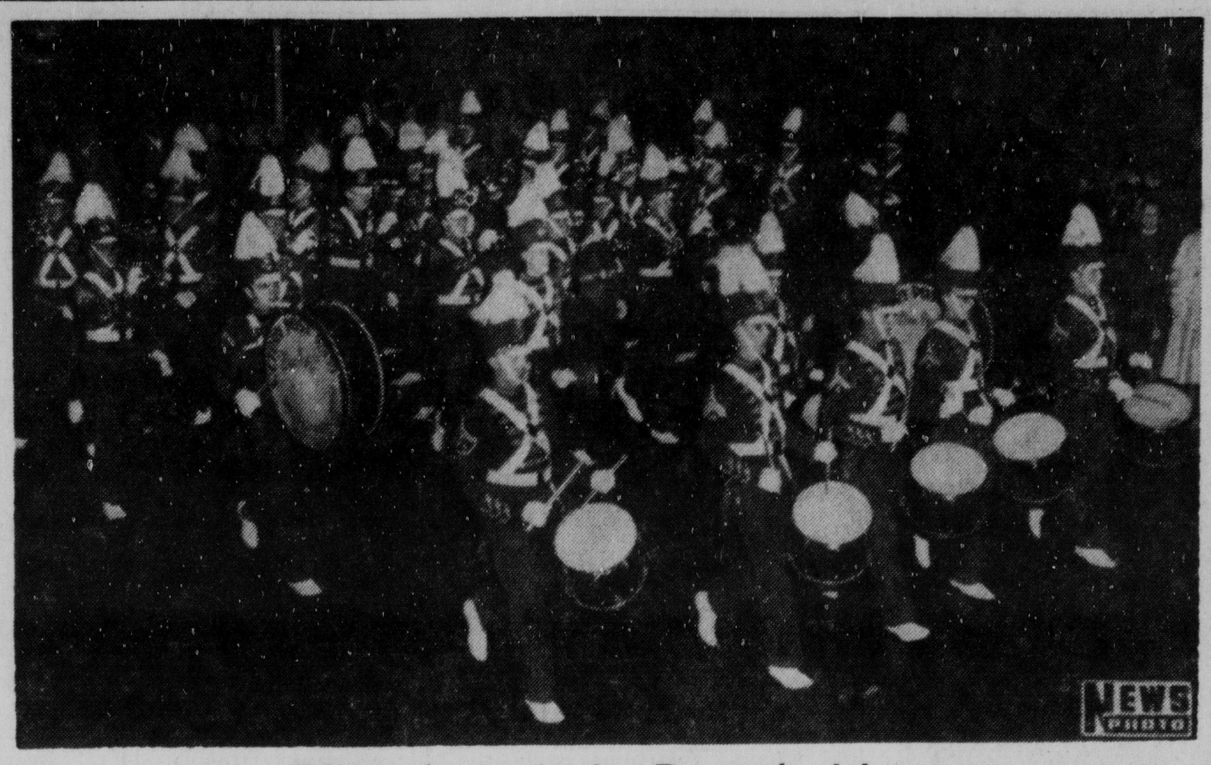

Members of the Bruce High School Band attired in their blue and grey uniforms headed the second division and were followed by Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion.

The Beall High School band members, dressed in gold and blue, led the third division. They were in line of march ahead of members of the 43d Rifle Company, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

The high-stepping majorettes of Allegany High School's band added eye appeal to the parade as the fourth division passed along the route. Members of Surface Division 5-9, Navy Reserve were next in line.

In his usual fashion Raymond Farrell took charge of the fifth division and a round of applause was heard as members of the

Blue Angels In Parade Here

17-Year-Old Boy Is Held On Two Charges

Youth Confined At Infirmary

A 17-year-old local boy was arrested yesterday by city police who said he is being held for action of Juvenile Court authorities in connection with the theft of a car and the larceny of money at a local tavern on two separate occasions.

City Police Detective Lieutenant James E. Van said the boy, who has been living on West Side in an apartment with his sister, was taken to the detention quarters at the Allegany County Infirmary after being questioned yesterday at police headquarters.

Van said the boy admitted that he stole a car belonging to Frank Williams, who lives at 751 Kelly Boulevard.

The boy said he took the car after school Tuesday and drove it around city streets to the rear of the B&O station where he parked it.

Later in the day he rode in another car with Mr. Williams who was looking for his car. The boy told him where it was parked but did not say he had stolen it.

The boy told Van that about 12:35 a.m. yesterday he hid in a booth at a West Side tavern and when the operator and another man left the premises the youth said he went to the unlocked safe in the tavern and took about $60.

He also admitted taking between $40 and $45 from the tavern cash register about six weeks ago, purchased a radio from a local store for $20 and spent the rest of the money.

Yesterday Van and Detective Thomas J. See picked him up about noon. The boy admitted throwing his wallet with the money taken yesterday morning in some hedges on West Side near Allegany High School. Later the wallet containing about $60 was recovered.

Van said that when the boy saw the cruiser in the vicinity of the school, he ran, but was later apprehended.

Pre-Registration Set At Potomac State

Pre-registration for the second semester will be held at Potomac State College in Keyser today in order that a determination of size of classes for the second semester can be measured.

Short classes will be held for the regular hour-long morning classes in order that members of the student body will be able to meet with their advisors at 11 a. m.

The advisors will schedule classes in one of the more than 40 study programs which have been chosen by their advisees, so that college officials may determine the need for extra classes previous to the beginning of the second semester.

Jaycees Plan Program On Religion

Church Attendance Will Be Included

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will conduct a Religion in American Life campaign here in connection with the national observance to emphasize spiritual values through regular worship attendance.

During the program, increased support of all religious institutions will be emphasized and the importance of religion in community, family and personal life will be stressed. Cooperating with the Jaycees religious activities committee is the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

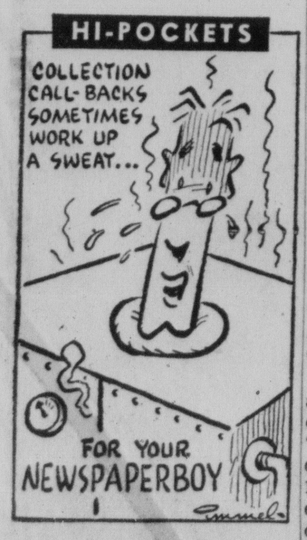

All activities will promote the national campaign, "Find the Strength for Your Life . . . Worship Together This Week."

In Cumberland, activities will include church attendance by the Jaycees as a group. Also table prayer cards will be placed in local restaurants and car decals promoting church attendance will be carried on Jaycee's cars.

Jimmie D. Flanagan, chairman for the RIAL committee, said the program was aimed at bringing to the attention of the public contribution of all churches and synagogues to the moral and spiritual welfare of the community.

Sponsored by 70 lay men and women of all faiths, the national RIAL program is supported by 26 national religious groups.

Hundreds of communities throughout the country will hold campaigns during the national observance which is held annually and is now in its 11th year.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Astaire Autobiography Available At Library

Fresh and amusing anecdotes about the theatre and Hollywood, enhanced by a pictorial history of more than 40 illustrations are included in "Steps in Time", an autobiography by Fred Astaire now available at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, library assistant, said the book is a story of the theatre, movies, television and international society.

She also pointed out that "Advise and Consent," by Allen Drury is a realistic novel set in the nation's capitol. This exciting current best-seller is considered by many to be one of the finest and most gripping political novels of our era.

Once again Inglis Fletcher has added another fine historical novel to her long list of successes. "Cormorant's Brood" is the story of North Carolina's history in the 1720's. Here are the stirring events of this period; here is a fascinating love story and the dramatic suspense of the colonists struggle for freedom and justice.

Outstanding among the recent biographies is "The Years With Ross" by James Thurber. This book presents a readable and revealing picture of Harold Wallace Ross, founder and editor of The New Yorker magazine. A Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

"Houdini: The Man Who Walked Through Walls" by William Lindsay Gresham is a fast-moving book and lively entertainment for all who are interested in magic. This biography, one of the most vivid, takes the reader behind the scenes and reveals the secrets of Houdini's famous illusions and effects.

For the junior readers in the 11-to-14 years group the library suggests "An Edge of the Forest" by Agnes Smith. This unusual book tells the story of a black leopardess and a strayed black lamb. The description of woods, meadows and valleys is especially fine as are the detailed stories of forest creatures. This is a Junior Literary Guild selection.

Reference Books Found In Court House Tell Of Maryland's Role In World War I

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A couple of slightly used reference books found on the floor in the basement of the Allegany County Court House not long ago probably constitute a typical symbol for the 41st anniversary of the end of World War I.

The two volumes are entitled "Maryland In The World War 1917-19." Published by the Maryland War Records Commission, these two volumes give a complete picture of the role the Free State and its citizens played in that war once called "The War To Make The World Safe For Democracy."

These books contain some 256 pages of information on various phases of the first World War with particular reference to the role Marylanders played. Then come 2,355 pages of detailed World War service records of everyone who entered the armed forces in that war while living in Maryland.

Real Records Here

Some people may pass themselves off as heroes but these books tell no lies. Those who were absent without leave or received dishonorable discharges are listed exactly for the record they made in service.

Allegany countians alphabetically from Harry Carlton Aaron, who lived at 85 Goethe Street, to Leo J. Zitzman, 414 Fayette Street, are cited with a brief sketch on the war service record of each.

In the very first chapter of the first volume the reader will get a brief and succinct idea of the awful havoc caused by that war. Some 7,485,600 battle deaths occurred in that war. Russia suffered the greatest loss by death, 1,700,000, while Germany had 1,600,000 and France 1,385,300. The United States, which did not enter that war until April 6, 1917, had 50,300 deaths, 12th in rank.

A series of statistical tables give a clear picture of the number of Marylanders who served in the first World War.

51,914 In Army

One table shows that 51,914 Marylanders were in the U. S. Army. Among them were 2,893 from Allegany County and 664 from Garrett County. Of the total 709 had their service terminated under conditions other than honorable. Some 1,529 of these Maryland soldiers died in service, 645 in battle and 884 from other causes under honorable conditions.

Some 9,413 Marylanders were in the U. S. Navy during the first World War, including 194 from Allegany County and 18 from Garrett County. Some 169 of these Maryland sailors died in service under honorable conditions, 24 of them from enemy action.

The U. S. Marine Corps claimed 1,241 Marylanders in World War I and 122 were from Allegany County and 22 from Garrett County.

Listed on the honor roll of those who died under honorable conditions in World War I were 106 from Allegany County and 35 from Garrett County.

Another section of the first volume lists the winners of decorations and citations in that first World War. The only Marylander to win the Congressional Medal of Honor in that war of more than 40 years ago was Henry Gilbert Costin, whose last address was 1041 Myrtle Avenue in Baltimore. A private first class in Company H of the 115th Infantry, he was overseas from June 15, 1918, until his death October 8, 1918, near Bois-de-Consenvoye, France.

Here's what the reference book says about him:

"When the advance of his platoon had been held up by machine-gun fire and a request was made for an automatic rifle team to charge the nest, Private Costin was the first to volunteer. Advancing with his team, under terrific fire of enemy artillery, machine guns and trench mortars, he continued after all his comrades had become casualties and he himself had been seriously wounded. He operated his rifle until he collapsed. His act resulted in the capture of about 100 prisoners and several machine guns. He succumbed from the effects of his wounds shortly after the accomplishment of his heroic deed."

There were 33 Marylanders awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in the first World War and the names of three men well known to most Marylanders are spotted among the list.

The three are David John Markey of Frederick County, then a Major, who was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate and the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District; Milton Atchison Reckord, then a Colonel, who has been Maryland's Adjutant General for years, and Millard Evelyn Tydings, who served in the U. S. Senate as a Democrat from 1927 until 1951. He was a Lieutenant Colonel.

Discover of the two volumes at the Court House was John R. Kelly, himself a veteran of World War I, who is serving as chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors. They are now in his possession.

Apparently the books once were in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court but got shunted to the basement to make room for records considered more important.

Former Local Woman Slain In Tennessee

A former local woman, who was the wife of an Army officer, was shot to death early Monday morning in a car parked outside a roadhouse several miles from Jackson, Tenn.

Mrs. Margaret (Thompson) Jobson, 36, wife of Captain Robert Jobson, was shot three times with a .38 police revolver by C. W. Beard, 37, a suspended policeman of the Jackson Police Department. Beard turned the gun on himself after shooting Mrs. Jobson. He died enroute to a local hospital.

Jackson police said that Beard had been suspended several weeks ago for failing to report for duty on numerous occasions recently.

Capt Jobson also is a former resident of Cumberland, and is presently stationed in Cambodia, Indo-China.

Beard, Mrs. Jobson and several other couples had been in the roadhouse and when they left one of the other couples made arrangements to meet at another nightclub. Later on the other couple went back to the roadhouse when Beard and Mrs. Jobson did not show up.

They found Beard and Mrs. Jobson seated in a car with Mrs. Jobson dead and Beard still alive. The body of Mrs. Jobson is being held at a local mortuary pending the arrival of Captain Jobson from Cambodia.

Captain Jobson served in the Army during World War II and then continued in military service. He has served in many foreign posts during the past dozen years.

Police, Firemen's Ball Scheduled Friday Night

The 37th annual Police and Firemen's Ball will be held tomorrow night at Clarysville Inn with music for dancing by Peter Lukas and his orchestra.

City Fireman Arthur Nave, chairman, said last night that dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Co-chairmen are Assistant Fire Chief Robert Long and City Police Officer John Chaney.

Proceeds from the annual dance will be used for sick, accident and death benefits of members of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association here.

Allegany High Class Reunion Is Planned

Those who are interested but unable to attend the organizational meeting are requested to contact Robert Hutcheson PA 4-1091 or Donald F. Garlitz, PA 2-3667.

Fort Hill Band To Present Concert

The Fort Hill High School band will present a concert today at 7:30 p.m. at John Humbird Street School.

The concert is being sponsored by the school PTA and the committee in charge of the program includes Mrs. Doris Whiteman, Mrs. Myrna Kunis and Mrs. David Smith.

ACEI Sponsors Two Workshops For Teachers

Art In Education Is Chapter Theme

Two workshops in the field of art are being sponsored by Allegany County Chapter, Association Childhood Education International, according to Miss Mary Straw, local ACEI president and principal at Ellerslie Elementary School.

In collaboration with Theodore P. Foote, Allegany County supervisor of art, the program is being arranged in keeping with the 1959-60 theme of ACEI, "Art in Childhood Education."

Both workshops will be held at Northeast Elementary School with the first on February 4 and the second on March 3.

A questionnaire is now being sent to all elementary teachers in the county, with each teacher asked to make a first, second and third choice of subjects and media to be worked with at the workshop sessions. These include simplified printing techniques, such as stamping, block printing, silk screen, monotypes etc.; papier mache, such as masks, figures, ornaments, etc.; drawing and printing, including a variety of techniques and materials; simplified weaving and stitching, emphasizing creative use of yarns, fabrics and related materials; and modeling and dimensional forms, using clay, wood, wire, soap, wax, plaster, paper, etc.

After the questionnaires are tabulated, Mr. Foote said that a decision to meet with the wishes of the majority will be reached and a program will be announced. Mr. Foote said a number of art teachers in the county's schools have agreed to assist him in conducting the two workshops, and many teachers have expressed considerable interest.

The 1959-60 Art Theme of ACEI was inaugurated at the recent fall dinner of the chapter, when Mr. Foote spoke on "Art in Childhood Education" and proposed the workshop or some similar idea as an aid to teachers. Miss Straw said the ACEI welcomes the opportunity to sponsor these and to cooperate in every way.

Mr. Foote believes that art is an important part of today's teaching. Experience, understanding and knowledge of techniques and procedures in the use of art media helps for a clearer understanding of all the arts and much of everything else in common use today.

To the skeptics he suggests, "Can you imagine a world without art? Would there be a house or a bridge or an automobile without art? Would there be a picture or patterns on the printed page, or would there be furniture, or fabrics or funny papers?"

The art supervisor said an effort will be made to make the workshops and workshop programs meaningful and helpful to all teachers who participate.

ACEI will complete its annual program this school term with a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Club on April 22, 1960. One of the leading American exponents of art in childhood education, Dr. Viktor Lowenfeld, head of the Department of Art Education, Pennsylvania State University, will be the guest speaker at that affair.

Raymond Skidmore, principal at Northeast Elementary School, is serving as publicity chairman for ACEI and its workshops.

Keyser Man Must Face Two Counts

Shaw Freed Under Bond Of $2,000

A 42-year-old Keyser man was arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Miss Madalyn Bazzle on charges of felonious assault and robbery of another Keyser resident.

George Shaw was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Keyser Police following a fight which resulted in the hospitalization of C. L. Hiland, 42.

Miss Bazzle set bond at $1,000 on each charge and Shaw was released after posting bond. A preliminary hearing in the case is scheduled November 19 in Miss Bazzle's office in Keyser.

Keyser Police Chief Guy F. Clem and Patrolman Harry Stewart were called Tuesday to a garage apartment owned by Mr. Hiland by neighbors who said there was a disturbance there.

When the officers arrived they found Mr. Hiland badly beaten about the face and head. Shaw was standing nearby with a hatchet in his hand. The injured man was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital and was released yesterday.

Both men are employes of the B&O Railroad Company.

National Guard Officers Busy On Holiday

Officers of the First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Infantry Division, Maryland National Guard, had a busy day yesterday in that they attended a birthday luncheon in Baltimore and also participated in the Veterans Day parade here last night.

Colonel Randolph Millholland and Colonel Robert C. Matlick and 18 other officers of the battalion attended a luncheon at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore honoring Major General Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland who observed his 80th birthday.

Among the speakers was Governor J. Millard Tawes, who referred to General Reckord as "Mr. National Guard." During World War I he was a Colonel and in the second World War was a Theatre Provost Marshal in Europe.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Machover, Levittown, N.Y., announce the birth of a daughter there. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Machover, 116 Columbia Street. Mr. Machover is manager of the OPO Store here.

Mr. and Mrs. Darius N. Brant, Morgantown, W.Va., announce the birth of a son there Tuesday. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl White, this city. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Brant, also of this city.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Twigg, RFD 5, city, a daughter last night.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Mencer Jr., 548 Pine Avenue, a son yesterday.

Veterans Day Marked

A Veterans Day program was held yesterday at the War Memorial in Mt. Savage and was sponsored by Old Rail Post 6025, VFW, and Cardinal Mooney Circle 1225, Columbian Squires. The raising of the flag was by Lloyd Wade, left, scoutmaster in Mt. Savage, and Carl Neder, right, past commander of the VFW post and chairman of the military committee of the veteran's organization.

$100,000 Action Resumes Today At Keyser

Mrs. Mildred Becker Seeks Damages

A $100,000 damage suit trial which opened yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser will continue this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when additional witnesses will be called upon to testify.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Mildred Becker, 40, of New Creek, against Roy Walker, of Piedmont, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company as a result of injuries she claims she suffered in a two-car accident April 1 last year.

At the time of the accident, the plaintiff was employed by the Keyser Undergarment plant. Mr. Walker, who is assistant superintendent of the pulp mill at Luke, was en route to Covington, Va. on business when the accident occurred.

During the trial yesterday, Attorney Charles W. Smith, who made the opening statement on her behalf, said that Mrs. Becker was on her way home in her car and stopped the vehicle to make a left hand turn.

At that point a car driven by Mr. Walker struck the rear of the Becker car, Attorney Smith said. He is being assisted by Attorney H. G. Shores of Keyser.

The plaintiff claims she suffered injuries to her back, neck and leg in the accident. State Senator Ralph Bean of Moorefield, who made the opening statement on behalf of the defense, is being assisted by John Hamilton and James Swadley Jr. both of Keyser.

The defense counsel claims the plaintiff gave no signal prior to the crash and that the front of the car was across the white line on the highway.

Dr. Paul Healy, who testified yesterday, said that Mrs. Becker is 35 to 40 per cent disabled. The plaintiff claims she has to wear a back brace due to injuries sustained in the accident.

Trooper Robert Noeschel, who was the arresting officer, charged Mr. Walker with hazardous driving. The defendant paid a fine on the charge.

Judge Ernest A. See is presiding. The trial is being heard by five women and seven men on the petit jury. The case is expected to be completed today.

Man Indicted For Murder By Garrett Jury

The Garrett County grand jury Tuesday returned a true bill indicting Ronald W. Guard, of Friendsville, on a charge of first degree murder.

Members of the September grand jury were recalled by Judge Neil C. Fraley to consider the case after the court had refused a writ of habeas corpus filed by Guard's attorney, Lewis R. Jones.

Guard was arrested after George Raymond Schroyer, 40, a Friendsville tavern operator, was shot and killed early Sunday morning, October 25, in front of his place of business. Schroyer died from a bullet wound in the right side of his head.

Sheriff James E. Frantz preferred a murder charge against Guard after he was taken into custody. Magistrate Robert M. Maroney held Guard for action of the grand jury without bond.

Judge Fraley recalled the grand jury because he felt that Guard was entitled to trial without waiting until the March grand jury convened. An early trial has been indicated.

Investigating officers said there were several eyewitnesses to the shooting and that conflicting stories had been told. Guard told Sheriff Frantz the revolver discharged accidentally as he attempted to break up a tussle between Schroyer and Raymond Coddington. Police were told that Coddington and Schroyer were not fighting but just "acting the fool" and "horsing around."

Guard was officially relieved of his position as constable by the Garrett County Commissioners, who had appointed him several months ago upon recommendation of the Democratic State Central Committee. Guard was also assisting in the collection of dog license money from residents of the county who owned such animals. He was an unsuccessful candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket in the election last year.

Veterans Day Parade Seen By Thousands

Six Divisions March On Time

The popular song of yesteryear, "I Love a Parade," was in evidence here last night as thousands of local and area residents, both young and old, lined the streets of downtown Cumberland to witness the annual Veterans Day parade.

The air was crisp and the temperature about 50 degrees as the participants in the six-division parade, sprinkled with the music of bands and drum and bugle corps, marched along the parade route.

Blast In Night

The stillness of the night was broken by the blast from the artillery piece of Voiture 164, 40 and 8, which sounded the approach of the parade shortly before 8 p. m. at the intersection of Baltimore and South George Streets. Shrieks went up from the parade viewers.

Thomas F. Conlon Sr., veteran parade marshal, was in charge of last night's parade and was assisted by another veteran parade man, Raymond Farrell and Paul Weisenmiller, in charge of fifth and sixth divisions.

The parade was escorted by a city police cruiser driven by Officer Royce Clayton. Following the cruiser was Mr. Conlon who rode along the parade route.

The Marine Corps Color guard heralded the first division headed by the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps of Victory Post 155, American Legion, Westernport which played among other songs, "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Next in line of march were members of Headquarters Company, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Infantry Division, Maryland National Guard.

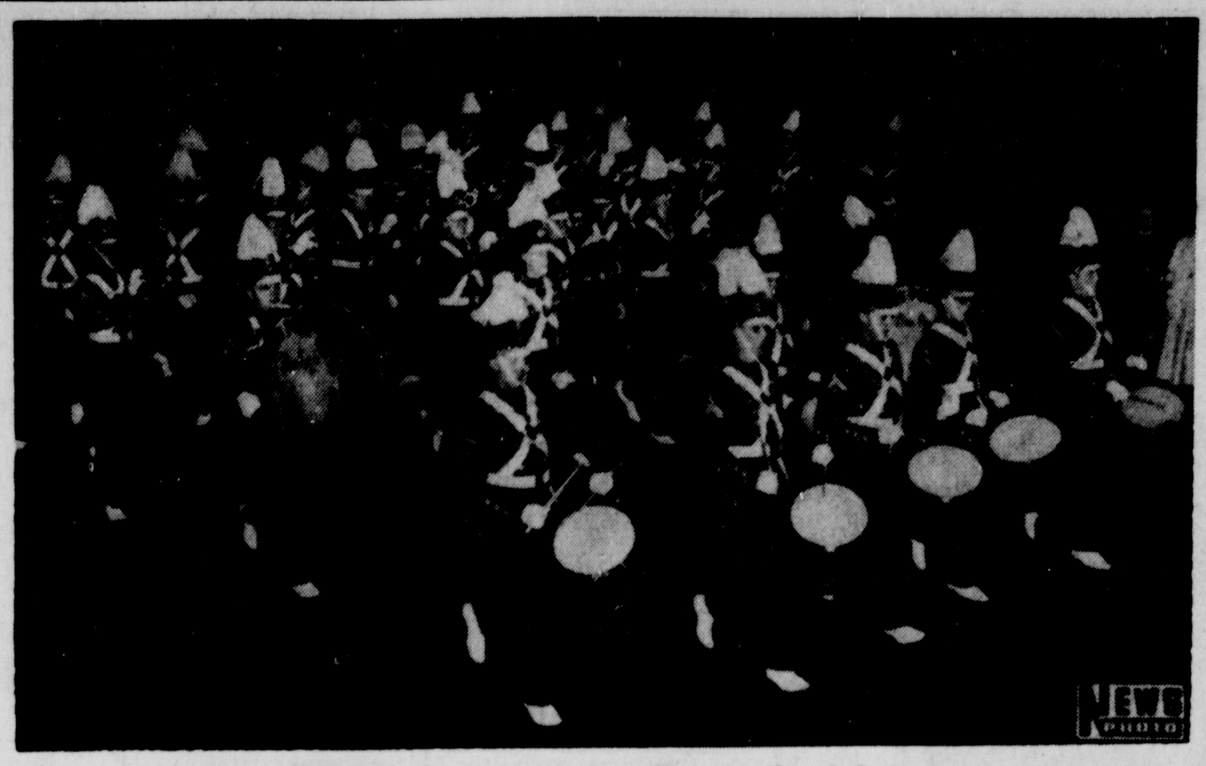

Members of the Bruce High School Band attired in their blue and grey uniforms headed the second division and were followed by Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion.

The Beall High School band members, dressed in gold and blue, led the third division. They were in line of march ahead of members of the 43d Rifle Company, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

The high-stepping majorettes of Allegany High School's band added eye appeal to the parade as the fourth division passed along the route. Members of Surface Division 5-9, Navy Reserve were next in line.

In his usual fashion Raymond Farrell took charge of the fifth division and a round of applause was heard as members of the

17-Year-Old Boy Is Held On Two Charges

Youth Confined At Infirmary

A 17-year-old local boy was arrested yesterday by city police who said he is being held for action of Juvenile Court authorities in connection with the theft of a car and the larceny of money at a local tavern on two separate occasions.

City Police Detective Lieutenant James E. Van said the boy, who has been living on West Side in an apartment with his sister, was taken to the detention quarters at the Allegany County Infirmary after being questioned yesterday at police headquarters.

Van said the boy admitted that he stole a car belonging to Frank Williams, who lives at 751 Kelly Boulevard.

The boy said he took the car after school Tuesday and drove it around city streets to the rear of the B&O station where he parked it.

Later in the day he rode in another car with Mr. Williams who was looking for his car. The boy told him where it was parked but did not say he had stolen it.

The boy told Van that about 12:35 a.m. yesterday he hid in a booth at a West Side tavern and when the operator and another man left the premises the youth said he went to the unlocked safe in the tavern and took about $60.

He also admitted taking between $40 and $45 from the tavern cash register about six weeks ago, purchased a radio from a local store for $20 and spent the rest of the money.

Yesterday Van and Detective Thomas J. See picked him up about noon. The boy admitted throwing his wallet with the money taken yesterday morning in some hedges on West Side near Allegany High School. Later the wallet containing about $60 was recovered.

Van said that when the boy saw the cruiser in the vicinity of the school, he ran, but was later apprehended.

Pre-Registration Set At Potomac State

Pre-registration for the second semester will be held at Potomac State College in Keyser today in order that a determination of size of classes for the second semester can be measured.

Short classes will be held for the regular hour-long morning classes in order that members of the student body will be able to meet with their advisors at 11 a. m.

The advisors will schedule classes in one of the more than 40 study programs which have been chosen by their advisees, so that college officials may determine the need for extra classes previous to the beginning of the second semester.

Reference Books Found In Court House Tell Of Maryland's Role In World War I

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A couple of slightly used reference books found on the floor in the basement of the Allegany County Court House not long ago probably constitute a typical symbol for the 41st anniversary of the end of World War I.

The two volumes are entitled "Maryland In The World War 1917-19." Published by the Maryland War Records Commission, these two volumes give a complete picture of the role the Free State and its citizens played in that war once called "The War To Make The World Safe For Democracy."

These books contain some 256 pages of information on various phases of the first World War with particular reference to the role Marylanders played. Then come 2,355 pages of detailed World War service records of everyone who entered the armed forces in that war while living in Maryland.

Real Records Here

Some people may pass themselves off as heroes but these books tell no lies. Those who were absent without leave or received dishonorable discharges are listed exactly for the record they made in service.

Allegany countians alphabetically from Harry Carlton Aaron, who lived at 85 Goethe Street, to Leo J. Zitzman, 414 Fayette Street, are cited with a brief sketch on the war service record of each.

In the very first chapter of the first volume the reader will get a brief and succinct idea of the awful havoc caused by that war. Some 7,485,600 battle deaths occurred in that war. Russia suffered the greatest loss by death, 1,700,000, while Germany had 1,600,000 and France 1,385,300. The United States, which did not enter that war until April 6, 1917, had 50,300 deaths, 12th in rank.

A series of statistical tables give a clear picture of the number of Marylanders who served in the first World War.

51,914 In Army

One table shows that 51,914 Marylanders were in the U. S. Army. Among them were 2,893 from Allegany County and 664 from Garrett County. Of the total 709 had their service terminated under conditions other than honorable. Some 1,529 of these Maryland soldiers died in service, 645 in battle and 884 from other causes under honorable conditions.

Some 9,413 Marylanders were in the U. S. Navy during the first World War, including 194 from Allegany County and 18 from Garrett County. Some 169 of these Maryland sailors died in service under honorable conditions, 24 of them from enemy action.

The U. S. Marine Corps claimed 1,241 Marylanders in World War I and 122 were from Allegany County and 22 from Garrett County.

Listed on the honor roll of those who died under honorable conditions in World War I were 106 from Allegany County and 35 from Garrett County.

Another section of the first volume lists the winners of decorations and citations in that first World War. The only Marylander to win the Congressional Medal of Honor in that war of more than 40 years ago was Henry Gilbert Costin, whose last address was 1041 Myrtle Avenue in Baltimore. A private first class in Company H of the 115th Infantry, he was overseas from June 15, 1918, until his death October 8, 1918, near Bois-de-Consenvoye, France.

Here's what the reference book says about him:

"When the advance of his platoon had been held up by machine-gun fire and a request was made for an automatic rifle team to charge the nest, Private Costin was the first to volunteer. Advancing with his team, under terrific fire of enemy artillery, machine guns and trench mortars, he continued after all his comrades had become casualties and he himself had been seriously wounded. He operated his rifle until he collapsed. His act resulted in the capture of about 100 prisoners and several machine guns. He succumbed from the effects of his wounds shortly after the accomplishment of his heroic deed."

There were 33 Marylanders awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in the first World War and the names of three men well known to most Marylanders are spotted among the list.

The three are David John Markey of Frederick County, then a Major, who was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate and the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District; Milton Atchison Reckord, then a Colonel, who has been Maryland's Adjutant General for years, and Millard Evelyn Tydings, who served in the U. S. Senate as a Democrat from 1927 until 1951. He was a Lieutenant Colonel.

Discover of the two volumes at the Court House was John R. Kelly, himself a veteran of World War I, who is serving as chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors. They are now in his possession.

Apparently the books once were in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court but got shunted to the basement to make room for records considered more important.

Jaycees Plan Program On Religion

Church Attendance Will Be Included

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will conduct a Religion in American Life campaign here in connection with the national observance to emphasize spiritual values through regular worship attendance.

During the program, increased support of all religious institutions will be emphasized and the importance of religion in community, family and personal life will be stressed. Cooperating with the Jaycees religious activities committee is the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

All activities will promote the national campaign, "Find the Strength for Your Life . . . Worship Together This Week."

In Cumberland, activities will include church attendance by the Jaycees as a group. Also table prayer cards will be placed in local restaurants and car decals promoting church attendance will be carried on Jaycee's cars.

Jimmie D. Flanagan, chairman for the RIAL committee, said the program was aimed at bringing to the attention of the public contribution of all churches and synagogues to the moral and spiritual welfare of the community.

Sponsored by 70 lay men and women of all faiths, the national RIAL program is supported by 26 national religious groups.

Hundreds of communities throughout the country will hold campaigns during the national observance which is held annually and is now in its 11th year.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Astaire Autobiography Available At Library

Fresh and amusing anecdotes about the theatre and Hollywood, enhanced by a pictorial history of more than 40 illustrations are included in "Steps in Time", an autobiography by Fred Astaire now available at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, library assistant, said the book is a story of the theatre, movies, television and international society.

She also pointed out that "Advise and Consent," by Allen Drury is a realistic novel set in the nation's capitol. This exciting current best-seller is considered by many to be one of the finest and most gripping political novels of our era.

Once again Inglis Fletcher has added another fine historical novel to her long list of successes. "Cormorant's Brood" is the story of North Carolina's history in the 1720's. Here are the stirring events of this period: here is a fascinating love story and the dramatic suspense of the colonists struggle for freedom and justice.

Outstanding among the recent biographies is "The Years With Ross" by James Thurber. This book presents a readable and revealing picture of Harold Wallace Ross, founder and editor of The New Yorker magazine. A Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

"Houdini: The Man Who Walked Through Walls" by William Lindsay Gresham is a fast-moving book and lively entertainment for all who are interested in magic. This biography, one of the most vivid, takes the reader behind the scenes and reveals the secrets of Houdini's famous illusions and effects.

For the junior readers in the 11-to-14 years group the library suggests "An Edge of the Forest" by Agnes Smith. This unusual book tells the story of a black leopardess and a strayed black lamb. The description of woods, meadows and valleys is especially fine as are the detailed stories of forest creatures. This is a Junior Literary Guild selection.

$100,000 Action Resumes Today At Keyser

Mrs. Mildred Becker Seeks Damages

A $100,000 damage suit trial which opened yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser will continue this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when additional witnesses will be called upon to testify.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Mildred Becker, 40, of New Creek, against Roy Walker, of Piedmont, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company as a result of injuries she claims she suffered in a two-car accident April 1 last year.

At the time of the accident, the plaintiff was employed by the Keyser Undergarment plant. Mr. Walker, who is assistant superintendent of the pulp mill at Luke, was en route to Covington, Va. on business when the accident occurred.

During the trial yesterday, Attorney Charles W. Smith, who made the opening statement on her behalf, said that Mrs. Becker was on her way home in her car and stopped the vehicle to make a left hand turn.

At that point a car driven by Mr. Walker struck the rear of the Becker car, Attorney Smith said. He is being assisted by Attorney H. G. Shores of Keyser.

The plaintiff claims she suffered injuries to her back, neck and leg in the accident. State Senator Ralph Bean of Moorefield, who made the opening statement on behalf of the defense, is being assisted by John Hamilton and James Swadley Jr. both of Keyser.

The defense counsel claims the plaintiff gave no signal prior to the crash and that the front of the car was across the white line on the highway.

Dr. Paul Healy, who testified yesterday, said that Mrs. Becker is 35 to 40 per cent disabled. The plaintiff claims she has to wear a back brace due to injuries sustained in the accident.

Trooper Robert Noeschel, who was the arresting officer, charged Mr. Walker with hazardous driving. The defendant paid a fine on the charge.

Judge Ernest A. See is presiding. The trial is being heard by five women and seven men on the petit jury. The case is expected to be completed today.

Man Indicted For Murder By Garrett Jury

The Garrett County grand jury Tuesday returned a true bill indicting Ronald W. Guard, of Friendsville, on a charge of first degree murder.

Members of the September grand jury were recalled by Judge Neil C. Fraley to consider the case after the court had refused a writ of habeas corpus filed by Guard's attorney, Lewis R. Jones.

Guard was arrested after George Raymond Schroyer, 40, a Friendsville tavern operator, was shot and killed early Sunday morning, October 25, in front of his place of business. Schroyer died from a bullet wound in the right side of his head.

Sheriff James E. Frantz preferred a murder charge against Guard after he was taken into custody. Magistrate Robert M. Maroney held Guard for action of the grand jury without bond.

Judge Fraley recalled the grand jury because he felt that Guard was entitled to trial without waiting until the March grand jury convened. An early trial has been indicated.

Investigating officers said there were several eyewitnesses to the shooting and that conflicting stories had been told. Guard told Sheriff Frantz the revolver discharged accidentally as he attempted to break up a tussle between Schroyer and Raymond Coddington. Police were told that Coddington and Schroyer were not fighting but just "acting the fool" and "horsing around."

Guard was officially relieved of his position as constable by the Garrett County Commissioners, who had appointed him several months ago upon recommendation of the Democratic State Central Committee. Guard was also assisting in the collection of dog license money from residents of the county who owned such animals. He was an unsuccessful candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket in the election last year.
